Academic Freedom at American Universities Philip Lee, 2014-11-19 This book details the legal and historical development of institutional and professorial academic freedoms to better understand the relationship between these concepts While some judges and scholars have focused on the divergence of these protections this book articulates an aligned theory that brings both the professorial and institutional theories together It argues that while constitutionally based academic freedom does its job in protecting both public and private universities from excessive state interference or at the very least it asks the right questions it is inadequate because it fails to protect many individual professors in the same way This solution entails using contract law to fill in the gaps that constitutional law leaves open in regard to protecting individual professors Contract law is an effective alternative to constitutional law for three reasons First unlike constitutional law it covers professors at both public and private universities Second it allows for the consideration of the custom and usage of the academic community as either express or implied contract terms in resolving disputes between universities and professors Third contract law enables courts to structure remedies that take into account the specific campus contexts that give rise to various disputes instead of crafting broad remedies that may ill fit certain campus environments The proposed reconceptualization of academic freedom merges constitutional protection for institutions and contractual protection for individual professors This combined approach would provide a more comprehensive framework than is currently available under the predominantly constitutional paradigm of academic freedom

The Fear Knot Natashia Swalve,Ruth DeFoster,2025-10-14 In this lively and timely investigation neuroscientist Natashia Swalve and journalism professor Ruth DeFoster lead readers through the history and psychology behind widespread cultural fears of innocuous things beginning with the most personal fears within our own bodies and moving outward to the home our country and finally to culture at its largest level The Pacific Unitarian ,1905 Hollywood or History? Lisa K. Pennington, Donna Fortune, Mary E. Tackett, Paige Horst, Meghan A. Kessler, 2024-09-01 Teaching and learning through Hollywood or commercial film and television productions is anything but a new approach and has been something of a mainstay in the classroom for nearly a century However purposeful and effective instruction through film is not problem free and there are many challenges that accompany classroom applications of Hollywood motion pictures In response to the problems and possibilities associated with teaching through film we are developing a collection of practical classroom ready lesson ideas that might bridge gaps between theory and practice and assist teachers endeavoring to make effective use of film in their classrooms We believe that film can serve as a powerful tool in the social studies classroom and where appropriately utilized foster critical thinking and civic mindedness The NCSS College Career and Civic Life C3 framework represents a renewed and formalized emphasis on the perennial social studies goals of deep thinking reading and writing We believe that as teachers endeavor to digest and implement the platform in schools and classrooms across the country the desire for access to structured strategies that lead to more active and rigorous investigation in the social studies classroom will grow increasingly acute Our hope is that this edited book might play a small role in the larger project of supporting practitioners specifically K 6 teachers of social studies content by offering a collection of classroom ready tools based on the Hollywood or History strategy and designed to foster inquiry through the careful use of selected motion pictures and television productions Bringing History Home M. Gail Hickey, 1999 Bring history to life with these classroom ready materials and resources This book instructs readers how to portray history as experiences not as facts to facilitate thinking and reasoning skills enhance sense of self worth and pique students curiosity Normal Instructor and Teachers World ,1924 Minnesota Journal of Education ,1924
