

A serene sunset scene over the ocean. The sun is a bright, glowing orb in the upper center, casting a warm, golden light across the sky and water. In the background, a large, dark rock formation rises from the sea, its silhouette softened by the low light. The foreground shows the gentle ripples of the water, reflecting the ambient light. A semi-transparent dark rectangle is centered over the image, containing the quote in white text.

Loving anything is bound to the pain of losing it.

Loving And Losing:

Loving Losing & Living LaShonda Smalls McElveen, 2017-01-06 Loving Losing Living Loving Losing and Living is one woman's spiritual journey of how her faith and trust in God helped her through the death of her 32 year old husband who was killed in a car accident In a five year period her status changed from virgin to married to widow and single mother of two small children Her faith in God as healer of all wounds both physical and emotional is what got her through the roughest time of her life She declares that prayer and praise helped her to the other side of the rainbow where there was something wonderful awaiting her after the storm

On Form, 2008-09-18 What is form Why does form matter In this imaginative and ambitious study Angela Leighton assesses not only the legacy of Victorian aestheticism and its richly resourceful keyword form but also the very nature of the literary She shows how writers for two centuries and more have returned to the idea of form as something which contains the secret of art itself She tracks the development of the word from the Romantics to contemporary poets and offers close readings of among others Tennyson Pater Woolf Yeats Stevens and Plath to show how form has provided the single most important way of accounting for the movements of literary language itself She investigates for instance the old debate of form and content of form as music or sound shape as the ghostly dynamic and dynamics of a text as well as its long association with the aestheticist principle of being for nothing In a wide ranging and inventive argument she suggests that form is the key to the pleasure of the literary text and that that pleasure is part of what literary criticism itself needs to answer and convey

Love, Reason and Morality Katrien Schaubroeck, Esther Kroeker, 2016-07-28 This book brings together new essays that explore the connection between love and reasons The observation that considerations of love carry significant weight in the deliberative process opens up new perspectives in the classic discussion about practical reasons and gives rise to many interesting questions about the nature of love's reasons about their source and legitimacy about their relation to moral and epistemic reasons and about the extent to which love is sensitive to reasons The contributors to this volume orient questions related to love within the broader context of the contemporary discussion on practical reasons and move forward the conversation about the normative dimensions of love Love Reason and Morality will be of interest to philosophers working on issues of normativity meta ethics and moral psychology and especially those interested in the source of practical reasons and the role of attachments in practical deliberation The Art of Shakespeare's Sonnets Helen
