Medieval Monstrosity and the Female Body Sarah Alison Miller, 2010-07-02 The medieval monster is a slippery construct and its referents include a range of religious racial and corporeal aberrations In this study Miller argues that one incarnation of monstrosity in the Middle Ages the female body exists in special relation to medieval teratology insofar as it resists the customary marginalization that defined most other monstrous groups in the Middle Ages Though medieval maps located the monstrous races on the distant margins of the civilized world the monstrous female body took the form of mother sister wife and daughter It was therefore pervasive proximate and necessary on social sexual and reproductive grounds Miller considers several significant texts representing authoritative discourses on female monstrosity in the Middle Ages the Pseudo Ovidian poem De vetula The Old Woman a treatise on human generation erroneously attributed to Albert the Great De secretis mulierum On the Secrets of Women and Julian of Norwich's Showings Through comparative analysis Miller grapples with the monster's semantic flexibility while simultaneously working towards a composite image of late medieval female monstrosity whose features are stable enough to define Whether this body is discursively constructed as an Ovidian body a medicalized body or a mystical body its corporeal boundaries fail to form properly it is a body out of bounds

If mediatization has surprisingly revealed the secret life of inert matter and the face of things the flipside of this has been the petrification of living organisms an invasion of stone bodies in a state of suspended animation Within a contemporary imaginary pervaded by new forms of animism the paradigm of death looms large in many areas of artistic experimentation pushing the modern body towards mineral modes of being which revive ancient myths of flesh made stone and the issue of the monument Scholars in media visual culture and the arts propose studies of bodies of stone from actors simulating statues to the transmutation of the filmic body into a fossil from the real treatment of the cadaver as a mineral living object to the rediscovery of materials such as wax from the quest for a thermal equivalence between stone and flesh to the transformation of the biomedical body into a living monument      American Journal of Ophthalmology ,1908
