Barnes,2018-07-05 During and after the breakdown of the Soviet Union a wide range of competitors fought to build new political and economic empires by wresting control over resources from the state and from each other In the only book to examine the evolution of Russian property ownership in both industry and agriculture Andrew Barnes uses interviews archival research and firsthand observation to document how a new generation of capitalists gained control over key pieces of the Russian economy by acquiring debt ridden factories and farms once owned by the state He argues that although the Russian government made policies that affected how actors battled one another it could never rein in the most destructive aspects of the struggle for property Barnes shows that dividing the spoils of the Soviet economy involved far more than the experiment with voucher privatization or the scandalous behavior of a few Moscow based oligarchs In Russia the control of property yielded benefits beyond mere profits and these high stakes fueled an intense enduring and profound conflict over real assets This fierce competition empowered the Russian executive branch at the expense of the legislature dramatically strengthened managers in relation to workers created a broad array of business conglomerates and fundamentally shaped regional politics not only blurring the line between government and business but often erasing it Journal of Economic Literature ,2005 web 692 reflection and refraction of light p25 9 a as measured from the diagram the incidence angle is 60 and the refraction angle is 35 from snell's law $\sin \theta_1 / \sin \theta_2 = v_2 / v_1$ then $\sin \theta_2 = \sin \theta_1 \cdot v_2 / v_1$ and the speed of light in the block is 2.0×10^8 m/s b the frequency of the light does not change upon refraction web there are two laws that govern how light changes direction when it interacts with matter the law of reflection for situations in which light bounces off matter and the law of refraction for situations in which light passes through matter in this section we consider the geometric optics of reflection web refraction is the bending of light it also happens with sound water and other waves as it passes from one transparent substance into another this bending by refraction makes it possible for us to have lenses magnifying glasses prisms and rainbows even our eyes depend upon this bending of light
