Environments for Outdoor Play Theresa Casey,2007-03-27 Theresa s book is full of lots of inspiring practical how to go about it ideas coupled with thought provoking and sometimes challenging comments and views The range of ideas and information contained in this book will go a long way to support the development of flexible imaginative yet not prescriptive play spaces that contribute to supporting children's play. A very readable and worthwhile publication to add to your resources.

Muriel Young Grounds for Learning: Learning Through Landscapes. This practical book helps the reader plan design and manage the kinds of settings that afford children the opportunities to carry out the wide range of self-directed activities that are so important to their development. It's ideal for community development workers, the organizers of after-school programs, children's hospital staff and groups of caring parents.

Roger A. Hart, Director of the Children's Environments Research Group, The Graduate School of the City University of New York. This readable and usable book is full of advice and ideas which will take every professional nearer to understanding the way to provide opportunities for children which the children themselves would want and enjoy. A necessary addition to the bookshelf for all interested in the subject.

PlayRights, Journal online journal of the International Play Association. Refreshing and insightful. One of the best things about this book is that Casey offers us a fresh perspective on our role. While we may long for a world where we opened the door and sent children outside to play, we are faced with the reality that for a variety of reasons these opportunities are no longer occurring naturally in our communities. It is incumbent upon us now to recreate these essential childhood opportunities. This will take intentional, thoughtful, informed design. Casey's book gives us some great starting points.

A must read.

PlayRights Magazine. I like the attention to individuality, children's perspectives and community. The author brings a strong playwork perspective to considering outdoor spaces which early years practitioners considering the design of new or refurbished areas should find valuable. It's crucial to free up our thinking about playful spaces and this book brings a refreshing focus on working from children's motivations for play using playful values such as choice, spontaneity, freedom and meaning-making to drive thinking, being careful not to over-design and the organic growth of a space into a place through the play that occurs.

Nursery World. Casey's extensive research and years of practice in award-winning play services are very much in evidence in the various techniques and ideas that she describes in this publication.

a great resource for any play setting considering setting up or developing their outdoor play space.

SOSCN News Update. If you are daunted but excited by the challenge of developing your outdoor spaces to meet the needs of all children, this book is an excellent resource.

Early Years Update. Exciting spaces to play are vital if we are to provide children with challenging, flexible, inclusive and stimulating opportunities to learn, develop and have fun together. This book provides readers with ideas for developing play environments that will meet the needs of the children in their care. It illustrates how improving the play environment also offers a better, more positive way of dealing with a number of issues from inclusion to playground management and the need to promote physical activity. It includes clear frameworks for designing play environments, case studies showing examples of how play environments can be developed, ideas and activities which lead to interesting designs with the participation of the children, practical examples, illustrations, research evidence showing the importance of good play environments. The book is aimed at practitioners and managers in all early years and children's play settings and students on education, early childhood, child care and playwork courses It is also very relevant to playground designers landscape architects and community education and development workers
