

The background of the book cover is a classical landscape painting. It depicts a wide, green valley with a small village in the distance, featuring a prominent church with a tall, pointed steeple. A large, gnarled tree with dense foliage dominates the right side of the frame, its branches extending over the valley. The sky is a pale, hazy yellow, suggesting a soft light. The overall style is reminiscent of 17th or 18th-century landscape art.

Four Metaphysical Poets John Donne, Douglas Brooks-Davies, 1997. This anthology poems by John Donne, George Herbert, Andrew Marvell and Thomas Early Modern Authorship and the Editorial Tradition Aleida Auld, 2023-12-12. This volume adds a new dimension to authorship studies by linking the editorial tradition to the transformative reception of early modern authors and their works across time. Aleida Auld argues that the editorial tradition provides privileged access to the reception of early modern literature informing our understanding of certain reconfigurations and sometimes helping to produce them between their time and our own. At stake are reconfigurations of oeuvre and authorship, the relationship between the author and work, the relationship between authors and the author's own role in establishing an editorial tradition. Ultimately, this study recognizes that the editorial tradition is a stabilizing force while asserting that it may also be a source of strange and provocative reconceptions of early modern authors and their works in the present day. Scholars and students of early modern literature will benefit from this approach to editing as a form of reception that encompasses all the editorial decisions that are necessary to put forth a text.

The Metaphysical Poets Helen Gardner, 1967. In this anthology, Dame Helen Gardner has collected together those poets who although never self-consciously a school, did possess in common certain features of argument and powerful persuasion.
