Steve Tinney, Karen Sonik

Nomads Of Luristan And Their Material Culture:

Nomads of Luristan Inge Demant Mortensen, Ida Nicolaisen, Carlsberg Foundation's Nomad Research Project, 1993 The Lur nomads live in Luristan in the west of modern Iran Two Danish scholars Carl Gunnar Feilberg and Lennart Edelberg visited this region in 1935 and 1964 respectively and assembled two valuable ethnographic collections which provide a remarkable perspective over time on the historical transformation of Lur nomadism

The Art and Material Culture of Iranian Shi'ism Pedram Khosronejad, 2011-11-30 Shi'ism has been the official religion of Iran from the Safavids 1501-1732 to the present day The Shi'ism world experience has provided a rich artistic tradition encompassing painting sculpture and the production of artefacts and performance which has helped to embed Shi'ism identity in Iran as part of its national narrative In what areas of material culture has Iranian Shi'ism manifested itself through objects or buildings that are unique within the overall culture of Islam To what extent is the art and architecture of Iran from the Safavid period onwards identifiably Shi'ism What does this say about the relationship of nation state and faith in Iran Here leading experts trace the material heritage of Iranian Shi'ism within each of its political religious and cultural dimensions

Tribal Pastoralists in Transition Frank Hole, Sekandar Amanolahi-Baharvand, 2021-04-30 Genesis of the migration project Transformation of a Lur Luristan homeland of the Baharvand The pastoral nomads of Luristan From Dezful to Chaharmahal and Bakhtiari Morad Khan's camp Tribal customs Waiting for the word Crossing Kialan Kuh Daily life on the trail Settlers in Bala Griveh Atawak's memories how it was The promised land An ancient pastoral camp A last look at the nomads The situation of the nomads in the twentieth century A history of the Baharvand Postscript

Digital atlas of traditional food made from cereals and milk R.T.J. Cappers, 2018-07-15 Recent discussions about food safety and an awareness of vanishing traditions have resulted in an increasing interest in traditional foods and food heritage The Digital atlas of traditional food made from cereals and milk explores the traditional food products that could have been made by transitional hunter gatherers and the early farmers in south west Asia by examining the traditional foods still being made today The author has sampled traditional foods throughout south west Asia sometimes in large cities but more often in small villages or even remote farmhouses His research shows that traditions can persist over a long period but the rarity of some of the items he was able to collect also indicates that these foods represent an endangered mirror of our remote past In the first part of the atlas the author explores the basic principles of the processes applied to cereals and milk What kinds of traditional foods can be considered representative of an ancient and unique traditional cuisine Which technologies are necessary for their production And how might these foods have been made on a large scale and with efficient use of fuel How were they preserved for long periods The atlas portion of the book presents well over 200 samples of traditional foods Each sample includes a description with high quality photographs

Nomadism in Iran Daniel T. Potts, 2014 Potts examines the development of nomadism in Iran over the course of three millennia Evidence of nomadism in prehistory is examined and found insufficient to justify claims of its great antiquity The background of the earliest nomadic groups identified as Persian tribes by Herodotus is examined within the context of the migration of Iranian speakers onto the Iranian plateau in the late second or early first millennium B C Thereafter evidence of nomadic groups in Late Antiquity and early Islamic times is reviewed Milk Culture in Eurasia Masahiro Hirata, 2020-03-16 The invention of milking and milk use created a new mode of subsistence called pastoralism On rangelands across Eurasia pastoralists subsist by extensive animal husbandry and by processing their animals milk Based on the author's fieldwork over more than two decades this book details the processing systems and uses of milk observed in pastoralist and farm households in West Asia South Asia North Asia Central Asia the Tibetan Plateau and Europe and the Caucasus Milk culture in each region is characterized by its processing technology and use of milk and characteristics common to wider geographical spheres are identified Inclusion of case studies from the literature expands the continent wide perspective and provides further indications of how milk culture developed and diffused historically The inferences drawn are expressed in the author's monogenesis bipolarization hypothesis of Eurasian milk culture that milking and milk processing had a single center of origin in West Asia and that the technology involved the spread from there across the continent developing distinct characteristics in northern and southern spheres Finally because milk culture underpins pastoralism as a mode of subsistence the typology and theory of pastoralism are re-examined from the standpoint of milk culture Encyclopedia of Lesbian and Gay Histories and Cultures George Haggerty, Bonnie Zimmerman, 2003-09-02 Beginning in 1869 when the study of homosexuality can be said to have begun with the establishment of sexology this Encyclopedia offers accounts of the most important international developments in an area that now occupies a critical place in many fields of academic endeavours While gays and lesbians have shared many aspects of life their histories and cultures developed in profoundly different ways To reflect this crucial fact the Encyclopedia has been prepared in two separate volumes assuring that both histories receive full unbiased attention and that a broad range of human experience is covered Written by some of the most famous names in the field as well as new researchers this is intended as a reference for students and scholars in all areas of study as well as the general public Encyclopedia of Gay Histories and Cultures George Haggerty, 2013-11-05 First Published in 2000 A rich heritage that needs to be documented Beginning in 1869 when the study of homosexuality can be said to have begun with the establishment of sexology this encyclopedia offers accounts of the most important international developments in an area that now occupies a critical place in many fields of academic endeavors It covers a long history and a dynamic and ever changing present while opening up the academic profession to new scholarship and new ways of thinking A groundbreaking new approach While gays and lesbians have shared many aspects of life their histories and cultures developed in profoundly different ways To reflect this crucial fact the encyclopedia has been prepared in two separate volumes assuring that both histories receive full unbiased attention and that a broad range of human experience is covered Written for and by a widerange of people Intended as a reference for students and scholars in all fields as well as for the general public the encyclopedia is written in user friendly language At the same time it maintains a high level of scholarship that incorporates both passion and objectivity It is written by some of the most famous names in the field as well as new scholars whose research continues to advance gender studies into the future Softstone: Approaches to the study of chlorite and calcite vessels in the Middle East and Central Asia from prehistory to the present Carl S. Phillips, St John Simpson, 2018-08-13 Stone containers have been made and used in the Middle East for over eleven millennia where they predated the invention of pottery This is the first attempt to bring together different approaches to the study of softstone vessels particularly those carved from varieties of chlorite and covering all periods from prehistory to the present Religion and Daily Life in the Mountains of Iran Erika Friedl, 2020-12-10 Until the 1960s little was known inside or outside Iran about the tribes living in the country The anthropological research of Erika Friedl is now renowned for presenting comprehensive data collected over a 50 year period from her time among the Boir Ahmad tribal people living in the Zagros Mountains of Iran In this new book Friedl turns her attention to the subject of religion which she had only touched upon in her previous work About ninety percent of people in Iran and nearly everybody in Boir Ahmad are Muslims of the Twelver Shia group However studies of tribal people's religiosity beliefs and rituals are scarce and many researchers have discounted their views and experience regarding the tribes as only nominally religious because their practices do not fit in with the mainstream practices and ideas in Iran Religion and Daily Life in the Mountains of Iran corrects this view and provides a hallmark study of tribal people's religiosity Demonstrating the great diversity of their philosophical and religious ideas the book reveals the ways in which the tribes choose and express their religion define their communities and understand their world From conversations about God and his relationships with people to observations on ageing and death and research into the tribe's use of spells amulets and sacrifices to their beliefs about saints health and well being the book is an original ethnographic exploration of religion and daily life When Men Dance: Choreographing Masculinities Across Borders Jennifer Fisher, Anthony Shay, 2009-09-07 While dance has always been as demanding as contact sports intuitive boundaries distinguish the two forms of performance for men Dance is often regarded as a feminine activity and men who dance are frequently stereotyped as suspect gay or somehow unnatural But what really happens when men dance When Men Dance offers a progressive vision that boldly articulates double standards in gender construction within dance and brings hidden histories to light in a globalized debate A first of its kind this trenchant look at the stereotypes and realities of male dancing brings together contributions from leading and rising scholars of dance from around the world to explore what happens when men dance The dancing male body emerges in its many contexts from the ballet modern and popular dance worlds to stages in Georgian and Victorian England Weimar Germany India and the Middle East The men who dance and those who analyze them tell stories that will be both familiar and surprising for insiders and outsiders alike Ibss: Anthropology: 1995, 1996 This bibliography lists the most important works published in anthropology in 1995 Renowned for its international coverage and rigorous selection procedures IBSS provides researchers and librarians with the most comprehensive and scholarly bibliographic service available in the social sciences IBSS is compiled by the British Library of Political and Economic Science at the London School of Economics one of the world's leading social science institutions Published annually IBSS is available in four subject areas anthropology economics political science and sociology
