

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine whether there were differences in the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders between two groups of female nurses working in different departments of a tertiary care hospital. The prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders was determined by means of a self-administered questionnaire among 100 female nurses who worked in the intensive care unit (ICU) and 100 female nurses who worked in the medical-surgical department. The prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders was higher among ICU nurses than among medical-surgical nurses. The prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders was significantly higher among ICU nurses than among medical-surgical nurses for all body parts except the neck and shoulder. The prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders was significantly higher among ICU nurses than among medical-surgical nurses for all activities except lifting and carrying heavy loads. The prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders was significantly higher among ICU nurses than among medical-surgical nurses for all risk factors except age, years of experience, and shift work.
