Metamorphosis Identity:

Metamorphosis and Identity Caroline Walker Bynum, 2001-05-06 An exploration of the roles of metamorphosis and hybridity in the establishment of personal identity with particular emphasis on the twelfth and thirteenth centuries The four studies in this book center on the Western obsession with the nature of personal identity Focusing on the twelfth and thirteenth centuries but with an eye toward antiquity and the present Caroline Walker Bynum explores the themes of metamorphosis and hybridity in genres ranging from poetry folktales and miracle collections to scholastic theology devotional treatises and works of natural philosophy She argues that the obsession with boundary crossing and otherness was an effort to delineate nature's regularities and to establish a strong sense of personal identity extending even beyond the grave She examines historical figures such as Marie de France Gerald of Wales Bernard Clairvaux Thomas Aquinas and Dante as well as modern fabulists such as Angela Carter as examples of solutions to the perennial question of how the individual can both change and remain constant Addressing the fundamental question for historians that of change Bynum also explores the nature of history writing itself

Determinants of Neuronal Identity Marty Shankland, 2012-12-02 Determinants of Neuronal Identity brings together studies of a wide range of vertebrate and invertebrate organisms that highlight the determinants of neuronal identity Emphasis of this book is on how neurons are generated how their developmental identities are specified and to what degree those identities can be subsequently modified to meet the changing needs of the organism This book also considers various techniques used in the analysis of different organisms This volume is comprised of 15 chapters the first of which introduces the reader to the specification of neuronal identity in Caenorhabditis elegans The discussion then turns to neurogenesis and segmental homology in the leech as well as intrinsic and extrinsic factors influencing the development of Retzius neurons in the leech nervous system Drosophila is discussed next with particular reference to neuronal diversity in the embryonic central nervous system cell choice and patterning in the retina and development of the peripheral nervous system Other chapters explore endocrine influences on the postembryonic fates of neurons during insect metamorphosis neuron determination in the nervous system of Hydra and in the mammalian cerebral cortex and segregation of cell lineage in the vertebrate neural crest This book will help scientists and active researchers in synthesizing a conceptual framework for further studies of neuronal specification

Koch,Clemens Sedmak,2012-12-19 We live in a world of constant and dynamic change Change manifests in various guises ranging from small to big local to global individual to societal or from subtle to sudden It often comes out of the unexpected yet people can also actively bring about change Change can be for the better but often reality means change for the worse Preconditions for a contented and happy life both material and intangible are constantly challenged Living conditions of individuals as well as communities are affected by inequality exclusion or poverty Different kinds of challenge and change require different reactions This volume results from a two day conference in November 2011 in Salzburg Austria bringing together researchers and practitioners from different scientific disciplines in order to discuss approaches of poverty research social inclusion strategies and local knowledge applications with particular focus on transformation The contributions shed light on appropriate theories methodologies and concrete applications of change concepts referring to poverty place and identity at different temporal social and spatial scales They address a readership ranging from social and political scientists economists and statisticians to philosophers cultural scientists and geographers European Identity and Citizenship

Sanja Ivic,2016-06-08 This book uses a theoretical and empirical approach to explore the philosophies of European citizenship and European identity The author applies a focused analytical framework to argue that European identity and citizenship should be perceived as postmodern categories which are multi layered dynamic and fluid The book offers a detailed review of political and legal studies which do not comprehend or explain postmodernist concepts of citizenship and identity In the theoretical part of the book various philosophical models of citizenship and identity from antiquity to the postmodern era are portrayed and the author s own theory and analytical framework is developed The empirical part of the book discusses a variety of case studies illustrating how European Union policies apply to this framework The Matter of Identity in Medieval Romance Phillipa Hardman,2002 Twelve essays address a central concern of medieval romance the matter of identity Identity is a central concern of medieval romance Here it is approached through essays on issues of origin and parentage transformation and identity and fundamental questions of what constitutes the human The construction of knightly identity through education and testing is explored and placed in relation to female identity the significance of the motif of doubling is studied Shifting perceptions of identities are traced through the histories of specific texts and the identity of romance itself is the subject of several essays discussing ideas of genre the overlap between romance and hagiography is a theme linking a number of articles in the collection Medieval romance is shown as a marketable commodity in the printed output of William Copland and as an opportunity for literary experimentation in the work of John Metham The texts discussed include Chevalere Assigne Sir Gowther Sir Ysumbras Beves of Hamtoun Robert of Cisyle the Fierabras romances Breton lays Thomas s Tristan and Marie de France s Eliduc Contributors W A DAVENPORT JOANNE CHARBONNEAU CORINNE SAUNDERS AMANDA HOPKINS MORGAN DICKSON MARIANNE AILES JUDITH WEISS JOHN SIMONS RHIANNON PURDIE MALDWYN MILLS A S G EDWARDS ROGER DALRYMPLE Origin of Group Identity Luis P.

Villarreal,2008-12-10 A sense of belonging is basic to the human experience But in this humans are not unique Essentially all life from bacteria to humans have ways by which it determines which members belong and which do not This is a basic cooperative nature of life I call group membership which is examined in this book However cooperation of living things is not easily accounted for by current theory of evolutionary biology and yet even viruses display group membership That viruses have this feature would likely seem coincidental or irrelevant to most scientist as having any possible relationship to human group identity Surely such simple molecular based relationships between viruses are unrelated to the complex cognitive and emotional nature of human group membership Yet viruses clearly affect bacterial group membership which are the most diverse and abundant cellular life form on Earth and from which all life has evolved Viruses are the most ancient numerous and adaptable biological entities we know And we have long recognized them for the harm and disease they can cause and they have been responsible for the greatest numbers of human deaths However with the sequencing of entire genomes and more recently with the shotgun sequencings of habitats we have come to realize viruses are the black hole of biology a giant force that has until recently been largely unseen and historically ignored by evolutionary biology Viruses not only can cause acute disease but also persist as stable unseen agents in their host Flesh and Word Sarah Künzler,2016-08-22 Bodies and their role in cultural discourse have been a constant focus in the humanities and social sciences in recent years but comparatively few studies exist about Old Norse Icelandic or early Irish literature This study aims to redress this imbalance and presents carefully contextualised close readings of medieval texts The chapters focus on the role of bodies in mediality discourse in various contexts that of identity in relation to ideas about self and other of inscribed and marked skin and of natural bodily matters such as defecation urination and menstruation By carefully discussing the sources in their cultural contexts it becomes apparent that medieval Scandinavian and early Irish texts present their very own ideas about bodies and their role in structuring the narrated worlds of the texts The study presents one of the first systematic examinations of bodies in these two literary traditions in terms of body criticism and emphasises the ingenuity and complexity of medieval texts literature supplemented by numerous color illustrations and micrographs of a given animal group. The largely taxon based chapters are supplemented by essays on topical aspects relevant to modern day EvoDevo research such as regeneration, embryos in the fossil record, homology in the age of genomics and the role of EvoDevo in the context of reconstructing evolutionary and phylogenetic scenarios. A list of open questions at the end of each chapter may serve as a source of inspiration for the next generation of EvoDevo scientists. Evolutionary Developmental Biology of Invertebrates is a must have for any scientist, teacher or student interested in developmental and evolutionary biology as well as in general invertebrate zoology. This third volume on ecdysozoans is dedicated to the Hexapoda. Despite being the most species rich animal clade by far, comparatively little developmental data is available for the majority of hexapods in stark contrast to one of the best investigated species on Earth, the fruit fly Drosophila melanogaster. Accordingly, an entire chapter is dedicated to this well known and important model species, while the two remaining chapters summarize our current knowledge on early and late development in other hexapods.

Patrick M. Jenlink, 2014-04-09. Teacher identity is shaped by recognition or its absence, often by misrecognition of others. Recognition as a teacher or the strong and complex identification with one's professional culture and community is necessary for a positive sense of self. Increasingly, teachers are entering educational settings where difference connotes not equal, better, worse, or having more/less power over resources. Differences between discourses of identity are braided at many points with a discourse of racism, both interpersonal and structural. Teacher Identity and the Struggle for Recognition examines the nature of identity and recognition as social, cultural, and political constructs. In particular, the contributing authors to the book present discussions of the professional work necessary in teacher preparation programs concerned with preparing teachers for the complexities of teaching in schools that mirror an increasingly diverse society. Importantly, the authors illuminate many of the often problematic structures of schooling and the cultural politics that work to define one's identity, drawing into specific relief the nature of the struggle for recognition that all face who choose to enter teaching as a profession.
