

International Law

“Intervention”

1. Introduction:

When one state interferes in the affairs of another state through force then as a reaction against this violation, international law permits intervention. It is forcible and without the consent of the state where in the intervention is done. General Assembly of the United Nation has made non-intervention a duty of all the states. Intervention may affect internal or external affairs of another state.

2. Meaning of Intervention:

The term “intervention” is used by some writers in the expression “subversive intervention” to denote propaganda or other activity by one state into the affairs of another state.

3. Definition of Intervention:

➤ According to Oppenheim;

“Intervention is dictatorial interference by a state in the affairs of another state for the purpose of maintaining or altering the actual conditions of things”.

4. Form of Intervention:

Intervention may be diplomatic or military.

5. Kinds of Intervention:

Intervention has following kinds;
