Metaphysical and Epistemological Problems of Perception Richard A. Fumerton, Metaphysical and Epistemological Problems of Perception Richard A. Fumerton,1985 Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1997 International Books in Print, 1995 Barbara Hopkinson,[Anonymus AC01401231],1995 Shakespeare Survey Kenneth Muir,2002-11-28 The first fifty volumes of this yearbook of Shakespeare studies are being reissued in paperback Guide to Reprints ,2008 The Eye and the Mind C. Landesman,1993-10-31 This book is a discussion of some of the major philosophical problems centering around the topic of sense perception and the foundations of human knowledge It begins with a characterization of our common sense understanding of the role of the senses in the acquisition of belief and it argues that scientific accounts of the processes of perception undermine salient parts of this understanding The naive point of view of direct realism cannot be sustained in the light of a scientifically instructed understanding of perception This critique of direct realism points to the correctness of the representative theory of perception characteristic of such early modern philosophers as Descartes and Locke and it also endorses the subjective turn that they defended It argues that these positions do not require introducing sense data into the picture and thus it avoids the intractable problems that the sense datum philosophy introduces In addition several versions of cognitive accounts of sense perception are criticized with the result that it is unnecessary to characterize sensory processes in intentional terms The book then turns to a leading question introduced into modern philosophy by Descartes and Locke the question of the accuracy of the information delivered by the senses to our faculty of belief In particular how accurate are our representations of the secondary qualities The case of color is considered in detail

Metaphysics of Perception Paul Coates,2007-09-12 This book is an important study in the philosophy of the mind drawing on the work of philosopher Wilfrid Sellars and the theory of critical realism to develop a novel argument for understanding perception and metaphysics The Rediscoverers, Major Writers in the Portuguese Literature of National Regeneration Ronald W. Sousa,1981 This book is a study in the social history of literature Portugal's power and prestige began to decline in the mid 1500's reducing the nation's international standing and self image to a low point from which it has never fully recovered In the ensuing years this book argues mythicizing the Age of the Discoveries and establishing a link to it have been recurring patterns in Portuguese thought These patterns are reflected in what is called the literature of national regeneration Portugal's days of glory were short lived from the capture of the Arab port of Ceuta in North Africa 1415 to the defeat by the Moors in present day Morocco 1578 The latter in which the Portuguese king and the cream of the nobility perished led to the accession of a Spanish king and to the end in the Portuguese consciousness of an era of greatness

The author's introduction discusses the impact on Portugal of two of the strongest intellectual currents of the age Renaissance Humanism and a late Medieval tendency toward prophecy showing these involved an extremely idealistic outlook on experience and that such idealism was subject to frustration Dr Sousa shows how the self image of writers since the Age of the Discoveries commingles in their minds with the image they have of their nation Chapters are devoted to Luis de Camoes and his epic poem Os Lusíadas 1572 Antonio Vieira and his Historia do Futuro 1647 63 Almeida Garrett and his lyric narrative poem Camões 1825 Eça de Queiroz and his novel A Ilustre Casa de Ramires 1900 and Fernando Pessoa and his volume of poetry Mensagem 1934 Each of these authors is shown to treat the preoccupations of his time ethical political and aesthetic but with the leitmotif of national regeneration The book's unique literary historical synthesis makes it valuable to both Hispanic scholars and those seeking an introduction to Portuguese literature The Book Review ,2000

Comprehensive Dissertation Index ,1989 ESQ. ,1985 Problems of Vision Gerald Vision,1997-01-09 In this book Gerald Vision argues for a new causal theory one that engages provocatively with direct realism and makes no use of a now discredited subjectivism Radical Philosophy ,1996 Perception Adam Pautz,2021-05-05 Perception is one of the most pervasive and puzzling problems in philosophy generating a great deal of attention and controversy in philosophy of mind psychology and metaphysics If perceptual illusion and hallucination are possible how can perception be what it intuitively seems to be a direct and immediate access to reality How can perception be both internally dependent and externally directed Perception is an outstanding introduction to this fundamental topic covering both the perennial and recent work on the problem Adam Pautz examines four of the most important theories of perception the sense datum view the internal physical state view the representational view and naïve realism assessing each in turn He also discusses the relationship between perception and the physical world and the issue of whether reality is as it appears Useful examples are included throughout the book to illustrate the puzzles of perception including hallucinations illusions the laws of appearance blindsight and neuroscientific explanations of our experience of pain smell and color The book covers both traditional philosophical arguments and more recent empirical arguments deriving from research in psychophysics and neuroscience The addition of chapter summaries suggestions for further reading and a glossary of terms make Perception essential reading for anyone studying the topic in detail as well as for students of philosophy of mind philosophy of psychology and metaphysics
