Buck, Alireza Daneshkhan, J. Richard Eiser, Paul H. Garthwaite, David J. Jenkinson, Jeremy E. Oakley, Tim Rakow, 2006-08-30 Elicitation is the process of extracting expert knowledge about some unknown quantity or quantities and formulating that information as a probability distribution Elicitation is important in situations such as modelling the safety of nuclear installations or assessing the risk of terrorist attacks where expert knowledge is essentially the only source of good information It also plays a major role in other contexts by augmenting scarce observational data through the use of Bayesian statistical methods However elicitation is not a simple task and practitioners need to be aware of a wide range of research findings in order to elicit expert judgements accurately and reliably Uncertain Judgements introduces the area before guiding the reader through the study of appropriate elicitation methods illustrated by a variety of multi disciplinary examples This is achieved by Presenting a methodological framework for the elicitation of expert knowledge incorporating findings from both statistical and psychological research Detailing techniques for the elicitation of a wide range of standard distributions appropriate to the most common types of quantities Providing a comprehensive review of the available literature and pointing to the best practice methods and future research needs Using examples from many disciplines including statistics psychology engineering and health sciences Including an extensive glossary of statistical and psychological terms An ideal source and guide for statisticians and psychologists with interests in expert judgement or practical applications of Bayesian analysis Uncertain Judgements will also benefit decision makers risk analysts engineers and researchers in the medical and social sciences

Understanding Attitudes to the European Community Miles Hewstone, 2011-04-14 This 1986 study presents an insightful perspective on public attitudes towards the European Community. It contains a review of the findings from public opinion surveys of the time on this issue but goes beyond straightforward description to provide a real understanding of European attitudes. A variety of social psychological theories are used to test a model of the structure underlying Community attitudes. The original data reported in the present study parallel the findings from much larger representative and long term surveys of public opinion. Thus Miles Hewstone is able to derive from his research a wide ranging analysis of cross national differences in attitudinal support for the Community's impact on its citizens and the likely trends in attitude and voting behaviour. At a time when the entry of Spain and Portugal had further expanded the Community's membership such issues were particularly timely and this clear and penetrating study especially welcome.

Teachers report that quarrels between girls are far more time consuming and difficult to resolve than the disputes of boys yet not enough information is available to guide them on dealing with girls fighting and unhappiness caused by their relationships with other girls many of whom may have been their closest friends.

Understanding Girls Friendships Fights and Feuds illuminates the issue of girls bullying an issue that can cause a great deal of distress but which is sometimes ignored or dismissed by adults. Drawing on close observations of girls behaviour Val Besag provides an in depth understanding of girls bullying exploring the mechanisms and language that girls use to entice some into their groups and exclude others. The book offers detailed practical advice for dealing with girls bullying which will help both students and teachers to understand and combat different kinds of bullying as well as comprehensive guidance for preventing or reducing bullying activities among girls including Whole school approaches Programmes for developing emotional literacy and resilience Approaches for dealing with gangs Using methods such as art and drama Developing conflict resolution skills Student parent programmes Peer support programmes.
