Blum, 2018-09-11 The traditions and institutions that we call religions abound with references to the supernatural ancestral spirits karma the afterlife miracles revelation deities etc How are students of religion to approach the behaviors doctrines and beliefs that refer to such phenomena which by their very nature are supposed to defy the methods of empirical research and the theories of historical scholarship That is the question of methodological naturalism The Question of Methodological Naturalism offers ten thoughtful engagements with that perennial question for the academic study of religion Contributors include established senior scholars and newer voices propounding a range of perspectives resulting in both surprising points of convergence and irreconcilable differences in how our shared discipline should be conceptualized and practiced The Study of Religion and its Meaning J.E. Barnhart, 2011-11-21

Since its founding by Jacques Waardenburg in 1971 Religion and Reason has been a leading forum for contributions on theories, theoretical issues and agendas related to the phenomenon and the study of religion. Topics include among others category formation, comparison, ethnophilosophy, hermeneutics, methodology, myth, phenomenology, philosophy of science, scientific atheism, structuralism and theories of religion. From time to time the series publishes volumes that map the state of the art and the history of the discipline.

Naturalism and Protectionism in the Study of Religions Juraj Franek, 2020-02-06

How should we study religion? Must we be religious ourselves to truly understand it? Do we study religion to advance our knowledge or should the study of religions help to reintroduce the sacred into our increasingly secularized world? Juraj Franek argues that the study of religion has long been split into two competing paradigms: reductive naturalist and non-reductive protectionist. While the naturalistic approach seems to run the risk of explaining religious phenomena away, the protectionist approach appears to risk falling short of the methodological standards of modern science. Franek uses primary source material from Greek and Latin sources to show that both competing paradigms are traceable to Presocratic philosophy and early Christian literature. He presents the idea that naturalists are distant heirs not only of the French Enlightenment but also of the Ionian one. Likewise, he argues that protectionists owe much of their arguments and strategies not only to Luther and the Reformation but to the earliest Christian literature. This book analyses the conflict between reductive and non-reductive approach in the modern study of religions and positions the Cognitive Science of Religion against a background of previous theories, ancient and modern, to demonstrate its importance for the revindication of the naturalist paradigm.

NVMEN, the Academic Study of Religion, and the IAHR Tim Jensen, Armin Geertz, 2015-11-24

Nvmen publishes papers representing the most recent scholarship in all areas of the history of religions ranging from antiquity to contemporary history. It covers a diversity of geographical regions and religions of the past as well as of the present. The approach of the journal to the study of religion is strictly non-confessional. While the emphasis lies on empirical, source-based research, typical contributions also address issues that have a wider historical or comparative significance for the advancement of the discipline. Numen also publishes papers that discuss important theoretical innovations in the study of religion and reflective studies on the history of the discipline. Brill is proud to present this special volume of articles compiled to celebrate the occasion of the 60th anniversary of NVMEN International Review for the History of Religions in 2014. The articles in this volume have been selected under the auspices of the International Association for the History of Religions (IAHR) and reflect critically on the past, present and future of NVMEN, the IAHR and the study of the History of Religions.

Manufacturing Religion Russell T. McCutcheon, 1997-06-19

In this new book, author Russell McCutcheon offers a powerful critique of traditional scholarship on religion, focusing on multiple interrelated targets. Most prominent among these are the History of Religions as a discipline Mircea Eliade one of the founders of the modern discipline recent scholarship on Eliade's life and politics contemporary textbooks on world religions and the oft repeated bromide that religion is a sui generis phenomenon McCutcheon skillfully analyzes the ideological basis for and service of the sui generis argument demonstrating that it has been used to constitute the field's object of study in a form that is ahistoric apolitical fetishized and sacrosanct As such he charges it has helped to create departments jobs and publication outlets for those who are comfortable with such a suspect construction while establishing a disciplinary ethos of astounding theoretical naivete and a body of scholarship to match Surveying the textbooks available for introductory courses in comparative religion the author finds that they uniformly adopt the sui generis line and all that comes with it As a result he argues they are not just uncritical which helps keep them popular among the audiences for which they are intended but badly disserve but actively inhibit the emergence of critical perspectives and capacities And on the geopolitical scale he contends the study of religion as an ahistorical category participates in a larger system of political domination and economic and cultural imperialism

The Humanities Frank Whaling, 2019-10-08 No detailed description available for The Humanities

After Bardaisan G. J. Reinink, Alexander Cornelis Klugkist, 1999 The present collection of twenty five studies represents the general theme of continuity and change as applied to various topics connected with the rich heritage of Syriac culture These studies cover the period from the early third to the fourteenth centuries with an incidental excursion into modern times The focal areas are early Syriac Christianity and its Umwelt and the later West Syrian and East Syrian traditions Most of the contributions deal with historical subjects with the general theme elaborated in two different directions first ecclesiastical history monasticism hagiography and theology and second secular history literature scholarship ideas and religions In a more specific sense the contributions focus on patterns of cultural continuity and change such as the influence and reception of Greek secular and theological culture and literature developments within early and later Syriac asceticism religious controversy the interaction between different religious communities and the effects of major political and social changes on the cultural and religious life of the various Syriac communities One of the most radical political changes in the Middle East concerns the Arab conquest and the rise of Islam in the seventh century Some authors explicitly discuss the consequences of these changes for the Christian Syriac and Armenian populations The effects of these historical events on intellectual social and economic life are some of the topics discussed in this connection Of particular interest is the number of newly edited Syriac texts in this volume which make available translations of Greek theological works works resulting from the reception of pagan philosophy and magic texts reflecting popular belief

Science, Religion, the Humanities and Hope Anne Runehov, Michael Fuller, 2024-03-19 This book collects a multidisciplinary range of contributions focusing on the prolific and seminal work of Willem Drees in the fields of philosophy of religion philosophy of the humanities and science and theology religion Trained in both theoretical physics and theology philosophy of religion Drees holds doctoral degrees in both theology and in philosophy and amongst other distinguished positions held professorships at the University of Leiden and at the University of Tilburg Drees was also Editor in Chief of Zygon Journal of Religion Science between 2008 and 2018 and served as President of the European Society for the Study of Science and Theology ESSSAT between 2002 and 2008 In 2018 he was elected as member of the Royal Holland Society of Sciences and Humanities KHMW This contributed volume builds on Drees expansive and provocative scholarly contributions notably around the concept and meaning of naturalism and the humanities to the fields of science and religion as exemplified by his works Religion Science and Naturalism 1996 and What Are the Humanities For 2021 In a time where more and more young people across the globe are entering higher education such cross disciplinary explorations and re evaluations are vital to the field Accordingly by approaching his work from a variety of disciplines this collection illuminates the broad reach of Drees work and provides scholars from various fields with many new and rich opportunities avenues for research

Religion, Culture and Methodology Groningen Working-Group for the Study of Fundamental Problems and Methods of Science of Religion, 1973

Modern Societies & the Science of Religions Gerard Wiegers, 2018-11-13 This book brings together studies by seventeen specialists in the science of religions in which they relate the changes in their discipline to the changes which have occurred in a select number of modernising societies worldwide It attempts to study these developments in their relation to and as conditioned and constrained by cultural change changes in educational systems technology population for example migration economic patterns politics and last but not least religious systems The essays focus on resp France Germany the Netherlands Spain the USA Turkey Israel Morocco Saudi Arabia South Africa Indonesia Japan and China Written in honour of Dr Lammert Leertouwer professor of History of Religions and the Comparative Study of Religions at Leiden University from 1979 until his retirement in 1997 the book is particularly important for all those who are interested in the religious social and political contexts of the academic Study of Religions in general and in the various countries dealt with in particular

Positioning the Scholar Indrek Peedu, 2025-08-13 This book presents a systematic study of the issue of positioning in the scientific study of religion The book discusses the wider context of positioning in the study of religion highlights the epistemological and methodological presumptions as well as the implicit goals in play in the cognitive and evolutionary approaches Particular focus is on the contemporary evolutionary cognitive and behavioral study of religion and the issues of positioning in the context of these research approaches Based on this it presents an in depth analysis of the prevalent conceptualizations of the position of the scholar in the study of religion methodological naturalism methodological agnosticism neutrality and the dialogical position Furthermore for the first time the relevance of both evolutionary epistemology and the underdetermination of scientific research is shown for the purposes of a full evaluation of the justifiability of particular epistemological arguments Finally directions forward in discussing and conceptualizing the position of the scholar in the study of religion are suggested The book is expected to be of relevance and interest for scholars of religion interested in method and theory in the study of religion evolutionary and cognitive study of religion and other related fields Method and Theory in the Study of Religion: Working Papers from Hannover Steffen Führding, 2017-07-03

Since the downfall of the phenomenology of religion as the leading paradigm in the study of religion in the 1960s theoretical and methodological discussions surrounding the nature and identity of the study of religion as an academic discipline have proliferated. The essays included in this volume approach these debates from a variety of angles. Based on a series of talks held at the University of Hannover over the last few years, the essays are intended to be understood as diagnostic works in progress and thus as working papers, all of which strive to point out important problems and perspectives in the field of theories and methodology and to draw attention to the future of the discipline. Using developments in Hannover as a launch pad, the volume forms the basis for further insights into the direction of the study of religion as a discipline at large.

Religious Studies Gregory D. Alles, 2010-03-01 Drawing on recent developments in the comparative study of religion, this book explores the trends of the past sixty years from a global perspective. Each of the ten chapters covers the study of religion in a different region of the world, from Europe and the Americas to Asia and the Far East. Topics covered include local background to the study of religions, formation of religious studies in the region, important thinkers and writings, institutions, interregional diversity and interregional connections, emerging issues. This book is a major contribution to the field of religious studies and a valuable reference for scholars, researchers, and graduate students.

The Routledge Handbook of Research Methods in the Study of Religion Steven Engler, Michael Stausberg, 2021-11-29 This substantially revised second edition of The Routledge Handbook of Research Methods in the Study of Religion remains the only comprehensive survey in English of methods and methodology in the discipline. Designed for non-specialists and upper undergraduate/graduate level students, it discusses the range of methods currently available to stimulate interest in unfamiliar methods and enable students and scholars to evaluate methodological issues in research. The Handbook comprises 39 chapters, 21 of which are new and the rest revised for this edition. A total of 56 contributors from 10 countries cover a broad range of topics, divided into three clear parts: Methodology, Methods, Techniques. The first section addresses general methodological issues, including comparison, research design, research ethics, intersectionality, and theorizing/analysis. The second addresses specific methods, including advanced computational methods, autoethnography, computational text analysis, digital ethnography, discourse analysis, experiments, field research, grounded theory, interviewing, reading images, surveys, and videography. The final section addresses specific techniques, including coding, focus groups, photo elicitation, and survey experiments. Each chapter covers practical issues and challenges, theoretical bases, and their use in the study of religion, illustrated by case studies. The Routledge Handbook of Research Methods in the Study of Religion is essential reading for students and researchers in the study of religion, as well as for those in related disciplines.
