Remembered Words Alastair Fowler, 2021-07-22 Remembered Words is a selection of Alastair Fowler's essays on genre realism and the emblem three interrelated subjects published over six decades. It offers readers a way to arrive at a sense of how approaches to these subjects have changed over that period. Specifically, it shows how genre has come to be understood in terms of family resemblance theory. Remembered Words argues that realism can be seen as altering historically so that Renaissance realism for example differs from those of later periods. Similar changes are traced in the emblem which Fowler shows to be not only a particular genre but an element of various kinds of realism. Famous passages in ancient literature are remembered in the familiar emblems of the Renaissance and Renaissance emblems form the basis of metaphors in later literature. Meanwhile the general approach of the critic and the reader has been altering over the years as becomes evident when one takes into account the time scale of sixty years, an unusually long working life for a critic. Modern theoretical approaches which are often casually regarded as self-evident may appear less inevitable and more arbitrary. This is not to say that they are necessarily wrong just that they need to be argued for. Remembered Words is intended for senior undergraduates and for graduate students who may use it to form ideas of Fowler's approach and that of his contemporaries and predecessors over the last half century. The Cambridge Introduction to German Poetry Judith Ryan, 2012-11 Exploring traditional poems alongside new examples, this Introduction conveys the rich rewards that come with reading German poetry.

Recalling Recitation in the Americas Janet Neigh, 2017-01-01 Spoken word is one of the most popular styles of poetry in North America. While its prevalence is often attributed to the form's strong ties to oral culture, Recalling Recitation in the Americas reveals how poetry memorization and recitation curricula shaped by British Imperial policy influenced contemporary performance practices. During the early twentieth century, educators frequently used the recitation of canonical poems to instill proper speech and behaviour in classrooms in Canada, the Caribbean, and the United States. Janet Neigh critically analyses three celebrated performance poets: E. Pauline Johnson (1861-1913), Langston Hughes (1902-1967), and Louise Bennett (1919-2006) who refashioned recitation to cultivate linguistic diversity and to resist its disciplinary force. Through an examination of the dialogues among their poetic projects, Neigh illuminates how their complicated legacies as national icons obscure their similar approaches to resisting Anglicization. Recalling Recitation in the Americas focuses on the unexplored relationship between education history and literary form and establishes the far-reaching effects of poetry memorization and recitation on the development of modern performance poetry in North America.

Slow Violence and the Environmentalism of the Poor Rob Nixon, 2011-06-01 Slow violence from climate change, toxic drift, deforestation, oil spills, and the environmental aftermath of war occurs gradually and often invisibly. Rob Nixon focuses on the inattention we have paid to the lethality of many environmental crises in contrast with the sensational spectacle-driven messaging that impels public activism today. Poetry and Memory in Karaite Prayer Joachim Yeshaya, 2013-11-07 In

Archibald Lampman Eric Ball,2013-05-01 Treasuring the past savouring the present and wanting to do right by the future Archibald Lampman was a poet keenly focused on the workings of time He was also a thinker of mystical predisposition His goal was not to transcend time but to find redemptive meaning within it Archibald Lampman Memory Nature Progress explores the ways in which Lampman pursued this goal in relation to the three faces of time Memory fascinated Lampman He relished the alchemy by which the dross of past experience could be left behind and the gold preserved Nature compelled his mind and emotions and his clear eyed observations of both countryside and wilderness settings gave rise to a self evolved poetics of inclusiveness In his celebrations of nature in all its manifestations mild or bleak he anticipated the work of iconic Canadian painter Tom Thomson and he forecasted the environmentalism of our own time Progress for Lampman spelled societal rectification By forwarding the cause of social betterment one was part of a movement larger than oneself and this expansion too was redemptive Archibald Lampman Memory Nature Progress is the first book on this foundational figure in Canadian literature to appear in over twenty five years and the first thematically focused study Combining close analysis with biographical context it shows how Lampman s oeuvre was shaped by his responses to his physical surroundings and to his social intellectual milieu as filtered through his stubbornly independent outlook

The Myth of War in British and Polish Poetry, 1939-1945 Marzena Sokołowska-Paryż,2002 In recent decades there has been a marked tendency to look at war literature from a perspective that reaches beyond the experiences of particular nations Characteristically though poetry and prose from Poland Hungary and former Czechoslovakia are included in multi national anthologies the war literatures of Eastern Europe seem to have been ignored in critical studies The Myth of War in British and Polish Poetry 1939 1945 aims to fill in this critical vacuum This study concentrates on the processes through which British and Polish poetry contributed to the shaping of myths of war each offering creative interpretations of historical facts and developments Both poetic traditions are analysed in the context of their national literary heritage and historical background in order to explain the discrepancies characterising these imaginative versions of war Yet the ultimate objective is to discover spheres of convergence within a network of differences This comparative analysis of British and Polish war poetry paves the way for discussions about the relationships between national and individual experiences of history inviting consideration of how seemingly unsurpassable
