Tradition, and Hidden Transcript in Q Richard A. Horsley, 2006 This collection of essays pursues two new approaches to Q the speeches of Jesus paralleled in the Gospels of Matthew and Luke The essays in Part One suggest that recent work in ethno poetics the ethnography of performance and theory of verbal art especially that of John Miles Foley both complements and challenges standard approaches to the teaching of Jesus They explore how Q speeches might be appreciated as oral performance that resonates with listeners in a community context by referencing Israelite popular tradition The essays in Part Two examine how the work of anthropologist and political scientist James C Scott on popular tradition the moral economy of the peasant and hidden transcripts may illuminate the social context and political implications of Q speeches From publisher s description African Religion in the Dialogue Debate Laurenti Magesa, 2010 Dialogue between African Religion and other world religions has regrettably been a much neglected area in formal religious discourse in Africa to date Moreover up to now the imperative of dialogue in the process of evangelism figures only peripherally if at all in the study of African Christian Theology This book is probably the first deliberate extensive and well argued attempt by an African theologian to fill this unfortunate lacuna How can Christian and African spiritualities interact with and enrich each other on the basis of mutual respect without as has historically been the case the one necessarily seeking to eradicate the other This is the fundamental question of dialogue discussed in the pages of this book Dr Laurenti Magesa is Senior Lecturer in African Theology at the Maryknoll Institute of African Studies and the Jesuit School of Theology Catholic University of Eastern Africa Nairobi Kenya African Immigrant Religions in America Jacob Olupona, Regina Gemignani, 2007-05 African immigration to

North America has been rapidly increasing Yet little has been written about this significant group of immigrants and the particular religious traditions that they are transplanting on our shores as scholars continue largely to focus instead on immigrants from Europe and Asia African Immigrant Religions in America focuses on new understandings and insights concerning the presence and relevance of African immigrant religious communities in the United States It explores the profound significance of religion in the lives of immigrants and the relevance of these growing communities for U S social life It describes key social and historical aspects of African immigrant religion in the U S and builds a conceptual framework for theory and analysis The volume broadens our understandings of the ways in which new immigration is changing the face of Christianity in the U S and adds needed breadth to the study of the black church incorporating the experiences of African immigrant religious communities in America African Women's Unique Vulnerabilities to HIV/AIDS L.

Gez,2018-09-08 In Kenya s vibrant urban religious landscape where Pentecostal and traditional churches of various orientations live side by side religious identity tends to overflow a single institutional affiliation While Kenya s Christianity may offer modes of coping with the fragilities of urban life it is subject to repeated crises and schisms often fueled by rumors and accusations of hypocrisy In order to understand the unfolding of Kenyans dynamic religious identities and inspired by the omnipresent distinction between religious membership and church visits Yonatan N Gez considers the complementary relations between a center of religious affiliation and expansion towards secondary practices Building on this basic distinction the book develops a theoretical innovation in the form of the religious repertoire model which maps individuals religious identities in terms of three intertwined degrees of practice Religions in the Modern World Linda Woodhead,Christopher Partridge,Hiroko Kawanami,2016-01-13 Religions in the Modern World Traditions and

Saye, 2022-04-25 In the Dogon funeral proceedings a major song cycle called baja ni is performed in a session of at least seven hours The texts of the chants are attributed to a legendary figure called Abir who as a blind singer in the nineteenth century roamed the heartland of the Dogon The baja ni songs have escaped scholarly attention thus far Singing with the Dogon Prophet by Walter E A van Beek Oumarou S Ongoiba and Atim D Saye provides their first publication in English as well as an analysis of these songs These texts deal with the relations between man and woman man's ambivalent dependency on the otherworld and with life and death the whole night performance is one of the high points of the funeral Additionally Abir is a prophet and during his life has uttered a great number of prophecies on a wide range of topics from local issues to the relation of the Dogon with the Fulbe herdsman and from the arrival of the colonials to ecological transformation This book examines how these prophecies with these songs offer an inside view of the way the Dogon construct the present in a continuous dialogue with their past and their projected future

Re-imagining African Christologies Victor I. Ezigbo, 2010-02-08 Who do you say that I am Mark 8:29 is the question of Christology By asking this question Jesus invites his followers to interpret him from within their own contexts history experience and social location Therefore all responses to Jesus's invitation are contextual But for too long many theologians particularly in the West have continued to see Christology as a universal endeavor that is devoid of any contextual influences. This understanding of Christology undermines Jesus's expectations from us to imagine and appropriate him from within our own contexts. In Reimagining African Christologies, Victor I. Ezigbo presents a constructive exposition of the unique ways that many African theologians and lay Christians from various church denominations have interpreted and appropriated Jesus Christ in their own contexts. He also articulates the constructive contributions that these African Christologies can make to the development of Christological discourse in non-African Christian communities. The Oxford Handbook of Global Religions, Mark Juergensmeyer, 2011-08-25. This is a reference for understanding world religious societies in their contemporary global diversity. Comprising 60 essays, the volume focuses on communities rather than beliefs, symbols, or rites. The contributors are leading scholars of world religions, many of whom are also members of the communities they study.

The Hope of Liberation in World Religions, Miguel A. De La Torre, 2008. Liberation theology emphasizes the Christian mission to bring justice to the poor and oppressed. As a part of Christian theology, liberation theology has been most frequently associated with the Catholic Church in Latin America. This groundbreaking work seeks to identify how the theological concepts of liberation theology might be manifested within other world faith traditions. This is thus the first book that attempts to find a common ground for liberation theology across religions. All of the contributors are scholars who share the religion or belief system they describe. Throughout, they endeavor to articulate liberationist concepts from the perspective of those who have been marginalized. Identity Crises and Indigenous Religious Traditions, Elijah Obinna, 2017-02-10. This book highlights the complex identity crises among many Christians as they negotiate their new identities, religious ideas, and convictions as both Christians and members of Nigerian African societies of indigenous religious traditions and identities. Through an interdisciplinary interpretation of religious practices and educational issues in teaching and ritual training, the author provides tools to help analyze empirical cases. These include the negotiation processes among Christians with focus on the Presbyterian Church of Nigeria (PCN) and members of the Ogo society within the Amasiri Afikpo North Local Government Area, Ebonyi state in South-eastern Nigeria. Identifying the power dynamic, identity role, and influence of indigenous religions on Christians and the Ogo society, this book reveals the limited interactions between many Christians and members of the Ogo society. Questions explored include what makes the Ogo society an integral part of the socio-religious life of Amasiri and what powers and identity does it confer on the initiates? How is the PCN within Amasiri responding to the Ogo society through its religious practices such as baptism, confirmation, local auxiliary ministries, and organisational structure? And how does the understanding and application of conversion within the PCN impact on its members' response to the Ogo society? Demonstrating how complex religious identities and practices of Nigerian African Christians can balance mission-influenced Christianity with indigenous religious traditions and identities, this book recognises the importance of appropriating the powers of indigenous cultures, ingenuity, and creativity in the construction and preservation of community identities. As such, it will be of keen interest to scholars of Christian theology indigenous religious practice and African lived religion Spirits and Letters Thomas G. Kirsch, 2008 This work offers a substantial intervention into broader debates about religion media and materiality
