Screen Play Derrida And Film Theory:

Screen/Play Peter Brunette, David Wills, 2014-07-14 Peter Brunette and David Wills extend the work of Jacques Derrida into a new realm with rewarding consequences Although Derrida has never addressed film theory directly in his writings Brunette and Wills argue that the ideas he has developed in his critique of the logocentric foundations of Western thought especially his notion of Writing can be usefully applied to film theory and analysis They maintain that such an application might even begin to shift film from its traditional position within the visual arts to a new place in the media and information sciences This book also supplies a fascinating introduction to Derrida for the general reader The authors begin by explaining in political terms why film theorists have neglected Derrida's work Next they offer a Derridean critique of the assumptions of contemporary film studies Then drawing on his recently translated The Truth in Painting as well as on other relatively unknown texts such as Droit de regards they discuss his ideas in relation to the cinema and present two film analyses of Truffaut's The Bride Wore Black and of Lynch's Blue Velvet that attempt to demonstrate the notion of an anagrammatical radical reading practice Finally they focus on Derrida's neglected book The Post Card and situate cinema in terms of a new definition of the technological Originally published in 1989 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Screen Play Peter Brunette, David Wills, Script Culture and the American Screenplay Kevin Alexander Boon, 2008-01-10 By considering the screenplay as a literary object worthy of critical inquiry this volume breaks new ground in film studies Though the history of the screenplay is as long and rich as the history of film itself critics and scholars have neglected it as a topic of serious research Script Culture and the American Screenplay treats the screenplay as a literary work in its own right presenting analyses of screenplays from a variety of frameworks including feminism Marxism structuralism philosophy and psychology In distancing the text of screenplays from the on screen performance typically associated with them Kevin Alexander Boon expands the scope of film studies into exciting new territory with this volume Script Culture and the American Screenplay is divided into two parts Part 1 provides a general background for screenplay studies tracing the evolution of the screenplay from the early shot lists and continuities of George M. Cohan and Thomas Harper Ince to the more detailed narratives of contemporary works Part 2 offers specific primarily thematic critical examinations of screenplays along with discussions of the original screenplay and the screenplay adaptation In all Boon explains that screenplay criticism distinguishes itself from traditional film studies in three major ways The primary focus of screenplay criticism is on the screenplay rather than the film the focus of screenplay studies is on the screenwriter rather than the director and screenplay criticism like literary criticism is written to illuminate a reader's understanding of the text Boon demonstrates that whether we are concerned with aesthetics and identifying rules for distinguishing the literary from the non literary or whether we align ourselves with more contemporary theories which recognize texts as distinguishable in their inter relationships and marked difference screenplays constitute a rich cache of works worthy of critical examination Film scholars as well as students of film creative writing and literary studies will appreciate this singular volume

Between Film and Screen Garrett Stewart, 1999 What is the mysterious region between photography and the phenomenon of narrative cinema between the photogram a single film frame and the illusion of motion we recognise as movies

The Traces of Jacques Derrida's Cinema Timothy Holland, 2024 Situated at the intersection of film and media studies literary theory and continental philosophy The Traces of Jacques Derrida's Cinema provides a trenchant account of the role of cinema in the oeuvre of one of the most influential philosophers of the twentieth century Jacques Derrida 1930-2004 The book is animated by Derrida's self confessed passion for the movies his reluctance to write about film despite the range of his corpus and the generative encounters arising between his legacy and the field of film and media studies as a result Given the expanse of its references interdisciplinarity and consideration of Derrida's approach to the experience of both spectatorship and the act of being filmed The Traces of Jacques Derrida's Cinema contributes to the ongoing close analyses of the philosopher's work while also providing a rigorous introduction to deconstruction Author Timothy Holland interweaves historical and speculative modes of research and writing to articulate the peripheral yet surprisingly crucial place of the cinematic medium for Derrida and his philosophical enterprise The outcome is a meticulously detailed survey of the centers and margins of Derrida's oeuvre that include forays into such terrain as his notable appearances in films an unrealized project on cinema and belief that Derrida proposed in a 2001 interview the correspondences between the strategies of deconstruction and the traditions homecomings and wordplay of David Lynch's cinematic media and the questions wedded to the future of film studies amid the vicissitudes of the modern virtual university Ultimately Holland pursues the thinking activated by the flickering of Derrida's cinema not only the absence and presence of film in Derrida's professional and personal life but also the rigor of academic discourse and the pleasures of the movies ghosts and technology religious faith and scientific knowledge and ruination and survival as a critical chance for reflection

Saunders David Lynch Trevor Paglen Zach Blas and Low the study considers the cultural epistemological and ethical values of images and sounds that are fuzzy indeterminate distorted degraded or otherwise indistinct Rethinking Art and Visual Culture shows how opaque forms of art address problems of mediation knowledge and information It also intervenes in current debates about new systems of visibility and surveillance by explaining how indefinite art provides a critique of the positivist drive behind these regimes A timely contribution to media theory cinema studies American studies and aesthetics the book presents a novel and extensive analysis of the politics of transparency Downcast Eyes Martin Jay, 1993-10-01 Long considered the noblest of the senses vision has increasingly come under critical scrutiny by a wide range of thinkers who question its dominance in Western culture These critics of vision especially prominent in twentieth century France have challenged its allegedly superior capacity to provide access to the world They have also criticized its supposed complicity with political and social oppression through the promulgation of spectacle and surveillance Martin Jay turns to this discourse surrounding vision and explores its often contradictory implications in the work of such influential figures as Jean Paul Sartre Maurice Merleau Ponty Michel Foucault Jacques Lacan Louis Althusser Guy Debord Luce Irigaray Emmanuel Levinas and Jacques Derrida Jay begins with a discussion of the theory of vision from Plato to Descartes then considers its role in the French Enlightenment before turning to its status in the culture of modernity From consideration of French Impressionism to analysis of Georges Bataille and the Surrealists Roland Barthes's writings on photography and the film theory of Christian Metz Jay provides lucid and fair minded accounts of thinkers and ideas widely known for their difficulty His book examines the myriad links between the interrogation of vision and the pervasive antihumanist antimodernist and counter enlightenment tenor of much recent French thought Refusing however to defend the dominant visual order he calls instead for a plurality of scopic regimes Certain to generate controversy and discussion throughout the humanities and social sciences Downcast Eyes will consolidate Jay's reputation as one of today's premier cultural and intellectual historians

The Derrida Reader Jacques Derrida, 1998-01-01 In the English speaking world Jacques Derrida's writings have most influenced the discipline of literary studies Yet what has emerged since the initial phase of Derrida's influence on the study of English literature classed under the rubric of deconstruction has often been disowned by Derrida What then can Derrida teach us about literary language about the rhetoric of literature and about questions concerning style form and structure The Derrida Reader draws together a number of Derrida's most interesting and idiosyncratic essays that treat literary language the idea of the literary and questions of poetics and poetry The essays discuss single tropes or concepts a figure such as metaphor the ideas of titles and signatures proper names and Derrida's thinking on such subjects as undecidability or aporia The editor's introduction is a demonstration in practice of how Derrida reads and how he adapts the act of reading to the text or figure in question The introduction also outlines each essay's main points its usefulness for reading literary texts and its particular area of interest The Derrida Reader thus provides students of literature with a focused contextualized and readily understandable volume Anamorphic Authorship in Canonical Film Adaptation Robert Geal, 2019-05-21 This book develops a new approach for the study of films adapted from canonical originals such as Shakespeare's plays Departing from the current consensus that adaptation is a heightened example of how all texts inform and are informed by other texts this book instead argues that film adaptations of canonical works extend cinema's inherent mystification and concealment of its own artifice Film adaptation consistently manipulates and obfuscates its traces of original authorial enunciation and oscillates between overtly authored articulation and seemingly unauthored unfolding To analyse this process the book moves from a dialogic to a psychoanalytic poststructuralist account of film adaptations of Shakespeare's plays The differences between these rival approaches to adaptation are explored in depth in the first part of the book while the second part constructs a taxonomy of the various ways in which authorial signs are simultaneously foregrounded and concealed in adaptation's anamorphic drama of authorship
