three authors Charlotte Bront Charles Dickens and George Eliot depict the mind and organise emotion Chase approaches their works as expressive structures and analyses their struggle to accommodate rival imperatives in depicting personality desire and duty guilt and innocence love and autonomy The title begins with Bront s early Angrian tales which introduce the problem that unifies the book the attempt of Victorian fiction to escape the constraints of the romance mode while assimilating its energies There follow readings of The Pickwick Papers Jane Eyre Bleak House and Middlemarch in the light of such problems as confinement and exposure in Bront tragic doubt in Dickens and the image of the moral mind in George Eliot

Science in the Age of Sensibility Jessica Riskin, 2010-11-15 Empiricism today implies the dispassionate scrutiny of facts But Jessica Riskin finds that in the French Enlightenment empiricism was intimately bound up with sensibility In what she calls a sentimental empiricism natural knowledge was taken to rest on a blend of experience and emotion Riskin argues that sentimental empiricism brought together ideas and institutions practices and politics She shows for instance how the study of blindness led by ideas about the mental and moral role of vision and by cataract surgeries shaped the first school for the blind how Benjamin Franklin's electrical physics ascribing desires to nature engaged French economic reformers and how the question of the role of language in science and social life linked disputes over Antoine Lavoisier's new chemical names to the founding of

France's modern system of civic education Recasting the Age of Reason by stressing its conjunction with the Age of Sensibility Riskin offers an entirely new perspective on the development of modern science and the history of the Enlightenment
