Run To Earth Dodo Press:

Inhabiting the Earth Martin Locret-Collet, Simon Springer, Jennifer Mateer, Maleea Acker, 2021-10-25 Over the last several decades scholars and practitioners have progressively acknowledged that we cannot consider cities as the place where nature stops anymore resulting in urban environments being increasingly appreciated and theorized as hybrids between nature and culture entities made of socio ecological processes in constant transformation Spanning the fields of political ecology environmental studies and sociology this new direction in urban theory emerged in concert with global concern for sustainability and environmental justice This volume explores the notion that connecting with nature holds the key to a more progressive and liberatory politics

Ecology and Literatures in English Françoise Besson, 2018-12-14 In all latitudes writers hold out a mirror leading the reader to awareness by telling real or imaginary stories about people of good will who try to save what can be saved and about animals showing humans the way to follow Such tales argue that in spite of all destructions and tragedies if we are just aware of and connected to the real world around us to the blade of grass at our feet and the star above our heads there is hope in a reconciliation with the Earth This may start with the emergence or rather the return of a nonverbal language restoring the connection between human beings and the nonhuman world through a form of communication beyond verbalization Through a journey in Anglophone literature with examples taken from Aboriginal African American English Canadian and Indian works this book shows the role played by literature in the protection of the planet It argues that literature reveals the fundamental idea that everything is connected and that it is only when most people are aware of this connection that the world will change Exactly as a tree is connected with all the animal life in and around it texts show that nothing should be separated From Shakespeare s theatre to ecopoetics from travel writing to detective novels from children s books to novels all literary genres show that literature responds to the violence destroying lands men and nonhuman creatures whose voices can be heard through texts

Ethnozoology Romulo Romeu Nobrega Alves, Ulysses Paulino Albuquerque, 2017-10-23 Ethnozoology Animals In Our Lives represents the first book about this discipline providing a discussion on key themes on human animal interactions and their implications along with recent major advances in research Humans share the world with a bewildering variety of other animals and have interacted with them in different ways This variety of interactions both past and present is investigated through ethnozoology which is a hybrid discipline structured with elements from both the natural and social sciences as it seeks to understand how humans have perceived and interacted with faunal resources throughout history In a broader context ethnozoology and its companion discipline ethnobotany form part of the larger body of the science of ethnobiology In recent years the importance of ethnozoological ethnobiological studies has increasingly been recognized unsurprisingly given the strong human influence on biodiversity From the perspective of ethnozoology the book addresses all aspects of human connection animals and health from its use in traditional medicine to bioprospecting derivatives of fauna for pharmaceuticals with expert contributions from leading researchers in the field Draws on editors and contributors extensive research experience and studies covering ethnozoology and ethnobiology Covers all aspects of human animal interaction through the lens of this emerging discipline with coverage of both domestic and wild animal topics Presents topics of great interest to a variety of researchers including those in wildlife conservation biologists ecologists conservationists and domestic related disciplines psychologists sociologists

AF Press Clips ,1968 Run to Earth. A Novel Earth,1868 The Oxford Handbook of Early Southeast Asia C.F.W. Higham,Nam C. Kim,2022-01-11 Southeast Asia ranks among the most significant regions in the world for tracing the prehistory of human endeavor over a period in excess of two million years It lies in the direct path of successive migrations from the African homeland that saw settlement by hominin populations such as Homo erectus and Homo floresiensis The first Anatomically Modern Humans following a coastal route reached the region at least 60 000 years ago to establish a hunter gatherer tradition that survives to this day in remote forests From about 2000 BC human settlement of Southeast Asia was deeply affected by successive innovations that took place to the north and west such as rice and millet farming A millennium later knowledge of bronze casting penetrated along the same pathways Copper mines were identified and exploited and metals were exchanged over hundreds of kilometers In the Mekong Delta and elsewhere these developments led to early states of the region which benefitted from an agricultural revolution involving permanent ploughed rice fields These developments illuminate how the great early kingdoms of Angkor Champa and Funan came to be a vital stage in understanding the roots of the present nation states of Southeast Asia Assembling the most current research across a variety of disciplines from anthropology and archaeology to history art history and linguistics The Oxford Handbook of Early Southeast Asia will present an invaluable resource to experienced researchers and those approaching the topic for the first time
