Correspondence and American Literature, 1770-1865 Elizabeth Hewitt, 2004-11-25 Elizabeth Hewitt uncovers the centrality of letter writing to antebellum American literature She argues that many canonical American authors turned to the epistolary form as an idealised genre through which to consider the challenges of American democracy before the Civil War The letter was the vital technology of social intercourse in the nineteenth century and was adopted as an exemplary genre in which authors from Crèvecoeur and Adams through Jefferson to Emerson Melville Dickinson and Whitman could theorise the social and political themes that were so crucial to their respective literary projects They interrogated the political possibilities of social intercourse through the practice and analysis of correspondence Hewitt argues that although correspondence is generally only conceived as a biographical archive it must instead be understood as a significant genre through which these early authors made sense of social and political relations in the nation

Nineteenth Century Prose, 1993 Transferring to America Rael Meyerowitz, 1995-09-14 This book uses recent psychoanalytic theory to analyze the work of three contemporary scholars Harold Bloom Stanley Cavell and Sacvan Bercovitch while viewing their work as expressing Jewish immigrant desires for integration into American culture The Social Self Joseph Alkana, 2014-10-17 American literary history of the nineteenth century as a conflict between individualistic writers and a conformist society In The Social Self Joseph Alkana argues that such a dichotomy misrepresents the views of many authors Sudden changes caused by the industrial revolution urban development increased immigration and regional conflicts were threatening to fragment the community and such writers as Nathaniel Hawthorne William James and William Dean Howells were deeply concerned about social cohesion Alkana persuasively reintroduces Common Sense philosophy and Jamesian psychology as ways to understand how the nineteenth century self society dilemma developed All three writers believed that introspection was the proper path to the discovery of truth They also felt Alkana argues that such discoveries had to be validated by society In these sophisticated readings of Hawthorne's short stories and The Scarlet Letter Howells's utopian Altrurian romances and James's The Principles of Psychology it becomes obvious that characters who isolate themselves from the community do so at considerable psychological risk The Social Self links these writers' interest in contemporary psychology to their concern for history and society Alkana's argument that nineteenth century expressions of individualism were defensive responses to the fear of social chaos radically revises the traditional narrative of American literary culture The Half-vanished Structure Magnus Ullén, 2004 This book takes issue with the tendency in twentieth century Hawthorne criticism to blur the distinction between symbolism and allegory Rejecting the long standing notion that Hawthorne is a symbolist in allegorical disguise Ullén argues that allegory is the key to understanding how religion sexuality aesthetics and politics are interwoven in Hawthorne's writings The study presents a model for allegorical interpretation of general applicability which is brought to bear on each of Hawthorne's mature romances and on the oft neglected Wonder Books written for children An unparalleled analysis of the formal intricacies of Hawthorne's writings this book is an eloquent plea for the necessity of grounding ideological analysis in aesthetic considerations Labor Pains Carolyn Maibor, 2013-03-07 This book explores the importance of work and its role in defining and developing the self Maibor reveals how the writings of Emerson Hawthorne and Alcott delve into notions of equality through this emphasis on labor In doing so she challenges the traditional view of Emerson as unconcerned with societal issues and opens the work of Hawthorne and Alcott to new feminist readings Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations for Fiscal Year 1980 United States.
