Self And Environment:

Self, Interaction, and Natural Environment Andrew J. Weigert,1997-01-01 Self Interaction and Natural Environment helps us as individuals to understand environmental issues and to respond accordingly Although it acknowledges that such issues exist on a worldwide scale it sharpens our focus on the personal level For example it shows that most people do not consider the pollution they cause by operating cars or fertilizing lawns Throughout the text the author links ideas to both social concerns and everyday activities helping readers to comprehend political decisions that involve the environment as well as making them more aware of their own role in that respect

Self-expansion - Expanded Edition Miklos Fodor,2009-08-25 The author examines how systems connect and the effects these connections have upon the successful adaptation of systems His conclusions are explained using general concepts such as input output or operation validated by theory and are appli cable to concrete systems From these it is principally the specifics of human thinking and behavior that have been examined in detail The main point of this model is its new approach to and new slant on modern academic research Yet the conclusions of the model do not contradict current trends in modern psychology but rather are in harmony with other cultural systems beyond the scope of science such as religion art common sense

Experiencing the Environment Seymour Wapner,2012-12-06 The purpose of this volume is to explore theory problem formulation and methodology in experiencing the environment In this embryonic field the writings of a number of individuals already stand out as representative of distinctive viewpoints In order to facilitate further development of the field a conference was proposed to gather in one place representatives of a number of major viewpoints with regard to the embryonic field of environmental psychology It was hoped that a colloquy among such representatives would facilitate a clarification of the similarities and differences between the various perspectives and might enable proponents of any given point of view to benefit from the insights of others with different orientations Hopefully it might also promote a greater articulation for this emerging field of inquiry With these ends in mind the sponsors of the conference asked the various prospective participants to present their theoretical positions and representative research illustrative of those positions Some of the perspectives represented at the conference emphasized the point that the construal of phenomena depends heavily on the values and needs of perceivers Implicit in this kind of position is the thesis that anyone who seeks to describe a complex happening is likely to shape it in terms of presuppositions biases etc that may not be shared by others

Environmental Policy, Assessment and Communication David Canter, Martin Krampen, David Stea, 2024-11-07 Originally published in 1988 reissued now with a new series introduction Environmental Policy Assessment and Communication was the second in a trilogy of books to open the series Ethnoscapes Current Challenges in the Environmental Social Sciences These three titles brought together specially commissioned contributions that cover much of the range of topics that the series as a whole would cover Although the following volumes would not have the same format the opening trilogy gave an overview of what was to come while also providing a broad base for the future authors to build upon This volume has a practical orientation Its contributions deal directly with research on those environmental matters on which government agencies and other organisations formulate policies or develop design strategies This therefore covers the assessment and evaluation of designs and design proposals as well as background research to policy issues

Environment and Tourism Andrew Holden, 2007-12-06 This second edition of Environment and Tourism reflects changes in the relationship between tourism society and the natural environment in the first decade of the new century Alongside the updating of all statistics environmental policy initiatives examples and case studies new material has been added This includes two new chapters one on climate change and natural disasters and the other on the relationship between tourism and poverty These themes have direct relevance not only to tourism but are reflective of the wider relationship between nature and society a thesis that contextualizes this book Tourism is also analyzed as an interconnected system linking the environments of where tourists come from with the ones they go to Taking a holistic view of the tourism system and how it interacts with the natural environment this volume illustrates the positive and negative effects of this relationship and importantly how tourism can be planned and managed to encourage natural resource conservation and aid human development It is an invaluable tool for all those studying human geography tourism and environment studies Heinz Werner and Developmental Science Jaan Valsiner, 2005 Heinz Werner 1890 1964 was one of the three key developmental psychologists of the 20th century along with Jean Piaget and Lev Vygotsky This book is a new exploration of Werner's ideas and their social contexts in Vienna in his student years in Hamburg up to 1933 followed by the years of transit as an immigrant to America at times of economic depression finally culminating in his establishment of the prominent Clark tradition in American psychology in the 1950s The book offers an in depth analysis of Werner's ideas as they were originally formulated in Vienna and Hamburg and how they were changed by North American influences Werner's pivotal role between European and American intellectual traditions is illuminated through the use of rich memories of his former students unique documents from Werner's personal library at Clark and analyses of links with other European traditions in philosophy and biological sciences The European period prior to 1933 in Werner's academic life is found to be definitive for Werner's contributions to science The ideas developed in his early career continued in the form of a productive empirical research program in the 1950s at Clark An analysis of the social intellectual climate of the development of psychology in America in the 1950s is a special feature of this book that will further enhance an understanding of Werner's unique contribution This book will be of interest to developmental psychologists sociologists and historians of science philosophers practitioners working in special education and neuropsychology and for general readers interested in the history of ideas and life courses of scientists The School Review, 1906 The New Public Health Alan R. Petersen (Ph. D.), Deborah Lupton, 1996

Petersen and Lupton focus critically on the new public health assessing its implications for the concepts of self embodiment and citizenship They argue that the new public health is used as a source of moral regulation and for distinguishing between self and other They also explore the implications of modernist belief in the power of science and the ability of experts to solve problems through rational administrative means that underpin the strategies and rhetoric of the new public health

Thoughts on Educational Psychology William Torrey Harris, 1889 Human Development in Cultural Context A Bame Nsamenang, 1992-05-26 A comprehensive systematic account of human development which is sensitive to the needs interests and ecologies of nonwestern cultures and individuals is provided in this unique volume The importance and value of the sociocultural milieu in shaping the growth and development of children is emphasized and the author asserts throughout that children do not grow and develop according to the same patterns regardless of culture The author describes developmental psychology from the perspective of West Africa demonstrating how the local ecology and the resulting cultural ideology lead to differing ways in which children are conceptualized and socialized and in turn how they develop While much of his case material is from Applications of Flow in Human Development and Education Mihaly Csikszentmihalyi, 2014-08-08

The third volume of the collected works of Mihaly Csikszentmihalyi covers his work on the application of flow in areas that go beyond the field of leisure where the concept was first applied Based on his personal experience with schooling and learning as well as that of many others and contrary to what Cicero claimed Csikszentmihalyi arrived at the conclusion that instead of taking pride in making the roots of knowledge as bitter as possible we should try to make them sweeter Just as flow became a popular and useful concept in voluntary activities it could likewise be applied in education with the end result of young people being more likely to continue learning not just because they have to but because they want to This volume brings together a number of articles in which Csikszentmihalyi develops ideas about how to make education and more generally the process of learning to live a good life more enjoyable Since theory is the mother of good practice the first eleven chapters are devoted to theoretical reflections Some are general and explore what it means to be a human being what it means to be a person when we look at life from the perspective of flow Others are more narrowly focused on such topics as consumption education teaching and learning They help laypeople reflect how they can arrange their lives in such a way as to leave a small ecological footprint while getting the most enjoyment The second section of the volume contains a dozen empirical articles on similar topics They deal with the development of identity and self worth with the formation of goals and motivation with loneliness and family life

Handbook of Culture and Memory Brady Wagoner, 2017-10-16 In the Handbook of Culture and Memory Brady Wagoner and his team of international contributors explore how memory is deeply entwined with social relationships stories in film and literature group history ritual practices material artifacts and a host of other cultural devices Culture is seen as the medium through which people live and make meaning of their lives In this book analyses focus on the mutual constitution of people's memories and the social cultural worlds to which they belong The complex relationship between culture and memory is explored in the concept of memory and its relation to evolution neurology and history life course changes in memory from its development in childhood to its decline in old age and the national and transnational organization of collective memory and identity through narratives propagated in political discourse the classroom and the media

Explorations into the Self Michael Fordham, 2018-05-08 This rewarding work is the product of sustained observation of and reflection on phenomena arising out of three broad topics in the field of analytical psychology Firstly it analyses and evaluates the ambiguity in Jung's definitions and metaphors about the self while at the same time expounding the theory of the self as a dynamic system evolving through deintegration and reintegration processes during early infancy and childhood Secondly it investigates the relation of the ego to the self giving notable consideration to psychoanalytic work Finally the presence of the self behind or within both the religious and the alchemical experience is explored Fordham's innovative and original view of the self further extends our understanding of its dynamics and helps to establish some sense of the complementariness as well as differences between Jung and Klein

Mystical Society Philip Wexler, 2018-03-05 In Mystical Society Philip Wexler a well known critical theorist with a background in social psychology and a special interest in spirituality examines the revitalization of spirituality manifesting itself in society and in education Describing what he calls cultural changes toward the sacred he documents a cultural shift brought about by technological and societal changes toward a new mysticism Wexler explores the meaning for this new spirituality for our daily lives for social theory and for education From the pervasiveness of a spiritual vernacular to the integration of spiritual practices into our highly individualized and technologized lives Wexler lays out the evidence for a growing movement and then draws parallels to periods of mystical revitalization from the past In the course of this discussion he draws on the work of Marx Weber and Durkheim as well as from contemporary social theory House As a Mirror of Self Clare Cooper

Marcus,2006-05-20 House as a Mirror of Self presents an unprecedented examination of our relationship to where we live interwoven with compelling personal stories of the search for a place for the soul Marcus takes us on a reverie of the special places of childhood the forts we made and secret hiding places we had to growing up and expressing ourselves in the homes of adulthood She explores how the self image is reflected in our homes power struggles in making a home together with a partner territory control and privacy at home self image and location disruptions in the boding with home and beyond the house as ego to the call of the soul As our culture is swept up in home improvement to the extent of having an entire TV network devoted to it this book is essential for understanding why the surroundings that we call home make us feel the way we do With this information we can embark on home improvement that truly makes room for our soul Coherence in the Midst of Complexity H. Letiche,M. Lissack,Ron Schultz,2011-01-02 A discussion on the social complexity approach where dialogue and stories allow for the degrees of freedom needed for the opportunities of emergence to take root The authors focus on the experience of coherence and how such experiential lessons differ from the establishment and maintenance of categories and labels Handbook of Environmental Psychology and Quality of Life Research Ghazlane Fleury-Bahi,Enric

Pol,Oscar Navarro,2016-08-12 This Handbook presents a broad overview of the current research carried out in environmental psychology which puts into perspective quality of life and relationships with living spaces and shows how this original analytical framework can be used to understand different environmental and societal issues Adopting an original approach this Handbook focuses on the links with other specialties in psychology especially social and health psychology together with other disciplines such as geography architecture sociology anthropology urbanism and engineering Faced with the problems of society which involve the quality of life of individuals and communities it is fundamental to consider the relationships an individual has with his different living spaces This issue of the links between quality of life and environment is becoming increasingly significant with at a local level problems resulting from different types of annoyances such as pollution and noise while at a global level there is the central question of climate change with its harmful consequences for humans and the planet How can the impact on well being of environmental nuisances and threats for example natural risks pollution and noise be reduced How can the quality of life within daily living spaces home cities work environments be improved Why is it important to understand the psychological issues of our relationship with the global environment climatic warming ecological behaviours This Handbook is intended not only for students of various disciplines geography architecture psychology town planning etc but also for social decision makers and players who will find in it both theoretical and methodological perspectives so that psychological and environmental dimensions can be better taken into account in their

working practices
