The Rhetorical Leadership of Fulton J. Sheen, Norman Vincent Peale, and Billy Graham in the Age of Extremes Timothy H. Sherwood, 2013-08-15 Fulton J Sheen Norman Vincent Peale and Billy Graham were America's most popular religious leaders during the mid twentieth century period known as the golden years of the Age of Extremes It was part of an era that encompassed polemic contrasts of good and evil on the world stage in political philosophies and international relations The 1950s and early 1960s in particular were years of high anxiety competing ideologies and hero villain mania in America Sheen was the voice of reason who spoke against those conflicting ideologies which were hostile to religious faith and democracy Peale preached the gospel of reassurance self assurance and success despite ominous global threats and Graham was the heroic model of faith whose message of conversion provided Americans an identity and direction opposite to atheistic communism This study looks at how and why their rhetorical leadership both separately and together contributed to the climate of an extreme era and influenced a national religious revival

The New Thought Movement in Healthcare

Gabriel Andrade,2025-05-17 This book delves into the evolution of the New Thought Movement and its pervasive influence on modern healthcare The book begins by tracing the roots of the New Thought Movement originating in the 19th century emphasizing the power of the mind in healing and personal development Over time this philosophy morphed into the contemporary positive thinking industry becoming a significant component of Western self help culture The book explores how these ideas have become a contentious point in today s culture wars polarized between supporters who credit it for personal empowerment and critics who highlight its limitations and potential harm Central to the discussion is an in depth analysis of the New Thought philosophy s impact on the healthcare industry While acknowledging the potential benefits such as motivating patients to adopt healthier lifestyles and fostering a sense of personal agency the book critically examines how this philosophy s emphasis on mental positivity can lead to victim blaming It argues that oversimplifying health issues by attributing them solely to personal mindset obscures the multifaceted reality of health particularly the significant role of social determinants of health and systemic inequities This critique underscores how attributing illness to insufficient positive thinking can perpetuate stigma and neglect the socio economic and environmental factors critical for understanding and addressing health challenges By offering a nuanced perspective the book aims to catalyze discussions on integrating mindful optimism with a holistic acknowledgment of the complexities inherent in healthcare striving for a more balanced and equitable approach

The Myth of Empowerment Dana Becker,2005-02-01 The Myth of Empowerment surveys the ways in which women have been represented and influenced by the rapidly growing therapeutic culture both popular and professional from the mid nineteenth century to the present The middle class woman concerned about her health and her ability to care for others in an uncertain world is not as different from her late nineteenth century white middle class predecessors as we might imagine In the nineteenth century she was told that her moral virtue was her power today her power is said to reside in her ability to relate to others or to take better care of herself so that she can take care of others Dana Becker argues that ideas like empowerment perpetuate the myth that many of the problems women have are medical rather than societal personal rather than political From mesmerism to psychotherapy to the Oprah Winfrey Show women have gleaned ideas about who they are as psychological beings Becker questions what women have had to gain from these ideas as she recounts the story of where they have been led and where the therapeutic culture is taking them

Importing Faith Glyn J. Ackerley, 2016-07-28 Many twenty first century evangelical charismatics in Britain are looking for a faith that works They want to experience the miraculous in terms of healings and Godsent financial provision Many have left the mainstream churches to join independent charismatic churches led by those who are perceived to have special insights and to teach principles that will help believers experience the miraculous But all is not rosy in this promised paradise and when people are not healed or they remain poor they are often told that it is because they did not have enough faith This study discovers the origin of the principles that are taught by some charismatic leaders Glyn Ackerley identifies them as the same ideas that are taught by the positive confession health wealth and prosperity movement originating in the United States The origins of the ideas are traced back to New Thought metaphysics and its background philosophies of subjective idealism and pragmatism These principles were imported into the UK through contact between British leaders and those influenced by American word of faith teachers Glyn Ackerley explains the persuasiveness of such teachers by examining case studies suggesting their miracles may well have social and psychological explanations rather than divine origins
