

evidence most of them came from the areas of European settlements and many of the patients, mostly plantation workers, had been immigrants to Usambara. The hospital, which was managed by the Bodelschwingschen Anstalten Bethel, remained relatively autonomous from the colonial government. The hospital had no impact on the debates and discussions among psychiatrists. In contrast to their French counterparts, German psychiatrists were not interested in setting up mental hospitals in the colonies. Diefenbacher thinks that this attitude derives from the opinions of the German psychiatrists that they already had a suitable field of activity in the large German cities and in the multi-ethnic state of Austria/Hungary. Diefenbacher's book is based on a careful and extensive study of primary sources in the archives of the Bodelschwingschen Anstalten in Bethel and in the Tanzanian national archives in Dar es Salaam.

However, the book is weak on theory and interpretation. The first part of the book, which deals with the history of psychiatry in the English and French colonies, is little more than a summary of a few selected publications. Apart from using terms like 'native' or 'tribe' frequently and without regard to their negative historical connotation, the author also betrays a casual attitude towards detail. Kishamba, for example, is not a 'local dialect' (p. 82), but a language. There are more articles on the healing practices of African peoples than those written by physicians. Having read the book, one is no clearer about the attitude of the African population towards European psychiatry. The author recognizes that European psychiatry was culture-bound but this recognition has not influenced the course of his research. Conflict or parallels between psychiatric treatment in Lutindi and traditional healing practices would have added to the book's interest—assuming, of course, that there were fewer mistakes of style, grammar, and spelling.

Francis M. Deng. Seed of Redemption: A Political Novel. New York: Lilian Barber Press, 1986. 304 pp. Hardbound. Price $17.95.

Professor Francis Deng is a seasoned Africanist. Lawyer by training, anthropologist by inclination and diplomat, teacher, and writer by profession, he has ably made his undeniable mark on recent Sudanese scholarship. To his already well-known works on politics, anthropology, law, and the oral tradition of his people, the Dinka, he now adds his first novel, Seed of Redemption.

The hero of this intriguing novel is Faris Khalifa, a Sudanese army officer and a great grandson of a southern woman who had been taken slave late in the nineteenth century and spent the rest of her life in the North. His father was from Dar Fur in Western Sudan, while one of his grandfathers was an Egyptian. In Faris's veins, therefore, runs as much African blood as Arab. Culturally he is the personification of the Sudanese society; the natural product of centuries of intermarriage, intermixing, and the cross-cultural interaction between Arabs and Africans that give the Sudanese people those distinctive characteristics of which they are proud. Because of his mixed heritage, Sharkey, 2003-03-18 Histories written in the aftermath of empire have often featured conquerors and peasant rebels but have said little about the vast staffs of locally recruited clerks technicians teachers and medics who made colonialism work day to day Even as these workers maintained the colonial state they dreamed of displacing imperial power This book examines the history of the Anglo Egyptian Sudan 1898 1956 and the Republic of Sudan that followed in order to understand how colonialism worked on the ground affected local cultures influenced the rise of nationalism and shaped the postcolonial nation state Relying on a rich cache of Sudanese Arabic literary sources including poetry essays and memoirs as well as on colonial documents and photographs this perceptive study examines colonialism from the viewpoint of those who lived and worked in its midst By integrating the case of Sudan with material on other countries particularly India Sharkey gives her book broad comparative appeal She shows that colonial legacies such as inflexible borders atomized multi ethnic populations and autocratic governing structures have persisted hobbling postcolonial nation states Thus countries like Sudan are still living with colonialism struggling to achieve consensus and stability within borders that a fallen empire has left behind Asian and African Studies meisai.org.il, economy The focus of attention here is the judge as an instrument for implementing the government's Islamist policy by means of expanded judicial discretion based on a synthesis of traditional Islamic and modern non Islamic sources of law The book is intended for Islamists legal historians and lawyers Historical Dictionary of the Sudan Robert S. Kramer, Richard Andrew Lobban, Carolyn Fluehr-Lobban, 2013 The Republic of the Sudan was long the largest country in Africa and according to the general consensus also one of the least successful in many ways This was not entirely its fault since it lay along the fault line between Muslim and Christian Africa and between the Nile Valley civilizations and African Sudanic cultures This partly explains the long and bloody warfare waged by the Southerners to achieve independence which they did in July 2011 So this hefty book actually covers not one but two states This fourth edition of the Historical Dictionary of the Sudan does so first through a lengthy and detailed chronology tracing its relatively few successes and numerous failures The introductory essay does an admirable job of putting it all in perspective But the most informative part is the dictionary with now over 700 entries for this fourth edition They deal with important personalities politics the economy society culture religion and inevitably the civil war There are also appendixes and an extensive bibliography The Publishers Weekly, 1903 Civil War in the Sudan Martin Daly, Ahmad Alawad Sikainga, 1993-12-31 This is a comprehensive survey of the Sudanese Civil War It traces its origins and sets out the problems of nationality ethnicity that have led to the demise of one of the largest and most important states in Africa The contents include an introduction to the political and economic background to the Civil War an analysis of underdevelopment in Southern Sudan since independence a study of the possibilities of constitutional discourse in the area and a chapter on the foundation and expansion of the Sudan's People Liberation Army Slavery and Jihad in the Sudan Frederic C. Thomas, 2009-04 Slavery and Jihad in the Sudan is not only a riveting narrative about the struggle against the slave trade and martyrdom of Charles Gordon at the hands of the Mahdi but also an account of conditions during a period of great trauma Fred Thomas holds a PhD in social anthropology and has studied and worked in Sudan He relies on his vast knowledge and personal experience to bring attention to a place and time in a unique part of the world where grass roots conditions in a tribal society have changed little over time particularly in the vast expanses of rural Sudan Thomas highlights the extraordinary personalities of the time by sharing anecdotes from explorers Muslim holy men Christian missionaries foreign mercenaries and slave traders As Thomas recounts the legacy of Mahdism he also includes haunting vestiges of earlier times within the atrocities currently occurring in Darfur as well as an interesting correlation between ancient tribal and religious differences to their practical relevance in today's world Compiled with fragments of conversations captivating descriptions and personal stories Slavery and Jihad in the Sudan allows a glimpse into a fascinating period Religion and National Integration in Africa John O. Hunwick, 1992 Religion and National Integration in Africa is a collection of five papers presented at the one day seminar on religion and politics convened at Northwestern University in May 1988 They have been revised by their authors in this publication that includes transcripts of the invited commentaries
