Woodbridge,2015-12-25 In this collection literary scholars theorists and historians deploy new economic techniques to illuminate English Renaissance literature in fresh ways Contributors variously explore poetry s precarious perch between gift and commodity the longing for family in The Comedy of Errors as symbolically expressing the alienating pressures of mercantilism Measure for Measure s representation of singlewomen and the feminization of poverty the collision between two views of money in a possible collaboration between Shakespeare and Middleton the cultural spread of an accounting mentality and quantitative thinking and money as it crosses the frontier between price and pricelessness and from early bodily injury insurance schemes to The Merchant of Venice A Sense of Inequality Wendy Bottero,2019-11-12 We have a detailed picture of how inequality impacts people s lives but a much weaker sense of how people perceive interpret and understand issues of inequality What shapes people s everyday understandings of inequality How are understandings of inequality located in everyday concerns moral values and principles of justice This book considers what provokes everyday views or framings of inequality It examines how different approaches can help us understand this process drawing on a range of literatures including social attitudes and perceptions research class identities and neoliberalism theories of the psychosocial affect and the abject social constructionism social movements research and pragmatism The book examines how troubling social situations come to be regarded as inequalities explores how they come to be understood as class gender racial or other kinds of inequality and considers how such inequalities come to be seen as susceptible to intervention and change The Corporate Responsibility Code Book Deborah Leipziger,2017-09-08 The Corporate Responsibility Code Book has become the go to guide for companies trying to understand the landscape of corporate responsibility and searching for their own unique route towards satisfying diverse stakeholders There is no one size fits all approach A company may face quite different challenges if it operates in more than one part of the world And yet stakeholders especially consumers and investors are keen for some degree of comparability with which they can evaluate corporate performance There are countervailing forces at work within corporate responsibility on the one hand is the need for convergence in order to simplify the large numbers of codes and standards and on the other hand the need to foster diversity and innovation Many of the best codes of conduct and standards are not well known while some CR instruments that are well disseminated are not terribly effective Some comprehensive codes of conduct achieve nothing while other quite vague codes of conduct become well embedded into the organization and foster innovation and change This landmark book explains the best CR instruments available and distils their most valuable elements In the fully revised third edition Deborah Leipziger widens her lens to provide detailed analysis of the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights the Gender Equality Principles and ISO 26000 while updating other key tools such as the Equator Principles the OECD guidelines and GRI s new G4 framework The

Sophocles and the Politics of Tragedy Jonathan N. Badger, 2013-03-05 Sophocles and the Politics of Tragedy is an inquiry into a fundamental political problem made visible through the tragic poetry of Sophocles In part I Badger offers a detailed exegesis of three plays Ajax Antigone and Philoctetes These plays share a common theme illuminating a persistent feature of political life namely the antagonism between the heroic commitment to the beautiful and the transcendent on the one hand and the community s need for bodily safety and material security on the other This conceptual structure not only helps us understand these plays but also establishes a distinctive vision of the tragic dimension of political life a vision that can be applied fruitfully to examinations of political projects quite distant from the world of fifth century Athens Such an application is the aim of part II in which Badger coordinates the results of the inquiries of part I and applies them to a consideration of the competing claims of three strands of medieval and early modern political philosophy ecclesiastical rule scientific domination and liberal government Badger identifies the last of these early modern liberalism as a tragic politics that seeks to sustain and contain the tension between transcendent longing and material need

The Blue Sapphire of the Mind Douglas E. Christie, 2012-12-04 There are no unsacred places the poet Wendell Berry has written There are only sacred places and desecrated places What might it mean to behold the world with such depth and feeling that it is no longer possible to imagine it as something separate from ourselves or to live without regard for its well being To understand the work of seeing things as an utterly involving moral and spiritual act Such questions have long occupied the center of contemplative spiritual traditions In The Blue Sapphire of the Mind Douglas E Christie proposes a distinctively contemplative approach to ecological thought and practice that can help restore our sense of the earth as a sacred place Drawing on the insights of the early Christian monastics as well as the ecological writings of Henry David Thoreau Aldo Leopold Annie Dillard and many others Christie argues that at the most basic level it is the quality of our attention to the natural world that must change if we are to learn how to live in a sustainable relationship with other living organisms and with one another He notes that in this uniquely challenging historical moment there is a deep and pervasive hunger for a less fragmented and more integrated way of apprehending and inhabiting the living world and for a way of responding to the ecological crisis that expresses our deepest moral and spiritual values Christie explores how the wisdom of ancient and modern contemplative traditions can inspire both an honest reckoning with the destructive patterns of thought and behavior that have contributed so much to our current crisis and a greater sense of care and responsibility for all living beings These traditions can help us cultivate the simple spacious awareness of the enduring beauty and wholeness of the natural world that will be necessary if we are to live with greater purpose and meaning and with less harm to our planet
