Imagining Poverty Sandra Sherman, 2001 An interdisciplinary study of public attitudes towards the poor in Britain between 1790 and 1835 Sandra Sherman reconsiders a question that has challenged social historians for years: what changes in political, economic, and philosophical thought led to the New Poor Law of 1834? As new scientific methods of regulating the poor were adopted, such as statistics, cost accounting, and cost-benefit analyses, old-fashioned paternalism gave way to newer modalities in which the poor were not addressed as individuals but instead were managed en masse. The poor became poverty, a political-economic condition that could be managed from a distance by professionals who had no contact with individuals and made no accommodations to them Remaking the World James Roy King, 1996 In Remaking the World James Roy King weaves together strands of thought, creating a tapestry that mirrors John Dewey's pragmatism of sufficiencies. King uses the concept of activity sets, relatively stable combinations of activities that characterize every large-scale human enterprise, to explain
