Self And Society In Aging Processes:

The Self and Society in Aging Processes Carol D. Ryff, PhD, Victor W. Marshall, PhD, 1999-06-23 This volume focuses on the experience of growing old as it is linked to societal factors Ryff and Marshall construct this macro view of aging in society by bridging disciplines and bringing together contributors from all the social sciences The book is organized into three sections theoretical perspectives socioeconomic structures and contexts of self and society Leading psychologists anthropologists gerontologists and sociologists present theoretical and empirical advances that forge links between the individual and the social aspects of aging It is must reading for researchers in all gerontologic specialties and a valuable text for graduate courses in human development psychology of aging and other social aspects of aging Identity Process Theory Rusi Jaspal, Glynis M. Breakwell, 2014-04-17 We live in an ever changing social world which constantly demands adjustment to our identities and actions Advances in science technology and medicine political upheaval and economic development are just some examples of social change that can impact upon how we live our lives how we view ourselves and each other and how we communicate Three decades after its first appearance identity process theory remains a vibrant and useful integrative framework in which identity social action and social change can be collectively examined This book presents some of the key developments in this area In eighteen chapters by world renowned social psychologists the reader is introduced to the major social psychological debates about the construction and protection of identity in face of social change Contributors address a wide range of contemporary topics national identity risk prejudice intractable conflict and ageing which are examined from the perspective of identity process theory Towards an Interdisciplinary Perspective on the Life Course René Levy, Paolo Ghisletta, Jean-Marie Le Goff, Dario Spini, Eric Widmer, 2005-11-17 Despite the well established consensus on the need for an interdisciplinary research paradigm to understand the unfolding of human lives within their social context existing empirical research rarely embraces this belief This volume aims at examining the feasibility and hurdles of interdisciplinarity specific to given research fields by bringing together leading North American and European researchers in sociology psychology social psychology and social demography all highly concerned with fostering an interdisciplinary perspective for the study of the human life course The contributions are organized along four major axes three of them substantive agency and structure transitions and biographical reconstructions and one methodological methodological innovations leaving ample leeway for the contributions to address the specific gains and difficulties of empirical interdisciplinary research within their particular domain The editors introduce the volume by discussing general features theoretical linkages and transversal substantive themes of interdisciplinarity in life course research Likewise the volume is ended by the editors conclusions based on the contributions they single out major challenges and difficulties for the interdisciplinary study of the life course together with some promising research meant to address such difficulties and improve current knowledge about the life course The volume speaks to both experienced scholars and graduate students of the life course Advanced scholars will benefit from the latest in life course research domains and from a comprehensive overview of life course methodologies Graduate students of the life course will find in the book an original introduction to many empirical aspects of life course research and to the application of innovative methods to various research settings as well as rich bibliographical references from the research literature in English German and French

The Baby Boomers Grow Up Susan Krauss Whitbourne, Sherry L. Willis, 2014-06-03 The goal of this volume is to examine development in middle age from the perspective of baby boomers a unique cohort in the United States defined as those individuals born from 1946 to 1962 This is the largest cohort ever to enter middle age in Western society and they currently represent approximately one third of the total U S population The Baby Boomers Grow Up provides contemporary and comprehensive perspectives of development of the baby boomer cohort as they proceed through midlife Baby boomers continue to exert a powerful impact on the media fiction movies and even popular music just as they were an imposing force in society from the time of their entry into youth As these individuals enter the years normally considered to represent midlife they are redefining how we as a society regard adults in their middle and later years This volume features several unique aspects First the literature reviewed focuses specifically on research relevant to baby boomers and their development as adults rather than a global perspective on middle age Second the volume takes into account the diversity within the boomer cohort such as social class race and education In addition quantitative and qualitative developmental changes occurring from the forties to the fifties and the sixties are considered Differences in leading and trailing edge boomers are likewise addressed Ideal for researchers in adult development and graduate seminars on adult development The Baby Boomers Grow Up will also appeal to adult educators human resource personnel health professionals and service providers and clinical psychologists and counselors

The Need for Theory Simon Biggs, Jon Hendricks, Ariela Lowenstein, 2020-11-25 The Need for Theory speaks to the burgeoning need for critical thinking in social gerontology The editors have brought together some of the foremost contributors to theoretical advances in the field This volume incorporates state of the art theorizing with a focus on selected topical areas facing gerontologists around the world Using their keen insights into substantive issues the contributors examine personal and structural changes affecting individuals over the life course Extolling the need for theory is not enough the contributors focus their insights on a panoply of substantive issues linking the personal with the political and with the structural parameters that shape the process of aging no matter where it occurs

Authenticity in Culture, Self, and Society J. Patrick Williams, 2016-12-05 Across sociology and cultural studies in particular the concept of authenticity has begun to occupy a central role yet in spite of its popularity as an ideal and philosophical value authenticity notably suffers from a certain vagueness with work in this area tending to borrow ideas from outside of sociology whilst failing to present empirical studies which centre on the concept itself Authenticity in Culture Self and Society addresses the problems surrounding this concept offering a sociological analysis of it for the first time in order to provide readers in the social and cultural sciences with a clear conceptualization of authenticity and with a survey of original empirical studies focused on its experience negotiation and social relevance at the levels of self culture and specific social settings Research Anthology on Supporting Healthy Aging in a Digital Society Management Association, Information Resources, 2022-02-04 In today's rapidly evolving society there has been an increase in technologies and systems available to support the elderly throughout various aspects of life. We have come a long way in the quality of life we can offer our aging populations in recent years due to these technological innovations, medical advancements, and research initiatives. However, further study of these developments is crucial to ensure they are utilized to their utmost potential in securing a healthier elderly population. The Research Anthology on Supporting Healthy Aging in a Digital Society discusses the current challenges of aging in the modern world as well as recent developments in medicine and technology that can be used to improve the quality of life of elderly citizens. Covering a wide range of topics such as smart homes, remote healthcare, and aging in place, this reference work is ideal for healthcare professionals, gerontologists, therapists, government officials, policymakers, researchers, academicians, practitioners, scholars, instructors, and students.

Communication and the Aging Process Lois M. Tamir, 2013-10-22 Communication and the Aging Process Interaction throughout the Life Cycle focuses on the process of development from infancy through old age, particularly noting the value of communication, social interaction, and social networks. The manuscript first offers information on development throughout the life cycle as well as models of development, crisis, and change, and methodology. The text then discusses communicative interaction and origins of communication, including interpersonal cognition, social interaction, caretaker-child interaction, communication between children and language development. The book surveys adolescence and adulthood, psychological characteristics of the aged, and social world of the aged. Personality and morale, retirement and widowhood, attitudes toward the aged, and norms and rules are discussed. The manuscript also takes a look at the social networks of the aged and communicative interaction and the aged. Concerns include family, neighbors, friends, misperceptions between generations, and thought process and communication. The text is a vital source of data for readers interested in the study of life cycle.

Women and Positive Aging Lisa Hollis-Sawyer, Amanda Dykema-Engblade, 2016-03-03 Women and Positive Aging: An International Perspective presents the noted research in the fields of psychology, gerontology, and gender studies, reflecting the increasingly popular and pervasive positive aging issues of women in today's society from different cohorts, backgrounds, and life situations. Each section describes a bridge between the theoretical aspects and practical applications of the theory that is consistent with the scientist-practitioner training model in psychology, including case studies and associated intervention strategies with older women in each chapter. In addition to incorporating current research on aging women's issues, each section provides the reader with background about the topic to give context and perspective. Examines a comprehensive range of issues for aging women. Details current research trends. Encompasses a holistic model of women's aging. Ranges from physical and mental health in response to aging changes to social relationships and sexuality. Presents a how-to put research into practice section in each chapter. Focuses on topical issues that are relevant to women wanting to optimize their life outcomes as they live on.

average longer than ever before Family, Self, and Society Philip A. Cowan, Dorothy Field, Donald A. Hansen, Arlene Skolnick, Guy E. Swanson, 2014-05-22 Any agenda for family research in the 1990s must take seriously a contextual approach to the study of family relationships The editors and contributors to this volume believe that the richness in family studies over the next decade will come from considering the diversity of family forms different ethnic groups and cultures different stages of family life as well as different historical cohorts Their goal is to make more explicit how we think about families in order to study them and understand them To illustrate the need for diversity in family studies examples are presented from new and old families majority and minority families American and Japanese families and intact and divorcing families This variety is intended to push the limits of current thinking not only for researchers but also for all who are struggling to live with and work with families in a time when family life is valued but fragmented and relatively unsupported by society's institutions Students and researchers interested in family development from the viewpoint of any of the social sciences will find this book of value Images of Aging Mike Featherstone, Andrew Wernick, 2003-09-02 We all have a finite life span We are born we get old and we die Given the universality of the ageing process it is remarkable that there is almost a complete absence of study of culture and self image of the middle aged and old Images of Ageing Cultural Representations of Later Life changes this The contributors discuss images of ageing which have come to circulate in the advanced industrial societies today They address themes such as body and self image in everyday interaction experience and identity on old age advertising and consumer culture images of the elderly images of ageing used by Government agencies in health education campaigns the diversity of historical representations of the elderly gender images of ageing images of senility and second childhood images of health illness and death Aging, Society, and the Life Course Leslie A. Morgan, Suzanne R. Kunkel, 2011-03-15 Doody's Score 91 4 Stars This book's unfading preoccupation with social context social processes and social structures distinguishes itself and greatly contributes to the discourse in gerontology The Gerontologist This is a comprehensive textbook for both undergraduate and graduate level courses detailing the impact of societal forces on the aging process The book focuses on the diversity of the older population examining it from micro macro perspectives in order to understand aging and the life course as social phenomena This latest edition examines significant changes in the field of social gerontology such as the paradigms of aging and the life course the baby boomer cohorts as they approach retirement and later life the growing interest in global aging and civic engagement This text encourages students to examine aging from personal familial community societal and global perspectives including both the positive and negative realities of aging Key Features Provides websites of interest at the end of each chapter Presents provocative essays on love sex music medicine and crime to further expand on chapter contents Provides review questions and key terms as study guides at the end of each chapter The Self in Health and Illness Frances Rapport, Paul Wainwright, 2016-07-06 This book contains a foreword by Elliot G Mishler professor of Social Psychology Department of Psychiatry Harvard Medical School Patients views of their identity change with illness as do health professionals views of them This book discusses how and why this happens and examines how more awareness of this phenomenon can lead to better care Providing examples from diverse clinical settings The Self in Health and Illness brings together writers from a range of backgrounds including health science anthropology sociology psychology nursing medical ethics and healthcare It considers the narrative self or constructions of identity and its place within healthcare and the medical humanities and assists in clarifying the understanding of self in the context of illness health and medicine An enlightening read for all doctors especially those with an interest in medical humanities this anthology is also invaluable for undergraduate and postgraduate students of medical humanities researchers in health sciences and medical ethics It will also be of great interest to medical anthropologists psychologists psychiatrists and other healthcare professionals If you ask people questions about their lives they tell stories that express some version of who they are Within the healthcare field narrative researchers from various health professions and social science disciplines have been particularly interested in the potential impact of disability and illness on patient identities What we find here is an array of quite systematic approaches to the complexities with which people narrate perform and possibly transform their identities through their stories This is a serious undertaking and the editors and authors of these papers treat it with deep respect for our common struggle to make sense of our lives by achieving identities we can live with Elliot G Mishler in the Foreword
