The History of Urban Planning in Spain, Portugal and Morocco Carmen Hass-Klau, 2025-09-08 This book includes a historic overview of urban planning in the Iberian Peninsula and Morocco from 700 AD until the 20th century Under Muslim rule there was an urban sophistication which was unfamiliar in the Christian world The conquest of Granada and the discovery of America was seen as the beginning of a new era but this book presents a different view of Spain and Portugal which does not equate with the glamorous picture usually painted Chapters detail the untold story of Muslim refugees who founded towns in Morocco and how the conflicts between Morocco and Spain started not only politically but also in terms of town planning when Spain took over the Moroccan north The history of Islamic city planning shows more consistency compared to the Christian equivalent which became dominant worldwide whereas the Islamic approach is mainly forgotten Despite this the change from Islamic to Christian cities was extremely slow regardless of the power of the church and the wealth which came from abroad In tracing this history this book seeks to highlight the past in order to learn from it and move towards building a future of livable cities This book will be of interest to students and instructors of planning history urban planning and human geography and to people who are generally interested in history and cities

The Town Planning Review, 1912

Urban Space in the Middle Ages and the Early Modern Age Albrecht Classen, 2009-12-15 Although the city as a central entity did not simply disappear with the Fall of the Roman Empire the development of urban space at least since the twelfth century played a major role in the history of medieval and early modern mentality within a social economic and religious framework Whereas some poets projected urban space as a new utopia others simply reflected the new significance of the urban environment as a stage where their characters operate very successfully As today the premodern city was the locus where different social groups and classes got together sometimes peacefully sometimes in hostile terms The historical development of the relationship between Christians and Jews for instance was deeply determined by the living conditions within a city By the late Middle Ages nobility and bourgeoisie began to intermingle within the urban space which set the stage for dramatic and far reaching changes in the social and economic make up of society Legal historical aspects also find as much consideration as practical questions concerning water supply and sewer systems Moreover the early modern city within the Ottoman and Middle Eastern world likewise finds consideration Finally as some contributors observe the urban space provided considerable opportunities for women to carve out a niche for themselves in economic terms
