Metamodel Of Clinical Social Work:

The Metamodel of Clinical Social Work Eleanor Reardon Tolson, 1988-04-20 In developing an eclectic approach to the practice of clinical social work Eleanor Reardon Tolson brilliantly analyzes her unique metamodel for the social worker. Firmly grounded in research findings concerning effectiveness, the concept is based on major decisions practitioners must make in working with each client: the options available to them and the evidence supporting those options. Emphasizing such topics as the appropriate focus of treatment, its objectives, interventions, the relationship with the client, and the structure of treatment, the metamodel has been used by practitioners, teachers, students, and clients with great success. The model accomplishes a great deal of problem solving in a short period of time. The concept further heightens a practitioner's awareness of a wide variety of prescribed behaviors in an organized and structured manner for highly effective results. The Metamodel of Clinical Social Work includes a special chapter written by William J. Reid that describes strategies for checking the effectiveness of work based on the metamodel and two case studies. Theoretical Perspectives for Direct Social Work Practice Nick Coady, Peter Lehmann, 2016-05-15 This expanded third edition of a popular textbook provides a completely revised and updated overview of the theories, models, and therapies that inform direct social work practice. The text is grounded in generalist social work principles and values and promotes a problem-solving model of social work practice as a framework for the eclectic use of theory as well as for integrating the artistic, reflective elements of practice. It provides in-depth coverage of select psychodynamic, cognitive-behavioral, humanistic, critical, and postmodern theories. The third edition features a new section on Critical Theories where a new chapter on Empowerment Theory is included with a completely revised chapter on Feminist Theory. A new chapter on Strengths-based Social Work has been added to the section on meta-theories for social work practice. Other new chapters include Emotion-focused Therapy and Collaborative Therapy. These revisions are based on suggestions from an extensive survey of professors. New to the Third Edition: A new section on Critical Theories; New chapters on Strengths-based Social Work, Emotion-focused Therapy, Empowerment Theory, and Collaborative Therapy; Updated research on the debate about the importance of theory/technique versus common-sense relationship factors and on the critique of the empirically supported treatment movement. Key Features: Grounds direct practice firmly in the principles and values of generalist social work; Promotes a problem-solving model of social work as a flexible structure for integrating the eclectic use of theory with the artistic, reflective elements of practice; Organizes direct practice theories into like groupings and provides an overview of the main characteristics of each grouping; Provides in-depth coverage of topics in a clear, logical, and consistent format. Includes editors and contributors from the U.S. and Canada. Assessment in Social Work Practice Carol H. Meyer, 1993 This book confronts the current bureaucratic and fiscal constraints that have inhibited social workers from assessing clients and offers concrete ways of handling a wide array of cases. Theoretical Perspectives for Direct Social Work Practice Peter Lehmann PhD, LCSW, 2007-10-22 Praise for the first edition: Finally a social work practice text that makes a difference This is the book that you have wished for but could never find Although similar to texts that cover a range of practice theories and approaches to clinical practice this book clearly has a social work frame of reference and a social work identity Gayla Rogers Dean of the Faculty of Social Work University of Calgary The major focus of this second edition is the same to provide an overview of theories models and therapies for direct social work practice including systems theory attachment theory cognitive behavioral theory narrative therapy solution focused therapy the crisis intervention model and many more However this popular textbook goes beyond a mere survey of such theories It also provides a framework for integrating the use of each theory with central social work principles and values as well as with the artistic elements of practice This second edition has been fully updated and revised to include A new chapter on Relational Theory and newly rewritten chapters by new authors on Cognitive Behavioral Theory Existential Theory and Wraparound Services New critique of the Empirically Supported Treatment EST movement Updated information on the movement toward eclecticism in counseling and psychotherapy A refined conceptualization of the editors generalist eclectic approach

Religion and Social Work Practice in Contemporary American Society Frank M. Loewenberg, 1988 Handbook of Gerontological Services Abraham Monk, 1990-06-29 Social Work Social Treatment James K. Whittaker, Elizabeth M. Tracy, The book has two principal purposes To provide an introduction to interpersonal helping in the context of social work practice and to develop a conceptual framework for interpersonal helping called social treatment that will enable the social worker and members of other helping professions effectively to use all the various methods and strategies currently practiced The book offers an orderly and systematic way of proceeding through a complex and often confused area of practice in it large issues such as remediation versus prevention are explored along with concrete suggestions for intervention with individuals families and small groups Theoretical systems are considered not merely for the techniques they suggest but also for the values and views of man inherent in them The helping process itself is analyzed from the point of view of the consumer as well as the worker A conceptual framework for practice is developed that allows for systematic eclecticism in theory and technique providing a framework for evaluating and comparing different methods of social treatment The author defines social treatment as an approach to interpersonal helping which utilizes direct and indirect strategies of intervention to aid individuals families and small groups in improving social functioning and coping with social problems Beginning with a discussion of the concept of remediation within the context of the larger contemporary issues of social reform and environmental protection Professor Whittaker proceeds to consider several critical issues in present social work practice such as client advocacy service delivery systems and professionalization Subsequent chapters discuss the multiple roles that social work practitioners perform the major theoretical bases of social treatment the treatment sequence from intake to after care and the full range of helping activities that practitioners undertake indirectly on behalf of their clients The final chapter explores current trends and future directions in social treatment In the Appendix a framework for evaluating methods of interpersonal helping is developed and 21 approaches to social treatment are described and resource bibliographies are provided This book brief lucid and systematic is a major step toward that redefinition and will be invaluable to beginning students and advanced practitioners in social work and in all the other professional and paraprofessional fields engaged in providing human services James K Whittaker is Charles O Cressey endowed professor in the School of Social Work University of Washington He is a frequent consultant on child care training both in the Seattle area and nationally and is a consultant on research and training to the Child Development and Mental Retardation Center University of Washington He has served as director of the Social Welfare Program He is also a founding member of the International Association for Outcome Based Evaluation Research on Family and Children s Services in Italy as well as an associate board member of European Scientific Association for Residential and Foster Care for Children and Adolescents in Belgium
