General Accounting Office, 1993 Multiple Award Schedule Contracting U. S. Government Accountability Office (, 2013-06 Pursuant to a congressional request GAO reviewed the efficiency and effectiveness of the General Services Administration's GSA multiple award schedule MAS program focusing on 1 whether multiple award schedule prices are reasonable 2 the purpose of GSA negotiations and 3 the type of data that should be required so that GSA can judge whether prices are reasonable GAO found that 1 MAS prices for top selling items are often higher than prices offered to the general public or to some state governments 2 higher MAS prices result from differences in contract terms and conditions and MAS dealers paying manufacturers more than non MAS dealers for the same products 3 the GSA procurement policy concerning best price negotiations is ambiguous 4 GSA often uses customer discounts as the basis for its price analysis and to establish its negotiation objective 5 although GSA needs to consider the discounts manufacturers give to all types of customers it must take into account the differences in terms and conditions between the MAS program and other customers 6 GSA needs to require MAS offerers to submit additional information to determine the reasonableness of their prices and 7 MAS data requirements should be clear and consistent with GSA negotiation objectives Multiple Award Schedule Purchases United States.
