Selecting And Screening Church Workers:

Selecting & Screening Church Workers James F. Cobble, Richard R. Hammar, 1996 Selecting a minister is a challenging job for any church The same is true for hiring church employees and recruiting volunteer workers Many factors affect that process This book does not attempt to address them all Rather the focus is limited to screening concerns and pre employment issues While these factors may have been unimportant in the past certainly that is no longer true today Too many churches and families have already suffered the pain of betrayal from the misconduct of a church worker or leader The good news is that churches are now taking a leading role within our society in providing a safe place for their members and staff Screening serves a vital role in any church s safety efforts This book addresses that concern Back cover

Speaking Together and with God John S. McClure, 2018-04-09 Ours is a time of unprecedented pessimism regarding the possibility of achieving consensus around moral issues Christian liturgical practices which are grounded in a communicative economy of love and mercy contain wisdom that might be of significant help What difference might it make if we confessed sin learned epistemic humility worked at overcoming self deception interceded for others learned to go beyond empathy to compassion and advocacy for the well being of all persons became willing to look beyond the possible for solutions etc and learned from the best homiletical practices how to justify and apply moral positions within an ethic of hospitality and care Speaking Together focuses on the roles that liturgical practices play in promoting genuinely communicative understanding oriented forms of action and explores how liturgical practices contribute to sincere multi perspectival empathetic and truth seeking conversations regarding moral norms in an increasingly pluralistic world What this means is that our liturgical practices are a way of speaking together and this shapes how we organize and inhabit a shared social life
