

Perpetration-Induced Traumatic Stress: The Psychological Consequences of Killing (Psychological Dimensions to War and Peace)

Since the 2003 war in Iraq has generated another flood of combat veterans who must live with the psychological consequences of having killed people, their loved ones and people in the media have become keenly interested in what those consequences are and how to deal with them. Articles and documentaries have relied on the information gathered in this book to help make sense of it. This volume introduces the concept of Perpetration-Induced Traumatic Stress (PITS), is a form of PTSD symptoms caused not by being a victim or rescuer in trauma, but by being an active participant in causing trauma. Sufferers include soldiers, executioners, or police officers, where it is socially acceptable or even expected for them to kill. Compared to the more widely understood PTSD, there appears to be greater severity and different symptom patterns for those affected by PITS. Obvious differences to be explored for those who kill include questions of context, guilt, meaning, content of dreams, and sociological questions, leading to special implications for therapy, research into the causality of PTSD, and violence prevention efforts. Disciplines including sociology, public policy, history, philosophy, and theology will also find applications for this groundbreaking material.

The Psychology of Genocide, Massacres, and Extreme Violence Donald G. Dutton, 2007-05-30 Chronicling horrific events that brought the 20th century to witness the largest number of systematic slaughters of human beings in any century across history this work goes beyond historic details and examines contemporary psychological means that leaders use to convince individuals to commit horrific acts in the name of a political or military cause Massacres in Nanking Rwanda El Salvador Vietnam and other countries are reviewed in chilling detail But the core issue is what psychological forces are behind large scale killing what psychology can be used to indoctrinate normal people with a Groupthink that moves individuals to mass murder brutally and without regret even when the victims are innocent children Dutton shows us how individuals are convinced to commit such sadistic acts often preceded by torture after being indoctrinated with beliefs that the target victims are unjust inhuman or viral like a virus that must be destroyed or it will destroy society Transmitted Wounds Amit Pinchevski, 2019 Transmitted Wounds explores the ways media shape the social life of trauma both clinically and culturally Through a series of case studies from the radiocasts of the Eichmann trial to virtual reality therapy for PTSD Pinchevski offers a bold thesis about the deep association of media and trauma media bear witness to the human failure to bear witness making the traumatic technologically transmissible and reproducible Images of Traumatic Memories Anja Meyer, 2020-12-14 By employing the lens of the most recent critical studies on intermediality the author analyses the interaction between literature and photography in three contemporary hybrid novels Miss Peregrine's Home for Peculiar Children by Ransom Riggs 2011 Extremely Loud and Incredibly Close by Jonathan Safran Foer 2005 and The Dark Room by Rachel Seiffert 2001 sharing the narration of traumatic historical events The intermedial dimension realised by the confluence of the two media devices offers new ways to create meaning and to reflect upon the nature of collective and individual trauma by re enacting the distortion and the inaccessibility to the memories of those experiences In this context the reader emerges as an active participant in the process of fiction making as the act of reading becomes a renewed act of witnessing The Psychology of Peace Rachel M. MacNair, 2011-11-08 Despite our advances in technology and education we still live in a world permeated by violence This introductory textbook in the field of peace psychology addresses the psychological causes of violence and nonviolence conflict resolution nonviolent struggle and the confluence of public policy and private lifestyles Just as health providers study disease and its prevention understanding the causes of violent behavior and how to prevent such behavior is a basic cornerstone for those who are working towards a healthy society Another parallel maintaining physical health involves positive practices similarly positive nonviolent approaches need to be psychologically understood and encouraged The second edition of The Psychology of Peace An Introduction demonstrates what can be learned through the lens of peace psychology providing a solid foundation in the psychological theories needed for building and maintaining a peaceful society and peaceful individuals This second edition incorporates the tremendous amount of new research and subsequent events since 2003 including post 2003 violent and nonviolent revolutions such as the ongoing war in Iraq and Afghanistan and the nonviolent overthrowing of dictators in Tunisia and Egypt Author MacNair again outlines why application of psychological study to the soundness of decision making for public policy and to the policies themselves is crucial knowledge and how applying the study to private practices and even art can help build up a peaceful society The Third Harmony Michael N. Nagler, 2020-03-31 In the latest fruit of a brilliant career Michael Nagler argues that nonviolence not just as a tactic but as a way of being is the only way to unite deeply divided people and enable progressive movements and leaders of all stripes to fulfil their promise and potential So many of the problems that beset us war poverty isolation and the climate crisis have their roots in an old story about the universe we are purposeless matter in a random void and scarcity competition and violence are inevitable Citing the convergence of modern science and the essence of the world's wisdom traditions Michael Nagler argues for a new story the universe is conscious and purposeful humans are spiritual beings and cooperation and collaboration are our natural way of interacting This new story has had other champions but Nagler is the first to realize that a piece is missing For the new story to take hold we have to embrace nonviolence not only as a social change tactic but as a way of life Nonviolence is the only power strong enough to move the heart toward this deep and revolutionary change in worldview Nagler refers to this as the third harmony which is the harmony within and among us to resolve the crisis of the human image Calling on us to realize the urgency of nonviolence for resolving our personal and collective problems Nagler focuses on how to shift to our story on a personal everyday level and then integrate it into the very foundations of our understanding of humanity and community for our sake for the sake of future generations and the sake of nonviolence itself

Moral Injury Tom Frame, 2015-11-01 This collection of essays from ex soldiers military historians chaplains and psychologists examines the unseen wounds sustained by Australians deployed to armed conflict peacekeeping missions humanitarian assistance and disaster relief While many psychical injuries heal there is growing awareness that unseen wounds affecting the mind and the spirit are often the deepest and the most lasting This book the first Australian examination of moral injury shows there are no easy answers and no simple solutions It suggests where existing approaches are misguided and how a multi disciplinary approach is needed to gain a better sense of moral injury

Responsibilities to Protect David Whetham, Bradley J. Strawser, 2015-03-20 Following the humanitarian horrors of the 1990s the international community began to seek consensus on a new norm to help address the tension between upholding the sovereign right of states to administer their own internal affairs and the pressing need for civilian populations to be protected from their own government in certain situations The result was the responsibility to protect initiative from the UN accepted as an emerging norm and based on existing legal structures although not itself necessarily accepted as law This volume looks not only at the humanitarian inspired interventions of the past 15 years such as those that took place under the Force for Good banner of the UK Government under New Labour but also looks at what this has meant for the people actually involved in doing them What responsibilities do states have towards their own soldiers when sending them to protect other people Should that responsibility extend to moral and psychological protection as well as physical protection and if so how How far does the duty go when considering the protection of one's own citizens who have deliberately placed themselves in harm's way such as journalists who have chosen to leave the safety of a protected area What happens when institutions are faced with the choice of protecting their people or their reputation What does it feel like for the inhabitants of a state who become protected by the international community The book brings together international scholars and practitioners to address these concerns from both sides of the coin recognising that international initiatives have practical implications
