European Research Reloaded: Cooperation and Integration among Europeanized States Ronald Holzhaacker, Markus Haverland, 2006-09-01 The Three Waves of European Research European cooperation and integration has continued to progress forward over the past five decades with an ever deepening impact on the member states The first wave of research into these processes concerned European integration the process of institution building and policy developments at the European Union EU level The second wave on Europeanization used integration as an explanatory factor in understanding domestic political change and continuity related to the EU What is now necessary is to link our understanding of these bottom up and top down processes of integration and Europeanization in the EU This book argues that a third wave of research on the EU is needed to adequately understand the increased interconnectedness between the European and national political levels We posit that this third wave should be sensitive to the temporal dimension of European integration and Europeanization In particular we seek to link the processes of European integration and Europeanization in a new way by asking the question how has Europeanization affected current modes of integration and cooperation in the EU Part I Europeanization of the Member States Preparing the ground for the third wave the first part of the book concerns Europeanization In order to fully understand the feedback of Europeanization on cooperation and integration it is important to analyze how European integration has had an impact on member states in the first place in particular indirectly beyond the direct mechanism of compliance with European policies

Germany, Europe, and the Politics of Constraint Klaus Goetz, Kenneth Dyson, 2003-10-16. These essays examine the Europeanization of the political system of the Federal Republic of Germany across the polity, politics and public policy dimensions. The book's 17 chapters focus on three key themes: the challenge to the power of Germany to determine the course of the integrationist project and to shape European public policies; the increasing constraints in the domestic political arena associated with Europeanization and domestic contestation over both the constitutive politics of the EU and specific policy choices. This volume is essential reading for students of comparative European politics and German studies.

Business Lobbying in the European Union David Coen, Alexander Katsaitis, Matia Vannoni, 2021-02-16. At a time when Europe and business stand at crossroads, this study provides a perspective into how business representation in the EU has evolved and valuable insights into how to organize lobbying strategies and influence policy making. Uniquely, the authors analyze business lobbying in Brussels by drawing on insights from political science, public management and business studies. At the macro level, we explore over 30 years of increasing business lobbying and explore the emergence of a distinct European business government relations style. At the meso level, we assess how the role of EU institution, policy types and the policy cycle shape the density and diversity of business lobbying activity. Finally, at the micro level, we seek to explore how firms organize their political affairs, functions and mobilized strategic political responses. The study uses a variety of methods to analyze the business government relations, drawing on unique business and policy maker surveys in depth, case studies and elite interviews, large statistical analysis of lobbying registers to assess density and diversity across policy areas and EU institutions and managerial career path and organizational analysis to assess corporate political capabilities. In contributing to discussions on corporate political strategy and interest groups activity, this monograph should be of interest to public policy scholars, policy makers and businesses managers seeking to understand EU government affairs and political representation.

The European Union and International Development Maurizio Carbone, 2007-12-12 The European Union is a leading actor in international development providing more than half of the world's foreign aid but also a unique case combining the characteristics of a bilateral and a multilateral donor Despite the general acknowledgment that policy coordination substantially improves both the effectiveness of foreign aid and the visibility of the EU in the international arena Member States have consistently resisted any intrusion into what they consider a key area of their national sovereignty The increases in volume of aid the ambitious agenda on aid effectiveness and the adoption of the European Consensus on Development indicate a change of direction Using development policy as a starting point this book provides a systematic analysis of the interaction between the European Commission and Member States It explores the conditions in which the European Commission influences outcomes in the EU decision making process It ultimately argues that the European Commission plays a leadership role but this leadership is contingent upon the presence of an institutional entrepreneur its internal cohesiveness and the astute use of a repertoire of tactics Demonstrating that development policy may provide fresh insights into EU integration theory this book will be of interest to students and scholars of European Politics and International Development

Securing Europe L. Watanabe, 2010-01-20 Securing Europe takes a novel approach to Europeanization among EU member states by employing a sociological institutionalist approach Watanabe argues that Europeanization as a process of change takes place not as a result of rationally calculating states but as a result of the reworking of perceptual and normative frameworks
