Metals And Chemical Change:

Metals and Chemical Change D A Johnson, 2007-10-31 This book looks at how molecules react and how the feasibility and outcome of chemical reactions can be predicted Beginning with an introduction to the concept of an activity series of metals Metals and Chemical Change then introduces chemical thermodynamics enthalpy entropy and free energy and applies the concept to both inorganic and organic elements A Case Study on batteries and fuel cells is also included The accompanying CD ROM includes video sequences of the reactions of metals with water acid and aqueous ions and gives the reader an opportunity to make experimental observations and predictions about chemical behaviour A comprehensive Data Book of chemical and physical constants is included along with a set of interactive self assessment questions The Molecular World series provides an integrated introduction to all branches of chemistry for both students wishing to specialise and those wishing to gain a broad understanding of chemistry and its relevance to the everyday world and to other areas of science The books with their Case Studies and accompanying multi media interactive CD ROMs will also provide valuable resource material for teachers and lecturers The CD ROMs are designed for use on a PC running Windows 95 98 ME or 2000

Global Atmospheric Chemical Change C.N. Hewitt, W.T. Sturges, 2013-11-11 Air pollution has historically been viewed as a local or regional scale problem with attention focused on acute episodes such as the sulphur dioxide and smoke smogs of London in the 1950s and 1960s and the photochemical smogs of southern California first recognized by Haagen Smit in the early 1950s In recent years however it has become apparent that human activity has and still is changing the chemical composition of the atmosphere on a global scale The composition of the atmosphere has seen enormous changes due to natural processes since the formation of the planet Data obtained from air bubbles trapped in polar ice are beginning to reveal information about these changes over the last tens of thousands of years and geochemical models of the evolution of the Earth give us insights into the changes over much longer periods of time Perhaps the crucial differences between these natural changes and those now being induced by man are their relative rates of change The magnitude of present day fluxes of some compounds released as air pollutants is in some cases much larger than those arising naturally In other cases for example carbon dioxide the anthropogenic emission rates are small compared with that of the natural cycle but the kinetics of the system are such that the steady state concentrations of the compounds in the atmosphere are now being perturbed
