More Or Less Urgent:

Hearings United States. Congress Senate, 1941 Morality, Mortality F. M. Kamm, 1998-05-07 Why is death bad for us even on the assumption that it involves the absence of experience Is it worse for us than prenatal nonexistence Kamm begins by considering these questions critically examining some answers other philosophers have given She explores in detail suggestions based on our greater concern over the loss of future versus past goods and those based on the insult to persons which death involves In the second part Kamm deals with the question Whom should we save from death if we cannot save everyone She considers whether and when the numbers of lives we can save matter in our choice and whether the extra good we achieve if we save some lives rather than others should play a role in deciding whom to save Issues such as fairness solidarity the role of random decision procedures and the relation between subjective and objective points of view are discussed with an eye to properly incorporating these into a nonconsequentialist ethical theory In conclusion the book examines specifically what differences between persons are relevant to the distribution of any scarce resource discussing for example the distribution and acquisition of bodily organs for transplantation Kamm provides criticism of some current procedures for distribution and acquisition of a scarce resource and makes suggestions for alternatives Handbook of Healthcare Logistics Maartje E. Science and Education for National Defense United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Labor and Public Welfare,1958 Reviews achievements of the Soviet Union in science and considers legislation to authorize Federal aid programs for science education Humane Health Care for Prisoners Kenneth L. Faiver,2017-05-05 A useful research resource and handy reference this book discusses the many important ethical and legal issues that arise in the delivery of health care to prisoners at correctional facilities It references national standards of professional practice as well as the advice of recognized experts The mission of corrections is the care and custody of prisoners with a view to public safety within a place dedicated to punishment while the mission of the medical and mental health professionals in a corrections facility is to care for the health and well being of the prisoners Both have a duty to provide care but their differing roles and objectives give rise to ethical role conflict and disagreement regarding appropriate care strategies Humane Health Care for Prisoners considers important ethical and legal issues that arise in the delivery of health care to prisoners covering topics such as privacy confidentiality informed consent extended isolation and solitary confinement use of mace strip searches and body cavity searches and medical experimentation on prisoners as human subjects It also considers participation by health care professionals in capital punishment coerced substance abuse treatment how much health care to provide organizational structure and hierarchy cooperation between correctional and health care staff and the importance of recognizing mental illness as a chronic condition This book is informative for professionals working in corrections facilities such as physicians psychiatrists psychologists nurses wardens jail administrators sheriffs and corrections officials as well as legislators and decision makers attorneys involved in correctional healthcare lawsuits students of criminal justice and those seeking to work in the field of correctional health care or in corrections Additionally students and professors of medical ethics will find this book helpful in illustrating real life topics for research and discussion

Identified versus Statistical Lives I. Glenn Cohen, Norman Daniels, Nir Eyal, 2015-03-09 The identified lives effect describes the fact that people demonstrate a stronger inclination to assist persons and groups identified as at high risk of great harm than those who will or already suffer similar harm but endure unidentified As a result of this effect we allocate resources reactively rather than proactively prioritizing treatment over prevention For example during the August 2010 gold mine cave in in Chile where ten to twenty million dollars was spent by the Chilean government to rescue the 33 miners trapped underground Rather than address the many more cost effective mine safety measures that should have been implemented the Chilean government and international donors concentrated efforts in large scale missions that concerned only the specific group Such bias as illustrated through this incident raises practical and ethical questions that extend to almost every aspect of human life and politics What can social and cognitive sciences teach us about the origin and triggers of the effect Philosophically and ethically is the effect a bias to be eliminated or is it morally justified What implications does the effect have for health care law the environment and other practice domains This volume is the first to take an interdisciplinary approach toward answering this issue of identified versus statistical lives by considering a variety of perspectives from psychology public health law ethics and public policy
