

- Include preservation organizations in planning processes
- Give Landmarks Commission enforcement authority
- Increase efficiency and improve homeowner perceptions by allowing staff to approve minor alterations
- Allow sufficient time to consider the value of buildings and neighborhoods before choosing demolition
- Use more flexible standards in transitional and distressed neighborhoods*

Focus Efforts

- Prioritize which historic buildings and areas to fight for
- Focus financial and educational efforts in historic areas to revitalize historic areas, attract new residents and businesses
- Figure out intersections of historic resources with other important factors (grocery stores, stable schools, transportation) and prioritize investments in those areas

Look to Historic Neighborhoods and Properties First

- Take advantage of market for downtown residences and small houses
- Capitalize on historic districts' relative stability (higher levels of owner occupancy, active community groups, high-quality construction and materials)
- Preservationists can offer resources (state and federal tax credits, connections with developers, marketing commercial and residential properties to developers and homeowners)
- Change perceptions of historic neighborhoods located near amenities and jobs; help build a residential market
- Direct firms to historic industrial sites and downtown buildings
- Assess the feasibility of reusing existing resources (public buildings, neighborhoods, factories) before deciding on new construction
- Don't ignore pleasant, livable older neighborhoods that don't meet National Register criteria

Incentives

- Develop more "financial carrots" for preservation (e.g., modeling loan funds and state-level rehabilitation tax credits that allow rehabilitation of historic houses on a larger scale)
- Move funding to rehabilitate rather than demolish houses
- Get federal government to allocate money for moldabating and repair work with historically compatible features

Education and Advocacy

- Present positive vision of how historic buildings can contribute to stronger neighborhoods and help manage change

"At some point, we will weigh in on neighborhood 'tipping point' questions in some way. Now, we're still working on a micro scale."

* This comment suggests that applying the Secretary's Standards in all circumstances may be limiting flexibility.
