Wonder and Exile in the New World Alex Nava, 2013-06-21 In Wonder and Exile in the New World

Alex Nava explores the border regions between wonder and exile particularly in relation to the New World. It traces the preoccupation with the concept of wonder in the history of the Americas beginning with the first European encounters, goes on to investigate later representations in the Baroque age and ultimately enters the twentieth century with the emergence of so-called magical realism. In telling the story of wonder in the New World, Nava gives special attention to the part it played in the history of violence and exile, either as a force that supported and reinforced the Conquest or as a voice of resistance and decolonization. Focusing on the work of New World explorers, writers and poets and their literary descendants, Nava finds that wonder and exile have been two of the most significant metaphors within Latin American cultural, literary and religious representations. Beginning with the period of the Conquest, especially with Cabeza de Vaca and Las Casas, continuing through the Baroque with Cervantes and Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz and moving into the twentieth century with Alejo Carpentier and Miguel Ángel Asturias, Nava produces a historical study of Latin American narrative in which religious and theological perspectives figure prominently.

Parish Churches in the Early Modern World Andrew Spicer, 2016-12-05 Across Europe the parish church has stood for centuries at the centre of local communities it was the focal point of its religious life the rituals performed there marked the stages of life from the cradle to the grave Nonetheless the church itself artistically and architecturally stood apart from the parish community It was often the largest and only stone built building in a village it was legally distinct being subject to canon law as well as consecrated for the celebration of religious rites The buildings associated with the cure of souls were sacred sites or holy places where humanity interacted with the divine In spite of the importance of the parish church these buildings have generally not received the same attention from historians as non parochial places of worship This collection of essays redresses this balance and reflects on the parish church across a number of confessions Catholic Lutheran Reformed and Anti Trinitarian during the early modern period Rather than providing a series of case studies of individual buildings each essay looks at the evolution of parish churches in response to religious reform as well as confessional change and upheaval They examine aspects of their design and construction furnishings and material culture liturgy and the use of the parish church While these essays range widely across Europe the volume also considers how religious provision and the parish church were translated into a global context with colonial and commercial expansion in the Americas and Asia This interdisciplinary volume seeks to identify what was distinctive about the parish church for the congregations that gathered in them for worship and for communities across the early modern world

Magical Realism and the History of the Emotions in Latin America Jerónimo

Arellano, 2015-05-21 Iconoclastic in spirit: Magical Realism and the History of the Emotions in Latin America is the first study of affect and emotion in magical realist literature. Against the grain of a vast body of scholarship, it argues that magical realism is neither exotic commodity nor postcolonial resistance but an art form fueled by a search for spaces of wonder in a disenchanted world. Linking the rise and fall of magical realism and kindred narrative forms to the shifting value of wonder as an emotional experience, this thought-provoking study proposes a radical new approach to canonical novels such as One Hundred Years of Solitude. Received as one of the most convincing manifestations of the turn to affect in contemporary Latin American critical thought, Magical Realism and the History of the Emotions draws on affect theory, the history of emotions, and new materialism to reframe key questions in Latin American literature and culture. Military Ethos and Visual Culture in Post-conquest Mexico

Mónica Domínguez Torres, 2013. Bringing to bear her extensive knowledge of the cultures of Renaissance Europe and sixteenth-century Mexico, Mónica Domínguez Torres here investigates the significance of military images and symbols in post-Conquest Mexico. She shows how the conquest, in fact, involved dynamic exchanges between cultures and that certain interconnections between martial, social, and religious elements resonated with similar intensity among Mesoamericans and Europeans, creating indeed cultural bridges between these diverse communities. Multidisciplinary in approach, this study builds on scholarship in the fields of visual, literary, and cultural studies to analyse the European and Mesoamerican content of the martial imagery fostered within the indigenous settlements of central Mexico, as well as the ways in which local communities and leaders appropriated, manipulated, modified, and reinterpreted foreign visual codes. Military Ethos and Visual Culture in Post-Conquest Mexico draws on post-structuralist and post-colonial approaches to analyse the complex dynamics of identity formation in colonial communities. Military Ethos and Visual Culture in Post-Conquest Mexico

The Language of Displayed Art Michael O'Toole, 1994. Drawing on his background as a linguist, O'Toole analyses in detail a number of major works of art to show how the semiotic approach relates a work's immediate impact to other aspects of our response to it, to the scene portrayed, to the social intellectual and economic world within which the artist and his or her patrons worked and to our own world It further provides ways of talking about and interrelating aspects of composition technique and the material qualities of the work
