Pulse Of The Heartland:

Geopolitical Traditions David Atkinson, Klaus Dodds, 2002-09-26 Condemned as an intellectual poison by the late American geographer Richard Hartshorn, geopolitics has confounded its critics. Today it remains a popular and important intellectual field despite the persistent allegations that geopolitics helped to legitimate Hitler's policies of spatial expansionism and the domination of place. Using insights from critical geopolitics and cultural history, the contributors focus on how geopolitics has been created, negotiated, and contested within a variety of intellectual and popular contexts. Geopolitical Traditions argues that geopolitics has to take responsibility for the past whilst at the same time reconceptualising geopolitics in a manner which accounts for the dramatic changes in the late twentieth century. The book is divided into three sections: firstly Re-thinking Geopolitical Histories concentrates on how geopolitical conversations between European scholars and the wider world unfolded; secondly Geopolitics, Nation and Spirituality considers how geopolitical writings have been strongly influenced by religious iconography and doctrine, with examples drawn from Catholicism, Judaism, and Hinduism; and thirdly Reclaiming and Refocusing Geopolitics contemplates how geopolitics has been reformulated in the post-war period, with illustrations from France and the United States. Geopolitical Traditions brings together scholars working in a variety of disciplines and locations in order to explore a hundred years of geopolitical thought. Sanjay Chaturvedi, Punjab University, India. Paul Claval, Eaubonne, France. Michael J. Heffernan, Nottingham University, UK. Les Hepple, University of Bristol. Updating the Literary West, 1997. Western writers, says Thomas J. Lyon in his epilogue to Updating the Literary West, have grown up with the frontier myth but now find themselves in the early stages of creating a new western myth. The editors of the Literary History of the American West (TCU Press, 1987) hoped that the first volume would begin, not conclude, their exploration of the West's literary heritage. Out of this hope comes Updating the Literary West, a comprehensive reference anthology including essays by over one hundred scholars. A selected bibliography is included with each piece. In the ten years since publication of LHAW, western writing has developed a significantly larger presence in the national literary stream. A variety of cultural viewpoints have developed along with new tactics for literary study. New authors have risen to prominence and the range of subjects has changed and widened. Updating the Literary West looks at topics ranging from western classics to cowboys and Cadillacs and considers children's literature, ethnicity, environmental writing, gender issues, and other topics in which change has been rapid since publication of LHAW. This volume again affirms the West's literary legitimacy, status hard earned by the Western Literary Association and the lasting place of popular western writing as part of the growing and changing literary and American experience. An excellent reference for a wide range of readers and an invaluable resource for scholars and libraries. Selected list of contributors: James Maguire, Fred Erisman, Susan J. Rosowski, Gerald Haslam, Tom Pilkington, A. Carl Bredahl, Richard Slotkin, John G. Cawelti, Robert F. Pulse of the Heartland Melinda Cross,1990-01-01 Children, Families and Communities: Creating and Sustaining Integrated Services Pat Broadhead,Chrissy Meleady,Marco Delgado,2007-12-16 I would highly recommend this book There is a depth of insight here rarely accessible in parallel literature It provides an honest critical and authentic challenge to the emergent literature in areas of inter professional working integrated children s services and family support Children and Society This book draws on the work of Sheffield Children s Centre a well known community cooperative which is recognized worldwide for its cutting edge approach and models of good practice that have emerged from community participation Gaining an insight into the work of the Centre contributes to a better understanding of the challenges issues difficulties and opportunities which confront integrated services for children and families The authors illustrate how through working closely with the local community and through hearing the voices of children and adults service provision for children and families can meet needs and change lives The book Looks at the alternative approach of Sheffield Children s Centre where multi professional working has grown through common principles and aspirations rather than through policy imperative and legislation Details innovative practices and approaches to holistic work with children and families Explores the challenges and celebrations of working with a wide range of children families and communities both in the UK and internationally It has particular resonance with the multi professional agendas now required by Every Child Matters and the Children Act 2004 and is groundbreaking in terms of re thinking support for communities perceived to be in difficulty in fostering community cohesion and promoting active participation in community regeneration from a childcare perspective working from grassroots upwards Children Families and Communities is ideal for researchers policy makers practitioners and students training to work with children and families from a range of disciplines such as education health and social services including those pursuing the NPQICL National Professional Qualification for Integrated Centre Leadership qualification and the EYPs Early Years Professional Status Lyrical Iowa ,2000 Age of Pi and Prose Venkatesh Rangan,2022-11-12 Between 476 CE and 505 CE three heroic makers of history from India laid the seeds of a massive transformation in human society the effects of which we still feel today Budhagupta Vikramaditya the heroic warrior emperor unified a polarized and disintegrating country defeated the world conquering armies of the Huns appointed mentors to the Nan Qi emperors of Southern China and paved the way for organized state formation in Tibet He organized a series of mega conferences that powered a transformative intellectual ferment Two products of the intellectual ferment of these years were the child prodigy Aryabhata and the literary giant Subandhu In the wider realm of world politics and society the effects of events of these three decades in India laid the foundation for some of the most defining moments of civilizational history. These moments included the unification of the Korean peninsula in the 7th cent, the consolidation of imperial control by the Soga clan in Japan, the transformation of Chinese polity, a redefinition of Sassanian kingship in Persia, and an intellectual revolution in late medieval Europe. This book is a non-fiction narrative of this incredible yet rare story of three Indians who in a short span of thirty years created a whole new world.

If Mayors Ruled the World Benjamin R. Barber, 2013-11-05

In the face of the most perilous challenges of our time—climate change, terrorism, poverty, and trafficking of drugs, guns, and people—the nations of the world seem paralyzed. The problems are too big for governments to deal with. Benjamin Barber contends that cities and the mayors who run them can do and are doing a better job than nations. He cites the unique qualities cities worldwide share: pragmatism, civic trust, participation, indifference to borders and sovereignty, and a democratic penchant for networking, creativity, innovation, and cooperation. He demonstrates how city mayors singly and jointly are responding to transnational problems more effectively than nation-states mired in ideological infighting and sovereign rivalries. The book features profiles of a dozen mayors around the world, making a persuasive case that the city is democracy's best hope in a globalizing world, and that great mayors are already proving that this is so.
