

The background of the cover features a stylized, monochromatic blue-toned illustration. In the foreground, there is a silhouette of a city skyline with various building shapes. Behind the skyline, a large, intricate lattice tower, resembling a telecommunications or power transmission tower, rises diagonally across the frame. The overall aesthetic is modern and industrial.

Remaking Cities Proceedings Of The 1988 International Conference In Pittsburgh:

Remaking Cities Barbara Davis, 1989 In March 1988 an extraordinary Anglo American conference in Pittsburgh under the honorary chairmanship of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales debated the fate of the great nineteenth century industrial cities of Europe and the United States as they prepare to enter the twenty first century Four hundred architects planners futurists bankers ordinary citizens historians economists political scientists and environmentalists deliberated issues in five areas new economic opportunities for cities the evolving metropolis city centers versus suburban expansion preservation and development of neighborhoods and housing creating new partnerships for development and urban futures developing a vision for the city of tomorrow The Monongahela Valley industrial region served as a primary case study for the conference The copiously illustrated proceedings makes available the exciting and far reaching analyses of major authorities as they examine urban renewal in vivid case studies Collectively the essays emphasize the themes of collaborative participation in creating environments and the value of public private partnership in rehabilitating communities

Remaking Post-Industrial Cities Donald K. Carter, 2016-03-02 Remaking Post Industrial Cities Lessons from North America and Europe examines the transformation of post industrial cities after the precipitous collapse of big industry in the 1980s on both sides of the Atlantic presenting a holistic approach to restoring post industrial cities Developed from the influential 2013 Remaking Cities Congress conference chair Donald K Carter brings together ten in depth case studies of cities across North America and Europe documenting their recovery from 1985 to 2015 Each chapter discusses the history of the city its transformation and prospects for the future The cases cross cut these themes with issues crucial to the resilience of post industrial cities including sustainability doing more with less public engagement and equity social economic and environmental the most important issue cities face today and for the foreseeable future This book provides essential lessons learned from the mistakes and successes of these cities and is an invaluable resource for practitioners and students of planning urban design urban redevelopment economic development and public and social policy

Twentieth-Century Pittsburgh, Volume Two Roy Lubove, 1996-02-15 This volume traces the major decisions events programs and personalities that transformed the city of Pittsburgh during its urban renewal project which began in 1977 Roy Lubove demonstrates how the city showed united determination to attract high technology companies in an attempt to reverse the economic fallout from the decline of the local steel industry Lubove also separates the successes from the failures the good intentions from the actual results

Remaking the Rust Belt Tracy Neumann, 2016-05-26 Cities in the North Atlantic coal and steel belt embodied industrial power in the early twentieth century but by the 1970s their economic and political might had been significantly diminished by newly industrializing regions in the Global South This was not simply a North American phenomenon the precipitous decline of mature steel centers like Pittsburgh Pennsylvania and Hamilton Ontario was a bellwether for similar cities around the world Contemporary narratives of the decline of basic industry on both sides of the Atlantic make the postindustrial transformation of old manufacturing centers seem inevitable the product of natural business cycles and neutral market forces In Remaking the Rust Belt Tracy Neumann tells a different story one in which local political and business elites drawing on a limited set of internationally circulating redevelopment models pursued postindustrial urban visions They hired the same consulting firms shared ideas about urban revitalization on study tours at conferences and in the pages of professional journals and began to plan cities oriented around services rather than manufacturing all well in advance of the economic malaise of the 1970s While postindustrialism remade cities it came with high costs In following this strategy public officials sacrificed the well being of large portions of their populations Remaking the Rust Belt recounts how local leaders throughout the Rust Belt created the jobs services leisure activities and cultural institutions that they believed would attract younger educated middle class professionals In the process they abandoned social democratic goals and widened and deepened economic inequality among urban residents      The Good, the Bad and the Ugly (Routledge Revivals) Rod Hackney, 2014-06-05 First published in 1990 this title presents the personal reflections of renowned community architect Rod Hackney who served for many years as President of both the Royal Institute of British Architects and the International Union of Architects Educated in the Modernist tradition of architecture in Britain and Denmark Hackney's return to England in the 1970s changed his outlook completely Cities like Birmingham and Sheffield had been ruined by ill conceived planning whole communities had been torn apart by massive destruction of Victorian terraces and relocated to grim tower block estates To those communities that he has rescued from the threat of redevelopment Rod Hackney is a local hero Determined to save Britain's inner cities he has been a major influence on Prince Charles and a powerful spokesman for the silent majority of the urban poor who often have no say as to where and how they live      Planning in Divided Cities Frank Gaffikin, Mike Morrissey, 2011-04-18 Does planning in contested cities inadvertently make the divisions worse The 60s and 70s saw a strong role of planning social engineering etc but there has since been a move towards a more decentralised community planning approach The book examines urban planning and policy in the context of deeply contested space where place identity and cultural affinities are reshaping cities Throughout the world contentions around identity and territory abound and in Britain this problem has found recent expression in debates about multiculturalism and social cohesion These issues are most visible in the urban arena where socially polarised communities co habit cities also marked by divided ethnic loyalties The relationship between the two is complicated by the typical pattern that social disadvantage is disproportionately concentrated among ethnic groups who also experience a social and cultural estrangement based on religious or racial identity Navigating between social exclusion and community cohesion is essential for the urban challenges of efficient resource use environmental enhancement and the development of a flourishing economy The book addresses planning in divided cities in a UK and international context examining cities such as Chicago hyper segregated around race and Jerusalem acting as a crucible for a wider conflict The first section deals with concepts and theories examining the research literature and situating the issue within the urban challenges of competitiveness and inclusion Section 2 covers collaborative planning and identifies models of planning policy and urban governance that can operate in contested space Section 3 presents case studies from Belfast Chicago and Jerusalem examining both the historical contemporary features of these cities and their potential trajectories The final section offers conclusions and ways forward drawing the lessons for creating shared space in a pluralist cities and addressing cohesion and multiculturalism Addresses important contemporary issue of social cohesion vs urban competitiveness focus on impact of government policies will appeal to practitioners in urban management local government and regeneration Examines role of planning in cities worldwide divided by religion race socio economic etc Explores debate about contested space in urban policy and planning Identifies models for understanding contested spaces in cities as a way of improving effectiveness of government policy

Communities of Resistance and Resilience in the Post-Industrial City Daniel Holland,2024-08-01 This book is about the grassroots community revitalization movement in Pittsburgh Pennsylvania and Lyon France between 1980 and 2010 an extension of the post WWII civil rights campaign that is rarely considered It tells the story of residents attempts to improve their communities through social capital or people power In positive ways citizens created vibrant attractive neighborhoods But their actions also generated unintended consequences such as high real estate prices and minority displacement that threatened to unravel their hard work Communities of Resistance and Resilience is an ethnographic survey that relies on oral histories archival research on the ground site surveys and the author s personal experience as a neighborhood reinvestment practitioner for more than 30 years It brings to life stories that would otherwise remain obscured such as the lingering impact of the March for Equality and Against Racism organized in Lyon in 1983 and the formation of the Pittsburgh Community Reinvestment Group in Pittsburgh in 1988 both of which launched national movements This is of great use to scholars of transatlantic history as well as a general audience interested in modern social movements in the United States and France

Fractured Cities Brian D. Jacobs, 2003-09-02 Anglo American cities face economic decline social polarisation and racial conflict Their fate is increasingly decided by the global actions of transnational corporations and market forces Community groups find it difficult to gain access to the political system Ethnic minorities strive for empowerment while indebted city governments battle to maintain basic services Such is the urban crisis of the 1990s Fractured Cities describes the political economy of urban change and explores the future of the city Carnegie Magazine ,1989

The Evolution of American Urban Design David Gosling, Maria-Cristina Gosling, 2003 This volume is the culmination of a lifetime's research and practice It offers a comprehensive survey of American urban design beginning with an account of its origins from the 17th to the early 20th centuries and continuing with a decade by decade analysis of developments from the 1950s to the present The author's far reaching examination extends beyond architectural and planning issues to a wider picture of the times and he sets the development of urban planning theory and practice in the context of the cultural shifts that shaped them From shopping malls to utopian settlements and from the modification of existing cities to the creation of entire new towns every type of urban design project is covered The influence of leading figures is examined including Gyorgy Kepes Frank Lloyd Wright Kevin Lynch Philip Thiel Christopher Alexander Peter Calthorpe Robert Venturi Bernard Tschumi Rem Koolhaas Peter Eisenman Joel Garreau John Lang and many others who have made significant contributions to theory and practice BOOK JACKET
