papers on art architecture and heraldry to psychological examinations of aspects of colour categorization perception and preference Blackness at the Intersection Kehinde Andrews, Kimberlé Crenshaw, Annabel Wilson, 2024-02-08 A ground breaking collection applying Crenshaw s concept of intersectionality to the black diasporic experience in Britain In the 1980s Professor Kimberlé Crenshaw first coined the term intersectionality Since then the concept has spread across national and disciplinary boundaries and has had a transformative impact on the way in which we understand identity and the experience of discrimination But outside the US the application of intersectional theory has largely been disconnected from any analysis of Blackness despite intersectionality s origins in critical race theory CRT Curated by Crenshaw Andrews and Wilson as well as several of the leading scholars of CRT this collection bridges that gap and is the first to apply both these concepts to contexts outside the US Focusing on Blackness in Britain the contributors examine how scholars and activists are employing intersectionality to foreground Black British experiences Its essays encompass key issues such as gender and Black womanhood issues of representation within contemporary British culture and the position of Black Britons within institutions such as the family education and health The book also looks to the role intersectionality can play in shaping future political activism and in forging links beyond Blackness to other social movements Fingerprinting the Iron Age: Approaches to identity in the European Iron Age Cătălin Nicolae Popa, Simon Stoddart, 2014-09-30 Archaeology has long dealt with issues of identity and especially with ethnicity with modern approaches emphasising dynamic and fluid social construction The archaeology of the Iron Age in particular has engendered much debate on the topic of ethnicity fuelled by the first availability of written sources alongside the archaeological evidence which has led many researchers to associate the features they excavate with populations named by Greek or Latin writers Some archaeological traditions have had their entire structure built around notions of ethnicity around the relationships existing between large groups of people conceived together as forming unitary ethnic units On the other hand partly influenced by anthropological studies other scholars have written forcefully against Iron Age ethnic constructions such as the Celts The 24 contributions to this volume focus on the south east Europe where the Iron Age has until recently been populated with numerous ethnic groups with which specific material culture forms have been associated The first section is devoted to the core geographical area of south east Europe Bulgaria Croatia Romania Serbia and Slovenia as well as Albania and the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia The following three sections allow comparison with regions further to the west and the south west with contributions on central and western Europe the British Isles and the Italian peninsula The volume concludes with four papers which provide more synthetic statements that cut across geographical boundaries the final contributions bringing together some of the key themes of the volume The wide array of approaches to identity presented here reflects the continuing debate on how to integrate material culture protohistoric evidence largely classical authors looking in on first millennium BC societies and the impact of recent nationalistic agendas Scotland in Colour ... A Handbook of Scotland's Wild Harvests : The Essential Guide to Edible Species, with Recipes and Plants for Natural Remedies, and Materials to Gather for Fuel, Gardening and Craft Fi Martynoga,Emma Chapman,2012-08-23

when Malcolm Canmore's stately Saxon Queen Saint Margaret of Scotland was ferried across here on her way between the palace of Dunfermline and the Castle of Edinburgh. Edinburgh was not then nor for centuries after the Capital of Scotland but merely a useful stronghold near the Borders a great rock rising abruptly among woods and lochs and hills on which from before the earliest legends of history a fortress had stood an impregnable castle built so long ago that none knows its origin nor even the origin of its name. Stow's Chronicle indeed dates the foundation of the Castell of Maydens 989 B.C. which is a sensational date to mention lightly to the inquiring tourist from the newer world. It is supposed that the name Castell of Maydens was gained because in legendary days certain Pictish princesses were kept there for safety and certainly from those hazy times right on till the time of Mary Queen of Scots when she was sent to the Castle for security before the birth of King James. Edinburgh Castle has always been a useful place of safety to which to send royalties and rebels. The earliest authentic romance of Edinburgh Castle is that of Malcolm Canmore and Queen Margaret and the oldest building extant in Edinburgh is Queen Margaret's chapel in the Castle. The well known story of Queen Margaret the grand niece of Edward the Confessor is that she and her brother Edgar Atheling and her sister Christian all fled from England and William the Conqueror and were wrecked in the Firth of Forth. The King of Scotland Malcolm Canmore was the son of that Duncan whom Macbeth put out of the way in Scottish history as well as in Shakespeare's play and he had fled from the usurper and had spent his years of exile at the Saxon Court of Edward the Confessor. Accessibility, Inclusion, and Diversity in Critical Event Studies Rebecca Finkel, Briony Sharp, Majella Sweeney, 2018-09-14. Most early social research into planned events had the effect of broadcasting narratives of dominant cultures and privileged groups. More recently however convergences of gender sexualities ethnicities age class religion and intersectional analyses and events studies have started to drive new critical understanding of the impacts of events on non mainstream non majority communities around the globe. This timely book addresses current gaps in the literature surrounding issues of accessibility inclusion and diversity in various event landscapes. Structured into four parts covering the main types of events the chapters present original topics using innovative methodological approaches. Each chapter employs a case study to illustrate the key intertwining issues in these various experiential realms. Further the chapters are all cross or interdisciplinary drawing on gender sexualities cultural race ethnicity studies as well as multiple literatures that feed into critical events studies and exploring a variety of global examples. This significant book opens the path to further research on the role and importance of accessibility inclusion and diversity in events environments worldwide. It will be of interest to academics and researchers of critical event studies as well as a number of related social science disciplines.
