Mergers and Acquisitions Michael Keenan, Lawrence J. White, 2003 This is a reprint of a previously published work It is the product of a conference held in 1981 by the Salomon Center for the Study of Financial Institutions at NYU to explore a wide range of issues concerning mergers and acquisitions

Bank Mergers: Current Issues and Perspectives Benton E. Gup, 2012-12-06 Historians of our financial system will record this as an age of deregulation and bank mergers Deregulation a cornerstone of President Reagan's Administration resulted in federal and state legislation that contributed to increased competition for financial services and increased merger activity During the 1981-1986 period there were 2,139 mergers in banking and finance accounting for 16 percent of total merger activity More mergers occurred in banking and finance than in any other industry Because of these bank mergers there are vast amounts of data available for scholarly research This book presents some results of that research which will be of interest to academics bankers investors legislators and regulators The book consists of ten articles and it is divided into three parts Part 1 National and Regional Bank Mergers gives a broad perspective of merger activity The first article by Peter S. Rose compared the growth of bank holding companies that merged with those that did not merge One conclusion of his study was that banks planning mergers tended to be aggressively managed and were often beset by problems such as low profitability or declining loan quality Mergers were one solution to their problems But he found no solid evidence that mergers resulted in greater profitability or reduced risk He also observed that acquiring banks did not seem to grow faster than those choosing not to merge

The Human Side of Mergers and Acquisitions Anthony F. Buono, James L. Bowditch, 2003 This eye opening study based on the authors direct and personal observation of a bank merger has three basic analytical focuses the human issues presented by mergers at both an individual and a cultural level the organizational issues that these human concerns raise and the resulting implications for managing the merger and acquisition process With keen insight the authors delve into a complex web of reactions The intrigues cultural clashes hostilities and tensions that emerged from this friendly merger are mind boggling The dynamics that characterized the dual nature of the merger run the gamut of human responses to a stressful situation trust and betrayal openness and deception hope and despair support and retaliation all driven by nascent opportunities or restricted options This impressive study has many lessons to teach about the role that human resource considerations should play in any large scale organizational change

Mergers, Markets and Public Policy Giuliano Mussati, 2012-12-06

GIULIANO MUSSATI Why do mergers occur which are their effects on social welfare and which is the best economic policy toward them These three questions have been puzzling industrial economists since the end of the last century when the first great merger wave has come about in the US They have returned at the centre of the stage of the theoretical and empirical economic research during the last decade when merger and acquisition activity became one of the most evident firms activities in all industrialised countries being fostered by some general and country specific facts These facts have been identified in the appearance of new financial instruments facilitating fund raising by firms in the benevolent behaviour of the authorities in charge of competition policy during the Reagan administration in the US while internal market completion has become a strong incentive for European firms to reach a true continental dimension in the UE through external growth However a robust and univocal answer to these questions has not yet been found in spite of its importance not only from the theoretical point of view but also from the normative one In fact the correct identification of firms motivations in pursuing merger and acquisition operations and of their consequences on social welfare would help the choice by administrative authorities of different possible options in competition and industrial policies
