Designing and Using Organizational Surveys Allan H. Church, Janine Wacławski, 2017-09-29 Organizational surveys are widely recognized as a powerful tool for measuring and improving employee commitment If poorly designed and administered however they can create disappointment and cynicism There are many excellent books on sampling methodology and statistical analysis but little has been written so far for those responsible for designing and implementing surveys in organizations Now Allan H Church and Janine Wacławski have drawn on their extensive experience in this field to develop a seven step model covering the entire process from initiation to final evaluation They explain in detail how to devise and administer different types of organizational surveys leading the reader systematically through the various stages involved Their text is supported throughout by examples specimen documentation work sheets and case studies from a variety of organizational settings They pay particular attention to the political and human sensitivities concerned and show how to surmount the many potential barriers to a successful outcome

Designing and Using Organizational Surveys is a highly practical guide to one of the most effective methods available for organizational diagnosis and change

E-Business and Virtual Enterprises Luis M. Camarinha-Matos, Hamideh Afsarmanesh, Ricardo Rabelo, 2000-10-31 The fast progress in computer networks and their wide availability complemented with on one hand the explosion of the mobile computing and on the other hand the trends in the direction of ubiquitous computing act as powerful enablers for new forms of highly dynamic collaborative organizations and emergence of new business practices The first efforts in virtual enterprises VE were strongly constrained by the need to design and develop horizontal infrastructures aimed at supporting the basic collaboration needs of consortia of enterprises Even pilot projects that were focused on specific business domains were forced to first develop some basic infrastructures before being able to develop their specific business models Nowadays although there is still a need to consolidate and standardize the horizontal infrastructures the focus is more and more directed to the development of new vertical business models and the corresponding support tools At the same time in the earlier R D projects the attention was almost exclusively devoted to the operation phase of the VE life cycle while now there are more activities addressing the creation phase developing mechanisms to support the rapid formation of new virtual organizations for new business opportunities In order to complete the life cycle there is a need to also invest on support for VE dissolution
