Dynamic Secularization William Sims Bainbridge,2017-05-11 This book discusses secularization arguing that it may be more complex and significant than is generally recognized Using a number of online exploration methods the author provides insights into how religion may be changing and how information technology might be energized in this process Working from the premise that the relationship between science and religion is complex the author demonstrates that while science has contradicted some specific religious beliefs science itself may have been facilitated by beliefs formed many centuries ago Science assists engineers in the development of powerful new technologies and asserts that the universe is based on a set of fundamental principles that can be understood by humans through the assistance of mathematics The challenging ideas discussed will benefit readers through sharing a variety of Internet based research methods and cultural discoveries The book provides a balance between quantitative methods illustrated by 24 tables of statistics and qualitative methods illustrated by 30 screenshots of computer generated virtual worlds Analysis interweaves with description creating a sense of involvement in the experience of exploring online realities at the same time as radical insights are shared LIFE COACH

The natural world can be viewed as a continuously changing complex system comprising variable units that do not conform to any stable plan Within this framework human evolution is not the story of the past that created Homo sapiens and then handed this account over to written history It is the ongoing process that shapes us now and will shape us in the future body and mind We must understand it in order to survive and be able to direct it to our advantage The Dynamic Human presents a general theory of how humans function as a multi individual system embedded in the natural world The authors employ a unified approach of systems theory to outline forces that direct ongoing human evolution and produce its outcomes in terms of the past present and future Readers will find a perspective on the human place in nature through a brief account of the past human evolution over 10 million years ago a discussion of the earliest appearance of humans some 2 million years ago and a description of the mechanisms of the changes in the gene pool of humans from generation to generation Understanding the forces involved in these mechanisms physical and mental growth and development may allow us to understand world better The Dynamic Human presents a simplified perspective on human evolution for all readers interested in a discourse on the origins nature and future of human beings Hypnosis in Academia Maurício S.
