Jeffrey A. Hinkelman,2022-02-04 The years following the signing of the Armistice saw a transformation of traditional attitudes regarding military conflict as America attempted to digest the enormity and futility of the First World War During these years popular film culture in the United States created new ways of addressing the impact of the war on both individuals and society Filmmakers with direct experience of combat created works that promoted their own ideas about the depiction of wartime service ideas that frequently conflicted with established heroic tropes for the portrayal of warfare on film Those filmmakers spent years modifying existing standards and working through a variety of storytelling options before achieving a consensus regarding the fitting method for rendering war on screen That consensus incorporated facets of the experience of Great War veterans and these countered and undermined previously accepted narrative strategies This process reached its peak during the Pre Code Era of the early 1930s when the initially prevailing narrative would be briefly supplanted by an entirely new approach that questioned the very premises of wartime service Even more significantly the rhetoric of these films argued strongly for an antiwar stance that questioned every aspect of the wartime experience For No Reason at All The Changing Narrative of the First World War in American Film discusses a variety of Great War themed films made from 1915 to the present tracing the changing approaches to the conflict over time Individual chapters focus on movie antecedents animated films and comedies the influence of literary precursors the African American film industry women centered films and the effect of the Second World War on depictions of the First Films discussed include Hearts of the World The Cradle of Courage Birthright The Big Parade She Goes to War Doughboys Young Eagles The Last Flight Broken Lullaby Lafayette Escadrille and Wonder Woman among many others Early American Cinema Anthony Slide,1994 Provides a concise history of the American motion picture industry before 1920 Film and the Working Class Peter Stead,2013-12-13 Taking the subject chronologically from the 1890s to when the book was initially published in 1989 this book analyses those films specifically concerned with working class conditions and struggle and discusses them within the context of the debate on the social significance of the feature film It concentrates on films which depict labour organizations and political activists as well as life in working class communities and actors with working class identities such as James Cagney Reviews of the original edition fills a gap in film studies the study of social and labour history and the development of popular culture in Britain and the United States Film Review Index Julia Johnson,1986 John Ford Bill Levy,1998-11-30 John Ford 1894 1973 is universally acknowledged as one of the greatest directors in the history of cinema He is the only person to win four Academy Awards for Direction for The Informer 1935 The Grapes of Wrath 1940 How Green Was My Valley 1941 and The Quiet Man 1952 This reference book is a comprehensive guide to his career The volume begins with a biography that looks at Ford as a person a director and a cinematic legend and influence Ford s life is discussed chronologically but the biography repeatedly considers how his early experiences shaped his creative vision and attempts to explain why he was so self destructive and unhappy throughout his career In addition the biography carefully scrutinizes his methods styles techniques and secrets of direction A chronology presents his achievements in capsule form The rest of the
