Research and Analysis Division, 1975 A Study of Mexican Travel Habits and Patterns United States Travel Service, 1975 Mexican American Fertility Patterns Frank D. Bean, Gray Swicegood, 2014-06-23 The Mexican American population is the fastest growing major racial ethnic group in the United States During the decade 1970 1980 the Mexican origin population increased from 4 5 million to 8 7 million persons High fertility not immigration was responsible for nearly two thirds of this growth Recent and historical evidence shows that women of Mexican origin or descent bear significantly more children than other white women in the United States Mexican American Fertility Patterns clarifies the nature and magnitude of these fertility differences by analyzing patterns of childbearing both across ethnic groups and within the Mexican American population Using data from the 1970 and 1980 U S Censuses and from the 1976 Survey of Income and Education the authors evaluate various hypotheses of cultural social demographic and or economic factors as determinants of fertility differences Empirical analyses center on the interrelationships between fertility and generational status language usage and proficiency and female education This timely report concludes that Mexican American fertility is closest to that of other whites under conditions of greater access to the opportunity structures of the society Factor Substitution and the Success and Pattern of Mexico's Manufactured Exports Robert Wayne Boatler, 1973 A Study of Mexican Travel Habits and Patterns: Results of a national sampling survey of Mexican travelers, indicating their travel patterns, attitudes toward the U.S. as a traveler destination, demographic and trip characteristics; conducted by Gaither International, Inc Karol Gess, 1975 The Turtles of Mexico John Legler, Richard C. Garber, 1993 The seven contributions in this book examine the potential impact of a North American Free Trade Agreement NAFTA with Mexico on the U S economy They cover such key aspects as the general sources of comparative advantage between Mexico and the U S regional and local effects on production and employment and the effect on production in particular industries The authors start from the premise that the trade agreement will have a small impact on the overall U S gross national product because the U S economy is large compared to that of Mexico and because there is already much unrestricted trade between the two countries Several chapters consider how some sources of comparative advantage that cut across industries differential environmental regulations and wage differentials may affect the outcome These are followed by chapters that assess the locational effects on U S production either from the viewpoint of which metropolitan areas will gain employment or of the scale effects transportation cost tradeoff Concluding chapters address the effect of the NAFTA on several individual U S sectors such as agriculture automobiles and financial services Peter M Garber is Professor of Economics at Brown University Contents Introduction Peter M Garber Environmental Impacts of a North American Free Trade Agreement Gene M Grossman Alan B Krueger Wage Effects of a U S Mexico Free Trade Agreement Edward E Leamer Some Favorable Impacts of a U S Mexico Free Trade Agreement J Vernon Henderson Mexico U S Free Trade and the Location of Production Paul Krugman Gordon Hanson Trade with Mexico and Water Use in California Agriculture Robert C Feenstra Andrew K Rose The Automobile Industry and the Mexico U S Free Trade Agreement Steven Barry Vittorio Grilli Florencio Lopez de Silanes Opening the Financial Services Market in Mexico Peter M Garber Steven R Weisbrod

Urban Climate and Adaptation Tools Teodoro Georgiadis, Letizia Cremonini, 2021-03-02 There is pressing evidence of phenomena linked to meteorology and climate which are modifying their temporal occurrence and which have a very evident impact on the safety and health of populations residing in cities The urban problem at the beginning of the second set of twenty years of the new century requires a complete rethinking of the way of aggregation of man who today represents a large part of the world population due to increasingly accelerated urbanization processes over time The human being has become a citizen and within the city limits he tries to develop his life expectancy by seizing opportunities from this This search for well being understood as a complete state of man at once physiological and psychological and social can be thwarted by an urban structure that is not functionally capable of providing answers The climate problem exacerbates this problem by strongly stressing the contradictions of living Science technology and politics are today able to give answers if applied wisely in a joint effort in a unit of language This book proposes several solutions that can be implemented today ranging from a full understanding of phenomena to adaptation policies for solving problems The most pressing invitation is addressed precisely to politics to make cities more resilient and safe

Intellectuals and the State in Twentieth-Century Mexico Roderic Ai Camp, 2014-04-15 In developing countries the extent to which intellectuals disengage themselves in state activities has widespread consequences for the social political and economic development of those societies Roderic Camp's examination of intellectuals in Mexico is the first study of a Latin American country to detail the structure of intellectual life rather than merely considering intellectual ideas Camp has used original sources including extensive interviews to provide new data about the evolution of leading Mexican intellectuals and their relationship to politics and politicians since 1920

Dietary Patterns in Cancer Prevention and Survival Raul Zamora-Ros, Esther Molina-Montes, 2024-09-13 Cancer is a leading cause of death worldwide accounting for nearly 10 million deaths in 2020 or nearly one in six deaths Although some individuals are at higher risk due to non-modifiable risk factors between 30-40% of all cancer cases are estimated to be preventable through healthy lifestyles including healthy diets In 2018 a report from the World Cancer Research Fund and the American Institute for Cancer Research promoted ten cancer prevention recommendations on diet and nutrition But characterizing a healthy diet is not easy since foods and nutrients are not consumed alone Over the past decade dietary pattern analysis has emerged as an alternative and complementary approach to evaluating the relationship between diet and cancer risk Instead of looking at individual nutrients or foods dietary pattern analysis examines the effects of the overall diet Conceptually dietary patterns represent a broader picture of food and nutrient consumption and may thus be more predictive of disease risk than individual foods or nutrients Research on the effects of diet nutrition and physical activity on the risk of cancer in cancer survivors is growing but it is much more limited than that on risk Therefore the current lifestyle recommendations for cancer survivors should be similar to those for cancer prevention until we do not have specific recommendations
