Felix Kaufmann's Theory and Method in the Social Sciences Robert S. Cohen, Ingeborg K. Helling, 2014-05-19 This volume contains the English translation of Felix Kaufmann's 1895/1945 main work Methodenlehre der Sozialwissenschaften 1936 In this book Kaufmann develops a general theory of knowledge of the social sciences in his role as a cross border commuter between Husserl's phenomenology Kelsen's pure theory of law and the logical positivism of the Vienna Circle This multilayered inquiry connects the value oriented reflections of a general philosophy of science with the specificity of the methods and theories of the social sciences as opposed to abstract natural science and psychology The core focus of the study is the attempt to elucidate how and under what conditions scientific knowledge about social facts empirically justified and theoretically embedded can be obtained The empirical basis of knowledge within the social sciences forms a phenomenological concept of experience According to Kaufmann this concept of experience exhibits a complex structure Within the meaning interpretation of human action as the core of knowledge in the social sciences this structure reaches out across the isolated act of verification toward the synthesis of external and internal experiences The book opens with a detailed and useful introduction by Ingeborg K Helling which introduces the historical and theoretical background of Kaufmann s study and specifically illuminates his relation to Alfred Sch tz and John Dewey Finally it contains interviews with and letters to members of his family colleagues and students

Developments in the Methodology of Social Science W. Leinfellner, Eckehart Köhler, 2012-12-06 Philosophy of Science deals with the problem What is science It seems that the answer to this question can only be found if we have an answer to the question How does science function Thus the study of the methodology of social sciences is a prominent factor in any analysis of these sciences The history of philosophy shows clearly that the answer to the question How does science function was the conditio sine qua non of any kind of philosophy of science epistemology and even of logic Aristotle Hume Kant Mill Russell to mention a few classical authors clearly emphasized the primacy of methodology of science for any kind of philosophy of science One may even state that analyses of the presuppositions the foundations the aims goals and purposes of science are nothing else than analyses of their general and specific formal as well as practical and empirical methods Thus the whole program of any philosophy of science is dependent on the analysis of the methods of sciences and the establishment of their criteria If the study of scientific method is the predominant factor in the philosophy of science then all the other problems will depend on the outcome of such a study For example the old question of a possible unity of all social sciences will be brought to a solution by the study of the presuppositions the methods as well as of the criteria germane to all social sciences
