How to Teach Morality Georg Lind, 2016-07-30 The book What is morality How can it be measured What is its nature and origin And most importantly how can it be taught These age old yet still unanswered questions cannot be addressed Lind argues unless we develop a new science of moral behavior and education Lind does just that in his book invoking related contributions by eminent philosophers psychologists and educators

The first part presents a new way of studying morality and a great bulk of Lind's own research and other studies backing it. The second part shows how to teach morality effectively with Lind's Konstanz Method of Dilemma Discussion KMDD which is used in all ages and across cultures. On the basis of many years of practical international experience with the KMDD in different institutions of education professional schools armed forces and prisons Lind provides advice on how educators can learn implement and improve the method. Lind also presents the related Just Community method of democratic community building. The author Born shortly after World War II in 1947 Dr Georg Lind's interest in morality goes back to his adolescence when he learned about the atrocities of the Nazi dictatorship. How can we prevent this from happening again? How can we develop morality peace and democracy? This book contains his answer. Lind was professor of psychology and researcher at the University of Konstanz Germany. He was guest professor at the University of Illinois at Chicago the Universidad de Monterrey and the Humboldt University at Berlin. He lectured in Brazil Chile China Colombia Mexico Poland Switzerland and the United States.

Meaning, measurement, and correlates of moral development Daniel Brugman, Monika Keller, Bryan Sokoll, 2017-10-02. Morality has once again become an important focus of research in different scientific disciplines from biology neuroscience and evolutionary psychology to social psychology economics and political philosophy. One of the reasons for this renewed interest stems from the tragedies that human beings individually or in groups inflict upon the lives of one another and the world at large: tragedies such as war the extinction of species and ecological destruction climate change and last but not least the financial crisis. Moral destitution and collapse a lack of respect for human dignity and worth and deficits in proper moral functioning at all levels of the world community often discounted or masked by transparent excuses and vacuous rationalizations are all viewed as principal causes of the social societal and ecological crises with which we are confronted today. The key to solving these crises must lie at least partly in a better understanding and active deployment of morality. Developmental psychology is charged with the specific task of illuminating the growth and evolution of moral functioning in human beings. This book was originally published as a special issue of the European Journal of Developmental Psychology.

Sustainable Human Development in the Twenty-First Century - Volume I Ismail Sirageldin, 2008-12-31. Sustainable Human Development in the Twenty First Century is a component of Encyclopedia of Human Resources Policy Development and Management in the global Encyclopedia of Life Support Systems EOLSS which is an integrated compendium of twenty Encyclopedias. The volume of Human Development examines the state and nature of human development and identifies factors that determine its promotion for the twenty first century. A general goal since the ultimate goal for human development is to enhance the quality of human life. However the concept quality of human life is not well defined. It is determined by a set of interrelated factors that cut across many disciplines with varied perspectives and paradigms. These include the prevailing culture health status economic performance technological development political and social conditions the building of human capacity and capabilities and institutional development on the local and global levels.

For example in an environment characterized by a better quality of human life it is expected that people will be able to lead long and productive lives They are also expected to enjoy good health have access to knowledge and educational opportunities and be treated by all with respect in a socially equitable and dignified manner In the sphere of political economy they are expected to have the opportunity to participate in governance decisions that affect their lives and the community in which they live and to have the potential to earn sufficient income to supply themselves with adequate nutrition shelter and other material and aesthetic needs Furthermore people are expected to maintain a sustainable environment and equitable social contracts across space and generations especially in the context of the evolving global governance The volume of Sustainable Human Development in the Twenty First Century is divided into five topics which are then expanded into multiple subtopics each as a chapter presented in two volumes The first is Major issues in Human Development and provides an over view of the Topic with emphasis on the sociological foundation of human development The second Topic Diversity and Historical Processes reviews the historical and technological processes which have led to the present state of human diversity and differentiation The third Topic Causes of Global Change focuses on whether it is possible in the present global environment to enlarge people s capabilities so that economic progress may be translated into a multidimensional human happiness The fourth Topic Consequences of Global Change examines global change not in the narrow sense of short term economic change but rather as historical waves of long term development The fifth Topic on Planning Strategies reviews current practice and projects challenges in the next century These two volumes are aimed at the following five major target audiences University and College Students Educators Professional Practitioners Research Personnel and Policy Analysts Managers and Decision Makers and NGOs
