Schools How Parents Can Make A Difference:

Schools Making A Difference Thrupp, Martin, 1999-05-01 Does an effective school really come about through the actions of teachers and school leaders or does it also require an advantaged student intake This question reflects a longstanding research debate about whether or not the social class mix of a school s student intake has much effect on individual achievement Schools Making a Difference Let s Be Realistic presents new evidence which suggests that school mix is likely to be important because of the way many school processes are deeply influenced by student intake characteristics Low socioeconomic schools face numerous intake related constraints which make them highly resistant to improvement efforts By suggesting that failing schools are often overwhelmed rather than ineffective this book provides a sympathetic reappraisal of the performance of teachers and school leaders in such schools It also offers a critical response to the often unrealistic claims of the school effectiveness and school improvement movement and a fresh critique of market reforms in education

Parents and Schools in Partnership Anthony Alcide, 2025-10-08 The first book in a planned series Parents and Schools in Partnership responds to the growing call for partnership based involvement in schools as a means to enhance student academic achievement In today s rapidly evolving educational landscape schools can no longer operate in isolation but must instead draw on the school and wider community to meet their goals Drawing on extensive research in school improvement and parental involvement and the author s own experiences this book illustrates the powerful impact of fostering genuine partnerships that enable students to thrive academically socially and emotionally At a time when accountability is at the heart of education reform school community collaboration is increasingly recognized as an essential approach for improving education quality Featuring insights from leading education experts this book offers an integrated review of perspectives on how parental involvement influences student outcomes Practical strategies for meaningful collaboration are provided for schools and parents to overcome barriers and ensure that all students can reach their full potential Whether you are an educator school leader or parent Parents and Schools in Partnership equips you with the tools knowledge and inspiration needed to forge strong enduring partnerships that benefit students teachers and the wider community This book is a thorough study that extensively draws on academic literature while also reflecting the author s own insightful experiences It is truly one of the best studies I have encountered on this subject Dr Didacus Jules Director General of the OECS and Former Permanent Secretary Ministry of Education and Culture St Lucia The Contribution of Parents to School Effectiveness

Sheila Wolfendale, John Bastiani, 2025-08-05 School and educational achievement is dependent on many complex factors and is usually seen as the key outcome measure by which school effectiveness can be judged Originally published in 2000 this book aimed to establish whether or not educational achievement can in part be ascribed to the quality and range of home school links It provided a timely contribution to the continuing debate at the time on the pivotal relationship between schools and the families which form their constituencies Government initiatives such as the Literacy and Numeracy Strategies and

Sure Start acknowledged the importance of parental involvement This book enabled all those interested in education to evaluate the educational benefits of a home school relationship between pupils parents teachers and schools Food and Nutrition ,1979-04 Schools, how Parents Can Make a Difference Ethel L. Herr,1981 Choosing Schools Mark Schneider,Paul Teske,Melissa Marschall,2021-02-09 School choice seeks to create a competitive arena in which public schools will attain academic excellence encourage individual student performance and achieve social balance In debating the feasibility of this market approach to improving school systems analysts have focused primarily on schools as suppliers of education but an important question remains Will parents be able to function as smart consumers on behalf of their children Here a highly respected team of social scientists provides extensive empirical evidence on how parents currently do make these choices Drawn from four different types of school districts in New York City and suburban New Jersey their findings not only stress the importance of parental decision making and involvement to school performance but also clarify the issues of school choice in ways that bring much needed balance to the ongoing debate The authors analyze what parents value in education how much they know about schools how well they can match what they say they want in schools with what their children get how satisfied they are with their children s schools and how their involvement in the schools is affected by the opportunity to choose They discover most notably that low income parents value education as much as if not more than high income parents but do not have access to the same quality of school information This problem comes under sensitive thorough scrutiny as do a host of other important topics from school performance to segregation to children at risk of being left behind Teach My Kid- I Dare You! Sherrell Bergmann,Judith Brough,David Shepard,2013-11-07 This book shows you how to positively involve parents to raise student achievement It offers 10 steps for designing a comprehensive parent involvement program to increase communication between students parents and schools The authors offer practical strategies and activities for involving all parents monitoring under involved parents balancing over involved parents and assisting parents in urgent situations Against School Reform (and in Praise of Great Teaching) Peter S. Temes,2002 In this book Mr Temes who is president of the Great Books Foundation sets out a straightforward prescription for our schools which centers on the life of the individual teacher and rejects the billion dollar school reform What Can We Do When School's Not Working? Abigail Fisher,Naomi Fisher,Eliza Fricker,2025-04-21 An increasing number of children are struggling to attend school The conventional approach prioritises a rapid return to their setting For some children this simply doesn t work They are stuck not attending school but not learning out of school either What happens then and what can we do about it This illustrated guide lifts the lid on the experiences of children and families who are struggling within the school system and explores how we can work with these young people to maximise their chances of a positive and fulfilled life The book encourages professionals to take a new perspective and to consider what can be done differently It explores the ways in which difficulties with school are understood by children parents and professionals and shows how things can go wrong and right using real life examples from a range of settings Chapters delve into common interventions and the impact these can have in practice before introducing alternative approaches which have the child at the centre The voices of young people are foregrounded throughout shedding light on their struggles with attendance including when placements have completely broken down and importantly showing how they have gone onto success Original illustrations are included to bring these ideas to life Placing authentic experiences at the core this book offers a valuable insight into the lives of children and families when school has gone wrong and will leave you with new ideas as to how to turn things around What Can We Do When School s Not Working is essential reading for professionals working with children who are struggling with school attendance from SENCOs and educational support workers to educational psychologists senior leadership teams and local authorities
