The Road to Peace and to Moral Democracy Boris Gourevitch,1955 Appropriation and Invention of Tradition Nandini Bhattacharyya Panda,2007-12-26 This book strongly grounded in primary sources makes an important contribution to the intellectual history of early modern Bengal It brings to light the complex interpenetration of diverse interests opinions and ideologies articulated by various social groups implicated in the process of colonization on the lines of Ranajit Guha s work on property relations in Bengal and Radhika Singha s work on law There is no comparable work specifically on the subject of Hindu property rights and how these came to be perceived or interpreted in early modern Bengal The author explores the so called compendia prepared under British auspices and argues that there was hardly any link between the Smritis and the laws The latter were determined almost entirely by changing British policy with regard to land revenue and that many of the positive features of Hindu custom like women s rights to property were undermined in the process The

Julie Ann Smith,2016-12-05 This book takes an innovative approach to the study of the penitentials and nunnery rules and the ways in which these texts impinged upon the lives of female audiences The study emphasises the importance of the texts for the promotion of Christian values and of the expectations of churchmen in the construction of appropriate Christian behaviour for women in the early medieval West These texts constitute the only written works which would have had direct influence upon the lives of lay and religious women The work focuses upon the elements of the penitentials which provided female specific expectations and these fall largely into two categories of sexuality and pre Christian practices The nunnery rules seldom provided comprehensive sets of behavioural expectations Rather rules emphasised expectations relating to issues of enclosure work and abstinence which came to be perceived as the defining characteristics of religious women
