procurement and defence industrialisation have all increased rapidly in East Asia. Although these developments do not constitute an arms race, they nevertheless have important implications for suppliers of defence equipment, for arms control and for regional stability. This paper assesses trends in the defence spending of East Asian states, particularly in the light of the economic crisis which began in mid 1997. It also focuses on three closely related issues: the nature of the regional market for defence equipment, defence industrialisation and the effect of trends in defence procurement and industrialisation on East Asian states' military capabilities and on the regional military balance.

Russian Strategic Thought toward Asia Gilbert Rozman, Kazuhiko Togo, 2006-11-27. The United States and Asia, 2001. Publisher Provided Annotation: The past 20 years have been a time of relative peace in Asia, and notwithstanding the 1997-1998 financial crisis, a period of robust economic growth as well. Currently, however, Asia is beset by a variety of problems that could well imperil the stability it has long enjoyed, including territorial disputes, nuclear rivalry, rising nationalist sentiments, and increased military capabilities. This report summarizes the manner in which the United States can best meet these challenges and thereby ensure continued peace and stability in the region. In the interests of this goal, the report outlines an integrated political, military, and economic strategy that the United States can pursue to inhibit the growth of rivalries in Asia and more broadly prevent the rise of instability in the region. Also delineated are changes in U.S. military posture that will be made necessary by this strategy.

International Relations and Asia's Northern Tier Gilbert Rozman, Sergey Radchenko, 2017-10-03. In this new book, noted scholars of Northeast Asia contribute new views on the future of the region. Collecting essays from experts of all 4 countries and their interconnected histories and political orders, the book helps to contextualize the future development of the region in the context of a US Pivot to Asia. The four countries on the northern fringe of Asia went their separate ways after the end of the Cold War, but strengthening Sino-Russian relations and what may be the looming endgame in North Korea's strategy of threats and isolation are signs that we now need to think about this area also through its connections. Looking back to what existed in an earlier incarnation of the Northern Tier and focusing on Chinese and Russian views of North Korea, we are able to explore the implications of increasingly close Sino-Russian relations. The book will be of great value to scholars, policymakers, and all passionate about exploring what's next for Russia and China's relationship.
