Painting Women:

Painting Women Patricia Phillippy, 2020-03-03 This original analysis of the representation and self representation of women in literature and visual arts revolves around multiple early modern senses of painting the creation of visual art in the form of paint on canvas and the use of cosmetics to paint women's bodies Situating her study in sixteenth and seventeenth century Italy France and England Patricia Phillippy brings together three distinct actors women who paint themselves with cosmetics women who paint on canvas and women and men who paint women either with pigment or with words Phillippy asserts that early modern attitudes toward painting cosmetics and poetry emerge from and respond to a common cultural history Materially she connects those who created images of women with pigment to those who applied cosmetics to their own bodies through similar mediums tools techniques and exposure to toxic materials Discursively she illuminates historical and social issues such as gender and morality with the nexus of painting painted women and women painters Teasing out the intricate relationships between these activities as carried out by women and their visual and literary representation by women and by men Phillippy aims to reveal the delineation and transgression of women's creative roles both artistic and biological In Painting Women Phillippy provides a cross disciplinary study of women as objects and agents of painting

Painting Women Deborah Cherry, 1993 Victorian women artists were producers spectators and purchasers of women's art throughout the nineteenth century rather than the passive Angels of the Hearth myth that they are often portrayed as By examining the ways in which women networked and formed distinct cultural discourses Painting Women evokes a powerful sense of women's pleasures in and support of women's culture

Painting Women Patricia Phillippy, 2006 Patricia Phillippy's analysis of the representation of women in literature and visual arts revolves around multiple early modern senses of painting She focuses on women who paint themselves with cosmetics women who paint on canvas and women and men who paint women either with pigment or with words

Women Artists in Paris, 1850-1900 Laurence Madeline, Pauline Willis, 2017-01-01 Paris was the epicenter of art during the latter half of the nineteenth century luring artists from around the world with its academies museums salons and galleries Despite the city's cosmopolitanism and its cultural stature Parisian society remained strikingly conservative particularly with respect to gender Nonetheless many women painters chose to work and study in Paris at this time overcoming immense obstacles to access the city's resources Women Artists in Paris 1850-1900 showcases the remarkable artistic production of women during this period of great cultural change revealing the breadth and strength of their creative achievements Guest Curator Laurence Madeline Chief Curator at Musées d'art et d'histoire Geneva has selected close to seventy compelling paintings by women of varied nationalities ranging from well known artists such as Berthe Morisot Mary Cassatt and Rosa Bonheur to lesser known figures such as Kitty Kielland Louise Breslau and Anna Ancher

Women Can't Paint Helen Gørrill, 2020-02-06 In 2013 Georg Baselitz declared that women don't paint very well Whilst shocking his comments reveal what Helen Gørrill argues is prolific discrimination in the artworld In a groundbreaking study of gender and value Gørrill proves that there are few aesthetic differences in men and women's painting but that men's art is valued at up to 80 per cent more than women's Indeed the power of masculinity is such that when men sign their work it goes up in value yet when women sign their work it goes down Museums the author attests are also complicit in this vicious cycle as they collect tokenist female artwork which impinges upon its artists market value An essential text for students and teachers Gørrill's book is provocative and challenges existing methodologies whilst introducing shocking evidence She proves how the price of being a woman impacts upon all forms of artistic currency be it social cultural or economic and in the vanguard of the Me Too movement calls for the artworld to take action

Women Readers in French Painting 1870-1890 Kathryn J. Brown, 2012 The first monograph to examine the depiction of reading women in French art of the early Third Republic Women Readers in French Painting 1870 1890 evaluates the pictorial significance of this imagery its critical reception and its impact on nineteenth century notions of femininity and social relations Artists discussed in the volume range from Manet Cassatt and Degas to less familiar figures such as Lavieille Carrière Toulmouche and Tissot

Self-portraits by Women Painters Liana Cheney, Alicia Craig Faxon, Kathleen Lucey Russo, 2000 The first survey of women's self portraiture to be focused exclusively on painting this book opens with an original attempt to reconstruct from contemporary accounts the work of artists of antiquity such as Marcia Timarete and Eirene The authors then select self portraits by a range of European and American painters up to the present day to narrate the stylistic development of women's self representation in those parts of the world The story of the self portrait offers fascinating insights which deepen our understanding of these artists working lives priorities and preoccupations With its chronological sweep its lavish illustrations including many works which have not been reproduced in print before and its extensive bibliography this book is an indispensable guide to a fascinating subject
