Career Counseling Across the Lifespan Grafton T. Eliason,Jeff L. Samide,John Patrick,Trisha Eliason,2014-03-01

Career Counseling Across the Lifespan Community School and Higher Education is the latest volume in the Issues in Career Development Book Series edited by Grafton Eliason John Patrick and Jeff Samide from California University of Pennsylvania. The purpose of Career Development Across the Lifespan is to provide a broad and in depth look at the field of career development as it applies to individuals involved in all areas of community counseling school counseling and higher education. The book will examine some of the field's major theories, themes, approaches and assumptions using the writings of a variety of regional and international experts. Specific emphasis is spent examining issues reflective of today's challenges in developing and maintaining a workforce that is diverse, flexible and efficient. Readers will be provided with an action based framework built on the best available research information. This text book is truly the culmination of 8 years work compiling comprehensive studies from three previous volumes and updating key concepts in career counseling with the most contemporary theories and innovations. We examine three primary domains of career counseling throughout all of the developmental stages of the lifespan: community schools K-12 and higher education. We include a specific focus on career history and theories to prepare students for both the counseling environment and for national exams leading to certification and licensure such as the NCE National Counseling Exam. We also include cutting edge research on contemporary topics including such areas as military careers, life after the military, athletics, individuals with disabilities or special needs, career counseling in our current socio economic environment and current technologies such as virtual counseling. In addition, we have added case studies and key terms as study guides at the end of each chapter. We are fortunate to include many recognized experts in the field of career counseling. Career Counseling Across the Lifespan Community School and Higher Education is a comprehensive text written to address the broad needs of career counselors, educators and students today.

Encyclopedia of Career Development Jeffrey H. Greenhaus, Gerard A. Callanan, 2006-05-16. Covering a broad range of themes, the contributions represent original material written by internationally renowned scholars that view career development from a number of different dimensions. This multidisciplinary resource examines career related issues from psychological, sociological, educational, counseling, organizational behavior and human resource management perspectives.

Conceptualising Women's Working Lives Wendy Patton, 2013-04-20. Theoretical work on the career development of women has travelled a journey from critique to creation. Early work responded to and criticised a literature that focused on theorising male roles in a workplace that was conceptualised as providing vertical career paths primarily for middle class males. More recently, theorists are creating new constructions and frameworks to enable a more holistic understanding of career applicable to both women and men. These constructions include broadening the discussion from women's careers to women's working lives. This is the fifth book in the Sense Publishers Career Development Series. It features the vibrant work of contributors from around the world writing in the field of women's working lives. It emphasises the need to explore theoretical connections and understandings in order to facilitate a more holistic and inclusive understanding of women's working lives. The writers in the current volume acknowledge the changing roles of women in both public and private spheres. Women's roles in paid work are changing both in their nature and type of engagement. In addition, with an ageing population, women's roles in care work are increasingly being extended from child care to aged care. This book provides a history of theorising about women's careers in addition to presenting a focus on current empirical and theoretical work which contributes to understandings of women's working lives. It's contributions both map the current discourse and challenge future work to extend the boundaries of that discourse.

Career Development and Vocational Behavior of Racial and Ethnic Minorities Frederick T.L. Leong, Frederick Leong, 2014-03-05 This volume presents the single most comprehensive source of knowledge on the career development of racial and ethnic minorities. In so doing it serves as a resource to graduate students learning about career development and career counseling, counselors and psychologists providing career counseling to racial and ethnic minorities, and psychologists and counselors doing research on the career development of these diverse groups. In recognition of the value of both culture specific and culture general information about the vocational psychology of racial and ethnic minorities in the United States, the book has a dual focus. The first eight chapters are devoted to culture specific information about career development and vocational behavior. The final two chapters synthesize and integrate the materials presented in the eight culture specific chapters. The text has been divided into three sections. The first section focuses on career theory and research with racial and ethnic minorities. It consists of a review of the relevance and utility of various career theories and models from mainstream vocational psychology to our understanding of the vocational behavior and career development of racial and ethnic minorities: African Americans, Hispanic Americans, Asian Americans, and American Indians. These chapters also summarize other theories from ethnic minority psychology that add to our understanding of minority career development. Finally, they review the existing empirical literature on the career development of these groups and provide a critique of this literature with recommendations for future research. The second section focuses on assessment and intervention with racial and ethnic minorities. The inclusion of the assessment dimension is very important because assessment is such a large and significant component of the career counseling process with these groups. The chapter authors offer guidelines and recommendations for providing career interventions with racial and ethnic minorities. In presenting these guidelines, they also address some of the cultural factors unique to each group that may serve either as facilitators or as inhibitors in the career counseling process. The third section includes commentaries, suggestions, reactions, and syntheses of the previous sections from scholars in the field of vocational psychology. These authors identify and examine the common principles, problems, and themes running across the chapters and offer suggestions for advancing the field of racial and ethnic minority vocational psychology. This book will become both a valuable source of current information about the vocational psychology of racial and ethnic minorities as well as an inspiration for future research into the career development and vocational behavior of these culturally different individuals
